FAR EAST FOES ACCEPT LEAGUE PLAN OF TRUCE

Stimson Tells Terms on Which China Fighting Will Cease.

BRIAND'S LONG WORK FOR PEACE SUCCESS

U. S. Tells Japan and China Terms Must Be Met in Good Faith.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Secretary Stimson wearily announced here last night the terms upon which Japan and China have agreed to cease hostilities in Manchuria and accept the commission of inquiry appointed by the council of the League of Nations. At the same time the Secretary issued a sharp reminder that the United States expects the two countries to carry out the terms of the truce in "good faith."

The United States also served notice on Japan, without specifically saying so, that the approval of the resolution by the United States was not to be construed as an endorsement of any action hitherto taken in Manchuria. This was interpreted here as American disapproval of the military activities of Japanese troops in Manchuria, which has caused the capitulation of such important Chinese cities as Mukden, Tsitsihar and the threatened attack on Chinchow, which was suddenly countermanded by the Japanese government after strongly worded announcement of the American Secretary of State.

Briand's Efforts Rewarded.

The acceptance by both China and Japan of the resolution yesterday in Paris, brought to a definite conclusion the patient and laborious efforts of the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand. In these negotiations the American delegate, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, scrupulously refrained from active participation in the deliberations. At the eleventh hour, however, when the definitive text of the agreement was ready, Dawes was invited to come to the French foreign office and the text of the agreement was read to him. He cabled the text to Secretary Stimson immediately afterward and the Secretary made it public yesterday.

The new proposal differs very slightly from the original draft of November 25. The changes that have been made seemed to be a mitigation of language which has been reported as "offensive" to the Japanese government. These changes are very unimportant and it was remarked here last night that there was some surprise that the two countries should have held out so long before accepting a proposition which is practically the same as the one they rejected a fortnight ago.

Five Member Commission.

The principal changes enlarge the membership of the commission of inquiry. This was originally fixed at three, and was ostensibly made to include an American, British and French member. However, some objections were made from other important countries like Germany and Italy and the committee has been enlarged to include two more. The personnel of the committee was not made public and it is believed that

Nicaraguan Canal Held Unnecessary

New Waterway Not Warranted at Present, Congress Is Told by Brown.

(Associated Press.)

The War Department told Congress yesterday a canal across Nicaragua between the Atlantic and Pacific was not warranted at present.

The recommendation, made in a letter written by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of Army engineers, said the "present traffic seeking transit through the Isthmus (of Panama) and the prospective increase in such traffic in the next few years do not require that any steps be taken now to provide further capacity at Panama."

Brown added: "A second canal would have important advantages, including a saving in time and increased dependability to shipping, and increase in trade and commerce and improvement in international relations, and added safety and speed in the mobilization of our naval forces in the event of a national emergency."

Slayer of Dance Girl Goes to Death in Chair

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 10 (U.P.).—Rudolph Duringer died in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison tonight on his twenty-sixth birthday anniversary. Duringer, a crony of Francis Crowley, the egocentric little killer who occupies a Sing Sing death cell, was executed for the murder of Virginia Brannen, a dance hall hostess.

The 260-pound Duringer, largest man ever to be executed here, walked shame-facedly to the electric chair, not saying a word. He was strapped in the chair at 11:03 p. m. and pronounced dead five minutes later.

Lenz Team Increases Lead in Bridge Match

Official System Pair Shows Greatest Point Score of Test in Third Night's Play; Culbertsons Deliberately Take Sets.

New York, N. Y. (Friday), Dec. 11 (A.P.).—The bridge marathoners were in a prolonged rubber as 1 o'clock this morning approached and the lead of Lenz and Jacoby was greater than at any time in the match. The Culbertsons were taking sets deliberately in an effort to save the sixteenth rubber of the series.

Lenz and Jacoby won three of the first five rubbers, leaving them with a plus of 2,025 and making the series rubbers stand, Lenz and Jacoby, 10, Culbertsons, 5.

The points of the fifteenth rubber of the match, a two-game affair of three hands, were Lenz and Pacoby, 1,120, Culbertsons, 0.

Culbertson was set two on a three-no-trump contract in the first hand of the match. It was hand 60 of the 150-rubber series and the first hand of rubber 11. Lenz and Jacoby increased their lead to 2,175.

The rubber standing at the start of play was: Lenz and Jacoby, 7; Culbertsons, 3.

Hand 61. Mrs. Culbertson made a three-spade contract. Net score: Lenz, 2,085.

Hand 62. Lenz was set three on a three-heart contract. Net score: Lenz, 1,935.

Hand 63. Lenz was set one with a four-heart contract. Net score: Lenz, 1,885.

Hand 64. Lenz went down four on a three-spade contract. Net score: Lenz, 1,685.

Hand 65. Jacoby was doubled on a contract for four hearts and was set two. Net score: Lenz, 1,485.

Hand 66. Jacoby was set two on a bid of four spades. Lenz, 1,385 net score.

Hand 67. Mrs. Culbertson made a game. She contracted for four hearts and made five. Net score, Lenz, 1,215.

Hand 68. Culbertson was set two in a three-no-trump contract, being vulnerable. Net score, Lenz, 1,515.

Hand 69. Lenz was set two on a three-heart contract. Lentz, 1,415 net score.

Hand 70. Culbertson fulfilled a contract for three no trump, making five and giving his side game and rubber and cutting the Lenz lead to 510.

SPAIN'S NEW HEAD IS ALCALA ZAMORA

Receives 362 Votes Out of Possible 466 in National Assembly.

Madrid, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Niceto Alcala Zamora, sometimes called "father of the Spanish republic," was elected first constitutional president of Spain by the National Assembly tonight.

He received 362 votes out of a possible 466. Some deputies cast blank ballots, a few divided their votes among five other leaders and the rest abstained from voting.

The president-elect remained away from the chamber during the voting, in which his election was virtually a foregone conclusion. He was informed of the result at his home, where he was besieged by a hundred friends, reporters and photographers.

There the first to congratulate him were his wife and his two grown daughters, who clung to his neck and wept with joy.

"I'll try not to be a dictator during my tenure," said the president-elect, a farmer's son in an unpressed suit, who will head the country ruled not so long ago as a monarchy by King Alfonso XIII.

The president-elect will take over the executive power in a gala inauguration tomorrow, replacing Provisional President Manuel Azana, who is expected to become premier in a new coalition cabinet.

It will be a national holiday as the president takes the oath of office, with planes flying overhead and troops parading in the capital, to mark the first day of a new constitutional government after more than eight years of dictatorships and provisional cabinets.

Don Alcala Zamora, who served as provisional president after Alfonso's overthrow, will wear the collar of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, cre-

Metropolitan Soprano Disappears From Hotel

New York, Dec. 10 (U.P.).—Santa Biondo, 28, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, disappeared from her hotel apartment a few hours before she was to have appeared in an afternoon performance. Private detectives are seeking her.

Friends told police she had suffered financial losses. Metropolitan officers were unable to account for her absence. She was to have sung Manuela in "La Notte Di Zoraima." A substitute was obtained immediately.

34 CABMEN SEIZED IN WAR ON CRUISING

Driving on Seventh Street Following Restriction Cause of Arrests.

A police drive to limit taxicab cruising was well under way last night with 34 cabmen arrested for driving in the latest restricted area—Seventh street northwest between Pennsylvania and New York avenues. Each of the drivers posted $5 collateral.

The taxicabs were ruled off Seventh street under the terms of a regulation recommended by Traffic Director W. A. Van Duzer some time ago and approved by the District Commissioners. After the customary 30 days' notice the regulation was to go into effect December 2.

Until last night special details of policemen were assigned to the area to warn the taxi drivers that the street was not open to them. Yesterday the warnings changed to pink tickets with the resulting crowded book at Traffic Bureau headquarters.

The regulation covering Seventh street is similar to that prohibiting taxicabs on F and G streets north-

Storms Menacing Atlantic Shipping

Various Craft Reported in Distress in Turbulent Seas Off Coast.

(Associated Press.)

Turbulent seas off the Atlantic coast tonight had small craft in dismay and the Coast Guard on the alert. To headquarters here came one report after another of craft in need of help.

Off Cape Lookout, Va., the barge Darien was reported to have slipped her tow from the tug Susan Moran and to be lost adrift. The cutter Pontchartrain put out in quest of her. The number of persons on board was unknown.

From the New York vicinity came word that the steamship Charlotte was aground 50 feet from the water's edge and an effort was planned at high tide to float her. The ship was reported lodged in 3 feet of sand, however.

Work for Post's Toy Fund Speeded as Yuletide Nears

Donors Urged to Hurry Sending of Money and Gifts So All Needy Children Can Be Remembered on Christmas Day.

Twelve shopping days only remain before Christmas!

Have you sent in your gift to the Christmas Toy Fund of The Washington Post?

If not, please send it at once, because the time is so short and The Washington Post is getting letters daily from those who will benefit from the fund asking it not to fail to provide the funds or toys with which to make happy the hearts of hundreds of needy Washington children on Christmas morning.

With only 12 shopping days left before Christmas the fund must be speeded up in order that enough is raised to meet the object—that of seeing that no little child on Christmas morning finds an empty stocking, where it had expected Santa Claus to be generous and thoughtful.

A lot more money must be on the way to this Post Christmas Toy Fund. For the people of Washington never disappointed a worthy cause and they will go "over the top" this time. Naturally, this appeal is not made to those who are in circumstances where every coin, even the smallest, counts in procuring the necessities of life. Such families can not spare even the few pennies needed to bring a Merry Christmas to their own little ones.

But the appeal is made to the more fortunate who have kept their jobs or their incomes and who can spare just a little to aid those who have been overtaken by misfortune.

Gratitude for the thoughtfulness which was behind the establishment of this Post Toy Fund again this year was expressed again and again by officers of the social agencies through which The Washington Post

POWERS FOUND GUILTY BY JURY; WILL BE HANGED

Verdict Is Returned in Only One Hour and 50 Minutes.

1,300 ARE PRESENT AS FINDING IS READ

Defense Counsel Weeps and Will Argue Tomorrow for New Trial.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Harry F. Powers, Lothario of the West Virginia hills, was convicted today of murder in the first degree for the "matrimonial racket" slaying of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee. The verdict carries a mandatory sentence of hanging.

It took 1 hour and 50 minutes for the twelve farmers and small-town business men to decide that the man who wooed dozens of women by mail should go to the gallows for the first of five killings he is accused of perpetrating in the subterranean death chambers of his windowless, soundproof garage at a place paradoxically called Quiet Dell.

J. Ed Law, defense counsel, made a motion to have the verdict set aside. Arguments for a new trial will be heard Saturday.

The jury deliberated in a dressing room in the basement of the town opera house, where the trial was held in order to accommodate the hundreds of townspeople who for months had been singing songs, reading books and playing phonograph records about the "Bluebeard Slayings at Quiet Dell."

Displays Little Concern.

Above the jury, in the center of a brilliantly lighted stage, sat the man whose doom they were sealing in a little brown verdict envelope.

If Powers had any but a passing concern in what was being decided downstairs, he hid it perfectly.

His attorney, who had wept and clutched a table to support himself as he begged the jurors for "mercy—as he begged the jurors for "mercy—sympathy," was the only one on the

He paced back and forth before the 1,300 spectators whose eyes were fixed upon him and his gum-chewing client.

Conversed in Whisper.

Whenever he sat down, Powers leaned over and engaged him in an earnest conversation conducted in whispers, but it was not the talk of a man seeking consolation. Even when the tears had rolled down the cheeks of his silver-haired lawyer, the man branded as "one of the worst mass-slayers the world has ever known" maintained his immobile expression. He seemed puzzled by Law's display of emotion.

The spectators, who have fought ever since the trial opened for seats in the orchestra pit and balcony, sat in quiet expectancy for a few minutes after the jury retired. When an hour had passed without a report from the basement dressing room, they started sending out for sandwiches. Messenger boys dashed up and down the aisles with paper bags as the crowd settled back, prepared for a long vigil.

Outside, crowds milled about in the roped-off streets. They swarmed up the alley leading to the stage exit, out of which Powers had been led twice a day to be photographed, stared at and whisked away under heavy guard to the jail.

Hush Falls Over House.

When the jury filed back to the stage a hush fell over the Opera House. Thirteen hundred necks craned forward. Thirty reporters from all parts of the country, who had occupied the boxes and first floor of the orchestra pit all week were busy with their pencils.

"Have you arrived at a verdict?" the court clerk asked.

"We have," rang out the clear voice of Nathan Richards, a tall farmer.

"Hearken to your verdict," the clerk replied, as he opened the envelope.

Powers was chewing his gum in the same slow, methodical way he did all through the trial. One hand

Boy Kills Father To Protect Mother

Levi P. Bell, Purcellville, Slain by Son, 10, During Quarrel With Wife.

Leesburg, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Levi P. Bell, 36, lies dead at his home in Purcellville, near here, the victim of a bullet fired into his heart by his 10-year-old son, Preston.

The boy told County Coroner John A. Gibson he shot his father to prevent him from killing his mother during a violent quarrel in the kitchen of their home today. The mother corroborated the story.

After Coroner Gibson had expressed the belief that the killing was justifiable, Commonwealth's Attorney John A. Galleher expressed doubt that an indictment would be sought against the lad. Preston, in a highly nervous condition, was in bed tonight.

Driven from the kitchen by the father, who hurled a dishpan at him Preston was said to have returned with the rifle to find the father choking his mother.

HOOVER'S WAR DEBT CUT PLAN AROUSES STORM IN CONGRESS; EUROPE PLEASED BY MESSAGE

London Sees U.S. Taking World Interest in Money Crisis.

WORDS OF PRESIDENT WELCOMED BY ITALY

Paris Foreign Office Holds Proposals of Utmost Importance.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—President Hoover's moratorium message was accepted in high parliamentary circles tonight as a sign of hope for a world almost engulfed in an economic morass.

The view expressed by these commentators was that the message implied the United States now is taking a world-wide attitude toward current financial problems.

Moreover, the belief was voiced that the message was evidence the United States, while not committing itself on the subject of reparations and war debts, undoubtedly recognizes that these questions lie at the roots of the world's economic problems.

Financial Circles Pleased.

Other political and financial circles expressed pleasure at his statement that none of the debtor nations ever had suggested cancellation of war debts owing to the United States. It was pointed out the cardinal point of Great Britain's attitude was that no official move for cancellation would be initiated here.

Mr. Hoover's phrase: "We will be consistent if we take into account the present abnormal situation," was viewed as the salient feature of his message. There was keen speculation as to just what he has in mind toward adjusting the debt situation to present conditions in Europe.

Meanwhile, it was emphasized that Great Britain in common with other countries would be put in an embarrassing situation if the American Congress does not ratify the Hoover moratorium by December 15, on which date she would have to find £40,000,000 as her share of the payment.

Message Welcomed In Italy.

Rome, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Italy tonight welcomed the tenor of President Hoover's war debts message and government quarters digested eagerly the first dispatches pertaining to it.

Some doubt was expressed as to whether his words should be taken to mean an extension of the one year moratorium, but it was pointed out that if such was his meaning Italy would agree thereto as spontaneously as she did last July

It has been repeatedly said the Italian Government would not suggest cancellation of war debts to the United States or their postponement, but would gladly follow any step taken in this direction by America.

Official Italy was inclined to regard somewhat dubiously President Hoover's statement: "Reparations are wholly a European problem with which we have no relation." The belief here is that debts and reparations are more or less inexplicably related—that reparations are indeed a European problem but they are linked with debts payable to America.

Important, French View.

Paris, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—President Hoover's moratorium message to Congress was treated with the utmost importance at the French foreign office tonight, but comment was declined until it had been discussed by the cabinet.

Unofficial circles, on the presumption that Mr. Hoover was proposing a ten-year partial war debts moratorium, expressed the opinion that such a move would have an immense easing influence on the international financial situation.

With Germany claiming she is crushed economically and unable to meet payments either on reparations

Knife Is Displayed In Senator's Office

Woman Taken to Gallinger Hospital for Mental Observation.

The display of a knife in the office of Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, yesterday caused the arrest of Mrs. Katherine M. Chadwick, 45 years old, of McKeesport Pa., who stopped in the senator's office to file a claim against the Government.

One of Senator Davis' clerks talked with the woman, who warned the clerk not "to get rough" with her as she was armed. The woman then exhibited a 10-inch knife in her stocking. The clerk told Mrs. Chadwick to have a seat while she obtained the money for her. Senator Davis was in an adjoining office.

A Department of Justice agent and Mrs. Dorothy Douglas, of the Women's Bureau, placed Mrs. Chadwick under arrest. She was booked for mental observation and was taken to Gallinger Hospital.

Rome, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi delivered his report on his American visit to the Senate today to the accompaniment of an almost unprecedented display of enthusiasm and approval on the part of Premier Mussolini.

The foreign minister addressed the Senate for twenty minutes and at his side stood the premier, smiling and nodding approvingly at each telling point. At the conclusion of the speech Mussolini led the applause, leaned over to the minister, and said "Very good!"

Grandi told the Senate that "one of the surest courses" for the rehabilitation of the world is provided by the Borah Hits SchemeBared as President Pleads Moratorium.

WILL NEVER SUPPORT SLASH, WOOD AVERS

Senate Adopts Johnson's Resolution for Inquiry on Foreign Loans.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Looking beyond the one-year moratorium, President Hoover sees the necessity of "temporary adjustments" of the $11,000,000,000 debt owed the United States by the nations allied against Germany in the World War.

The President told Congress as much yesterday in a special message urging quick approval of the one-year moratorium on war debts which went into effect July 1 last.

The President's debt policy met immediate resistance on Capitol Hill, and it promises to precipitate a major battle in the Seventy-second Congress.

Cites Economic Emergency.

President Hoover, in his message to Congress yesterday, said that a number of countries were unable to pay the United States because of the "economic emergency." Therefore, he added, it is "useless to blind ourselves to the fact" that there must be "further temporary adjustments."

The President did not explain just what he meant by "temporary adjustments," but inasmuch as he recommended the re-creation of the World War Foreign Debt Commission, Capitol Hill assumed that he had a temporary reduction of the allied debt in mind.

Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, was quick to oppose the President's proposal, contending that an adjustment on "a basis of capacity to pay would wipe out the debts."

Republicans Also Oppose.

In the House, where an oratorical free-for-all has been going on for two days, Republicans as well as Democrats expressed disapproval of downward revision of the allied debt.

Representative Will Wood (Republican), of Indiana, a stanch supporter of the President, said:

"As far as I am conccerned, I will never vote for a dollar of cancellation or reduction."

There was every indication at the Capitol that this early shower of criticism ultimately will become a veritable storm.

The President's debt policy was outlined to Congress at about the same time Ambassador Paul Claudel, of France, was telling Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson that his country expected the United States to scale down allied war debts to just as great an extent as the allies scaled down German reparations.

German Crisis Held Extreme.

In Basel, Switzerland, the Young plan advisory committee was told that Germany was in a desperate financial condition.

In Rome Dino Grandi, the Italian foreign minister, was telling the Italian Senate that the Hoover moratorium was "the first real act of international cooperation."

So far as the Hoover one-year moratorium is concerned, this is certain to be approved. Approval, however, will not come until after December 15, the day on which several foreign nations are scheduled to make payments to this country on their debts.

Ratification Promised.

Speaker John Garner yesterday announced that the House would not take up the moratorium resolution until December 15, and later in the day Representative James W. Collier (Democrat), of Mississippi, chairman of the ways and means committee, called at the White House to pass this information along to President Hoover.

However, Representative Collier assured the President that the moratorium would be ratified before Congress starts on its Christmas recess.

Questioned by White House reporters about the President's recommendation with regard to debt revision, Mr. Collier said that this was a "horse of another color."

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, said

CRUSADERS HANDICAP DRY ACT, SAYS CHIEF

Woodcock Tells Wet Group It Makes His Task Harder; Views Exchanged.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, Federal prohibition director, and the Crusaders, energetic organized foe of the dry law, matched wits last night in a spirited and protracted skirmish on questions and answers that developed after the Federal dry head had summed up before the group the history of prohibition enforcement and the Government's plans for the future.

In his prepared speech Mr. Woodcock acknowledged to the Crusaders that their efforts were making his task more difficult; but recognized their full privileges to agitate against the law. Then for near two hours the meeting room in the Carlton Hotel resounded to keenly fashioned questions by the assembled Crusaders and well thought-out but prompt answers by the prohibition head.

One of the first questions fired at Mr. Woodcock—"Do you regard State cooperation in enforcement as essential?"—drew an emphatic "Yes, under

Japanese Premier To Quit, Is Report

Cabinet Is Due to Follow Baron Wakatsuki Out of Office.

Tokyo (Friday), Dec. 11 (A.P.).—Baron Reijiro Wakatsuki decided to resign today as prime minister of Japan, the newspaper Asahi said, and his cabinet was expected to follow him out of office.

Opponents of the prime minister have accused the government of lacking a definite foreign policy and expressed dissatisfaction with its financial policy.

The Wakatsuki cabinet, which was formed on April 14, went into a session today with indications that all the ministers might resign unless Kenzo Adachi, home minister, stepped out. The home minister, leader of an influential faction of the Minseito (government) party, had proposed a coalition government, in which the portfolios would be shared with the Seiyukai opposition party.

GARNER TO TAKE UP MAPES REPORT NOW

Immediate Action Pledged on District Taxes Recommendation.

Immediate consideration of the Mapes committee report, vitally affecting future fiscal relations between District and Federal governments, and threatening additional tax burdens on District residents, was promised yesterday by Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas.

This means the special committee's recommendations will be received and acted on by the House before the District appropriations bill is reported out of committee—in time to influence House action on the latter.

It is especially significant in view of the fact that the District budget of $47,331,919, as forwarded by the President to Congress Wednesday, is based on an anticipated Federal contribution of $9,500,000, in which lump sum the Mapes committee will probably recommend a reduction.

As the District appropriations bill went to Congress it provided for a tax of $1.70 for every $100 of assessed valuation in real estate or tangible personal property. It is possible the Mapes committee report will destroy that basis.

The report will not be submitted to the House before Tuesday, Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, chairman of the special committee on District and Federal fiscal relations, said yesterday.

Speaker Garner's statement indicates it will be promptly disposed of, promtpness that is not always accorded matters affecting the District.

"The Mapes committee is the only committee ready to report," was the way Mr. Garner put it to the press. "So in all probability we will take up its report first."

Mr. Mapes yesterday declined to comment on speculation that the re-

American Sentenced To Death in Ireland

Armagh, Ireland, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Eddie Cullens, a naturalized American citizen, was sentenced to death today upon his conviction of the murder of Acimet Musa, a Turk, who was a companion of Zara Agha, reputed to be the oldest man in the world.

Musa's nude body was found in a field near Carrickfergus, and Cullens was arrested as the slayer.

1,500 Crowd White House For Diplomatic Reception

Unusual Brilliancy Marks First State Function of Season; Scions of Former Administrations Are Greeted With Envoys and Their Wives.

President and Mrs. Hoover greeted more than 1,500 of the country's most distinguished men and women last night at the first state reception of this season, given in honor of the Diplomatic Corps. Time was when the diplomatic reception was a small and stately affair, when the great rooms of the old mansion were not filled and every one had time and opportunity to chat with nearly every one else. But not so now. There were guests from many other circles and scores of the old resident set, members of Washington's smart society.

The old mansion never looked more lovely than it did last night, with a particularly simple arrangement of gorgeous blooms in every room and banks of them in the red corridor. The blue room had white and pale pink chrysanthemums, the green parlor had tall bunches of white chrysanthemums and stevia and the red parlor had white, and a few red roses. The east room, where the company danced for more than half an hour at the end of the reception, had stately bunches of splendid chrysanthemums in the vases and palms in every corner.

The company had echoes of former administrations, as White House receptions usually do. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, and his daughter represented a famous administration in [illegible] when there was no dancing in the White House. He and his daughter both were among the dancers last night, as were the great-granddaughters of President Benjamin Harrison, Miss Edythe Reisinger, of Greenwich, Conn., granddaughter of the late Mrs. James Robert McKee, and Miss Mary Virginia Williams, granddaughter of

DEMOCRATS FAVOR BONDS IN TAX FIGHT

Borrowing to Meet Deficit Wanted Instead of Huge Increase in Levies.

(Associated Press.)

Modification of the administration tax increase program is under consideration by the congressional Democrats whose "policy" committee will meet Tuesday.

Informal conferences among party leaders who must initiate the new revenue legislation in the House yesterday indicated they were shying away from some of the special new sales taxes and high income rates asked by Secretary Mellon.

Instead of the $920,000,000 desired by the administration through new levies, the Democrats are inclined to raise a lesser amount. They believe another bond issue can be floated to meet the impending deficit.

The stern opposition of Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, to a retroactive application of the new income rates on the 1931 income may result in party efforts to eliminate this feature of the Mellon plan.

Consideration of the administration's tax increase plan was fixed yesterday for some time after the new year by Chairman Collier, of the House ways and means committee.

"We will hardly complete organization by this week end," the Mississippian said. "Then, the moratorium should come first. The committee cannot get down to work on taxes until some time in January."

A staunch administration supporter—Treadway, of Massachusetts—told the House yesterday he was not at all convinced income tax exemptions should be put as low as the President recommended.

Treadway, a ranking Republican on the ways and means committee, which must frame any revenue legislation, added that he was "not at all ready to commit myself on the excise taxes in Secretary Mellon's program."

Early in his remarks, however, Treadway said the best tax bill the Democrats could adopt would closely approximate the President's plan.

Thursday, December 10.

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 2:50 p. m. until noon on Monday.

Received a special message from the President on foreign affairs in which he urged "temporary adjustment" of the allied debts to this country.

Deadlock over election of president pro tempore continued with no candidate receiving a majority on any of the ballots.

Adopted the resolution of Senator Johnson (Republican), of California, providing for an investigation of the holdings of foreign securities in this country.

Interstate commerce committee approved the Couzens resolution for investigation of the railroad situation.

Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, attacked the administration for its failure to call an international silver conference.

Study of the Reconstruction Corporation plan was charged to a subcommittee of the banking committee.

Special unemployment insurance committee resumed hearings.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:15 p. m. until noon Friday.

Received the President's message on the debt moratorium.

Representative Collier (Democrat), of Mississippi, who will be chairman of the ways and means committee, announced action on the moratorium could not be had before December 15, the date the next payments are due.

Representative Rayburn (Democrat), of Texas, introduced a bill putting railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Debated the President's message, with Democrats and Republicans speaking against debt reduction.

Representative Crail (Republican), of California, introduced a bill providing for an embargo on oil imports.

Speaker Garner announced that the report of the Mapes committee on fiscal relations of the District would receive prompt consideration.

Representative Mapes (Republican), of Michigan, chairman of the fiscal relations committee, announced he would submit the committee report and accompanying proposed legislation not later than Tuesday.

Confession Is Alleged In Ultima Thule Deaths

Idabel, Okla., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—After offering testimony that Charles Draper had confessed slaying three men near Ultima Thule, Ark., after his arrest and had asked only that he be allowed to live long enough to see his baby, then unborn, the prosecution rested late today in Draper's murder trial.

Rex Chandler, Broken Bow hardware dealer, testified he visited Draper in jail shortly after his arrest and Draper told him, after admitting the crime, that he expected to die in the electric chair, but wanted his execution postponed until after birth of the infant.

or private debts, it was believed the Hoover initiative would be helpful in lightening the Nation's demands on that country.

France has not asked the reduction of her debts to the United States, but has taken the position that any reduction of reparations from Germany should entail an equivalent scaling-down of war debt payments to the United States.

Complete Text of President Hoover's Message To Congress on War Debts and Foreign Relations

The text of President Hoover's message on war debts and foreign relations is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

In my message of the 8th instant I stated that I should address the Congress at greater length upon our foreign affairs.

World War Debt Postponement.

With the support of a large majority of the individual members of the Senate and House, I informed the governments concerned last June that——

"The American Government proposes the postponement during one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts, reparations and relief debts both principal and interest, of course not including obligations of governments held by private parties. Subject to confirmation by Congress, the American Government will postpone all payments upon the debts of foreign governments to the American Government payable during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on intergovernmental debts owing the important creditor powers."

In making this proposal, I also publicly stated:

"The purpose of this action is to give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world and to help free the recuperative forces already in motion in the United States from retarding influences from abroad.

"The world-wide depression has affected the countries of Europe more severely than our own. Some of these countries are feeling to a serious extent the drain of this depression on national economy. The fabric of intergovernmental debts, supportable in normal times, weighs heavily in the midst of this depression.

"From a variety of causes arising out of the depression, such as the fall in the price of foreign commodities and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability abroad, there is an abnormal movement of gold into the United States which is lowering the credit stability and in a measure are the cause of of many foreign countries. These and the other difficulties abroad diminish buying power for our exports our continued unemployment and continued lower prices to our farmers.

"Wise and timely action should contribute to relieve the pressure of these adverse forces in foreign countries and should assist in the reestablishment of confidence, thus forwarding political peace and economic stability in the world.

"Authority of the President to deal with this problem is limited, as this action must be supported by the Congress. It has been assured the cordial support of leading members of both parties in the Senate and the House. The essence of this proposition is to give time to permit debtor governments to recover their national prosperity. I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interest and be good neighbors.

"I wish to take this occasion also to frankly state my views upon our relations to German reparations and the debts owed to us by the allied governments of Europe. Our Government has not been a party to, or exerted any voice in determination of, reparation obligations. We purposely did not participate in either general reparations or the division of colonies or property. The repayment of debts due to us from allies for the advance for war and reconstruction were settled upon a basis not contingent upon German reparations or related thereto. Therefore, reparations is necessarily wholly a European problem with which we have no relation.

"I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us. World confidence would not be enhanced by such action. None of our debtor nations have ever suggested it. But as the basis of the settlement of these debts was the capacity under normal conditions of the debtor to pay, we should be consistent with our own policies and principles if we take into account the abnormal situation now existing in the world. I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay, and it is our view that broad vision requires that our Government should recognize the situation as it exists.

"This course of action is entirely consistent with the policy which we have hitherto pursued. We are not involved in the discussion of strictly European problems, of which the payment of German reparations is one. It represents our willingness to make a contribution to the early restoration of world prosperity in which our own people have so deep an interest.

"I wish further to add that while this action has no bearing on the conference for limitation of land armaments to be held next February, inasmuch as the burden of competitive armaments has contributed to bring about this depression, we trust that by this evidence of our desire to assist we shall have contributed to the good will which is so necessary in the solution of this major question."

All the important creditor governments accepted this proposal. The necessary agreements among them have been executed, and creditor governments have foregone the receipt of payments due them since July 1, 1931.

The effect of this agreement was instantaneous in reversing the drift toward general economic panic and has served to give time to the peoples of those countries to readjust their economic life. The action taken was necessary. I am confident it commends itself to the judgment of the American people.

Payments due to the United States Government from many countries, both on account of principal and interest, fall due on December 15th. It is highly desirable that a law should be enacted before that date authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the Presidents, to postpone all payments due us on account of debts owed by foreign governments to the United States Government during the year ending June 30, 1932, and to provide for their payment over a 10-year period, beginning July 1, 1933.

As we approach the new year it is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life. It is useless to blind ourselves to an obvious fact. Therefore it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments.

The Congress has shared with the Executive in the past the consideration of questions arising from these debts. I am sure that it will commend itself to the Congress, that the legislative branch of the Government should continue to share this responsibility. In order that we should be in position to deal with the situation, I recommend the re-creation of the World War Foreign Debt Commission, with authority to examine such problems as may arise in connection with these debts during the present economic emergency, and to report to the Congress its conclusions and recommendations.

Disarmament.

The United States has accepted an invitation to take part in the world disarmament conference which convenes on February 2 at Geneva. The efforts of this conference will be in line with the endeavors in which the American Government has taken a leading part beginning with The Hague conference in 1899. Up to the present time the record of achievement has been almost entirely in the field of naval disarmament. It is to be hoped that further progress can be made in reduction of naval arms and that limitation and reduction so urgently needed can be extended to land arms.

The burden of taxes to support armament is greater today than before the Great War, and the economic instability of the world is definitely due in part to this cause and the fears which these huge armaments at all times create. No discouragements should be permitted to turn the world from sane and reasonable limitation of arms.

With a view to establishing an atmosphere of confidence for the opening of this world disarmament conference, more than 40 governments, including all the principal military and naval powers, have joined in accepting the principle of one-year armaments truce. This truce, which is the outgrowth of a proposal advanced last September by the foreign minister of Italy, is designed to prevent the expansion of armaments program during the coming months in the hope of removing the threat of a sudden revival of competition in arms before and during the conference. These steps were fully approved by our War and Navy Departments.

Manchuria.

We have been deeply concerned over the situation in Manchuria. As parties to the Kellogg-Briand pact and to the nine power treaty, we have a responsibility in maintaining the integrity of China and a direct interest with other nations in maintaining peace here.

When this controversy originated in September the League of Nations was in session and China appealed to the council of that body which at once undertook measures of conciliation between China and Japan. Both China and Japan have participated in these proceedings before the council ever since. Under the Kellogg-Briand pact all of the signatories, including China and Japan, have covenanted to seek none but pacific means in the settlement of their disputes. Thus the ultimate purpose of proceedings under this section of the Kellogg-Briand pact and of conciliation proceedings by the league covenant coincide. It seemed, therefore, both wise and appropriate rather to aid and advise with the league and thus have unity of world effort to maintain peace than to take independent action. In all negotiations, however, the Department of State has maintained complete freedom of judgment and action as to participation in any measures which the league might finally be determined upon.

Immediately after the outbreak of the trouble this Government advised both Japan and China of its serious interest. Subsequently it communicated its views to both governments regarding their obligations under the Kellogg-Briand Pact. In this action we were joined by other nations signatory of the pact. This Government has consistently and repeatedly by diplomatic representations indicated its unremitting solicitude that these treaty obligations be respected. In the recurring efforts of the nations to bring about a peaceful settlement this Government has realized that the exercise of the utmost patience was desirable, and it is believed that public opinion in this country has appreciated the wisdom of this restraint.

At present a resolution is pending before the meeting at Paris, with hopes of passage, under which Japan and China will agree to take no initiative which might lead to renewed conflict; in which Japan has reiterated its intention to withdraw the Japanese troops to the railway zone as soon as lives and property of Japanese nationals in Manchuria can be adequately protected; and under which both nations agree to a neutral commission to meet on the ground, to which commission all matters in dispute can be referred for investigation and report.

St. Lawrence Waterway.

Conversations were begun between the Secretary of State and the Canadian Minister at Washington on November 14 looking to the framing of a treaty for the development of the St. Lawrence seaway. The negotiations are continuing. I am hopeful that an agreement may result within a reasonable time enabling us to begin work on this great project, which will be of much importance economically to Canada and to the United States.

Visits of M. Laval and Signor Grandi.

The president of the Council of Ministers of France, M. Laval, visited Washington in October in order to discuss problems of outstanding world interest in the solution of which it was felt that the two countries would be of assistance. The informal and cordial conversations served to bring into relief the respective positions of the two nations.

The visit in November of the royal Italian minister for foreign affairs also afforded an opportunity for a cordial exchange of views respecting the many world problems in which this Government and the government of Italy are interested.

It was not the purpose of these meetings to engage in any commitments or to conclude agreements. However, the visits of M. Laval and Signor Grandi, together with the various meetings of statesmen in Europe and the visit of the Secretary of State to European countries, have brought about valuable understanding of the nature of the problems confronting different governments which should aid in their solution.

Nicaragua.

In compliance with the agreement made in May, 1927, the Nicaraguan government requested supervision by an electoral commission from the United States of the congressional elections held in 1930. This year a member of the commissions of 1928 and 1930 was sent to Nicaragua as an observer during the election of municipal authorities in order that, on the basis of his observations, it might be possible to arrange the many necessary details of the supervision of the 1932 presidential election in Nicaragua.

Armed forces of the United States maintained in Nicaragua have been reduced to the minimum deemed necessary to the training of the Nicaraguan constabulary and the rendering of appropriate support for such instruction. It is proposed to withdraw completely American armed forces from Nicaragua after their presidential election in 1932.

Nicaragua suffered a terrible disaster in the destruction of Managua, the capital, by earthquake and fire in March last. With their usual generosity the American people, through the Red Cross, went whole-heartedly to the assistance of the stricken country. United States marines and engineers of the War Department, who were in the country making a survey of the proposed canal route, joined in rendering service. The American Legation Building was destroyed with all its contents, but the minister and his staff continued to carry on their official duties and worked ceaselessly in the face of unusual hardships. The Nicaraguan government has expressed its deep gratitude for the aid rendered.

Haiti.

Substantial progress has been made in carrying out the program for the withdrawal of our activities in Haiti recommended by the commission which, with the support of the Congress, made an investigation of Haitian affairs in 1930, and by its good offices laid the foundation for the present popularly elected government of that republic.

After protracted negotiations an accord was reached with the Haitian government on August 5 providing for the return to Haitian control of important government services heretofore carried on under American supervision by virtue of general obligations arising through the provisions of our treaty with Haiti. In accordance with this agreement, the Haitian government on October 1 assumed definitely the administration and control of the department of public works, the sanitary service and the technical service of agriculture which includes the industrial educational system. All American personnel was withdrawn from these services. To minimize the possibility of epidemics, and in order that the health of the American troops and officials still stationed in Haiti might be adequately protected, the accord provided that an American scientific mission, consisting of three American naval officers and six hospital corps men, should be charged with the control of sanitation in the cities of Port au Prince and Cape Haitien.

The accord makes appropriate provision for the continuance of adequate financial control and assistance on the part of our Government. The liberty of action, both of the Government of the United States and the government of Haiti with respect to questions of financial administration, is, of course, limited. In this connection it must be borne in mind that investors have supplied capital desired by Haiti and that securities have been issued to them on the faith and credit of the provisions of that treaty and the American financial control which it provided during the life of the bonds.

Bolivia and Paraguay.

In 1929 the Government of the United States, together with the governments of Cuba, Colombia, Mexico and Uruguay, formed the commission on inquiry and conciliation, Bolivia-Paraguay, which had the good fortune of being able to terminate an international incident which for a time threatened to cause war between the countries involved. The five neutral governments then offered their good offices to Bolivia and Paraguay, with a view to furthering a settlement of their difficulties. This offer was accepted in principle. I am happy to state that representatives of both countries are now meeting in Washington, with the hope of concluding a pact of nonaggression between them.

Arbitration of the Boundary Dispute Between Guatemala and Honduras.

It has been the privilege of this Government to lend its good offices on several occasions in the past to the settlement of boundary disputes between the American republics. One of the most recent occasions upon which the disinterested services of this Government were requested was in connection with the settlement of the dispute which for almost a century has been outstanding between the Republics of Gautemala and Honduras with respect to their common boundary. Conferences extending over a period of some months were held in 1930 in the Department of State, and eventually on July 16, 1930, a treaty was signed submitting the question to arbitration, and there was also signed a supplementary convention providing for the delimitation of the boundary after the arbitral tribunal hands down its award. Ratifications were exchanged on October 15, 1931. The tribunal, which will meet in Washington, will be presided over by the Chief Justice of the United States, who has set December 15, 1931, as the date for the first meeting.

Mexico.

The period for hearings before the General and Special Claims Commissions between this country and Mexico expired in August, 1931. Pursuant to a resolution of the Senate under date of February 28, 1931, and under instructions from the Department of State, the American Ambassador at Mexico City is carrying on negotiations with the Mexican government looking to the renewal of the activities of the commissions, in order that the claims of American citizens still pending may be heard and adjudicated.

The governments of the United States and Mexico have approved in principle certain engineering plans submitted by the International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico, for the rectification of the Rio Grande in the vicinity of El Paso, Tex., to prevent periodical floods in that region. Negotiations are being carried on between the two governments in an effort to reach an agreement by which this important international project may be undertaken.

Treaties and Conventions Before the Senate.

There have been transmitted to the Senate, from time to time, treaties and conventions which have failed during recent sessions to obtain that body's consideration or final decision. Inasmuch as these treaties affect numerous phases of private and public endeavor, I earnestly commend their early conclusion to the attention of the Congress.

In the past session of the Congress I transmitted to the Senate protocols providing for adherence by the United States to the Permanent Court of International Justice. Upon that occasion I expressed my views fully not only of the wisdom of such action, but that the safeguards against European entanglements stipulated for by the Senate had been in effect secured and the interests of the United States protected. I need not repeat that for over twelve years every President and every Secretary of State has urged this action as a material contribution to the pacific settlement of controversies among nations and a further assurance against war.

By consideration of legislation during its last session, the Congress informed itself thoroughly regarding the merits of the Copyright Convention signed at Berlin on November 13, 1908. I hope that necessary legislation will be enacted during this Congress which will make it possible for further consideration to be given to the Copyright Convention.

The Sockeye Salmon Fisheries Treaty, entered into with Canada to afford protection to the industry, which was signed on May 26, 1930, merits the attention of the Senate during the present session.

The United States sent a delegation to the conference on safety of life at sea, which was held in London in 1929. The convention, which was signed by the more important maritime nations of the world on May 31, 1929, has unified the standards of safety in accordance with modern developments of engineering science and in compliance with the governments' obligation to their citizens to reduce the perils of travel to a minimum by requiring high efficiency in seamanship.

The convention for the supervision of the international trade in arms and ammunition and in implements of war, signed at Geneva, June 17, 1925, represents another of the steps taken in the general field of restriction of armament. It has been ratified unconditionally by some nations, conditionally by others. With the added impetus which ratification by the United States would lend to such a move, it is quite possible that the fourteen ratifications necessary by treaty stipulation would be received to bring the convention into force.

Among the other treaties and conventions which remain before the Senate for its consideration and of no less importance in their respective fields are a treaty regarding consular agents of American states (sixth international conference of American states, Havana, 1928); a treaty relating to maritime neutrality with American states (sixth international conference of American states, Havana, 1928); the general treaty of inter-American arbitration, signed at Washington January 5, 1929; the convention relating to prisoners of war, signed at Geneva on July 27, 1929; a convention signed on the same date for the amelioration of the condition of wounded and sick of armies in the field (the Red Cross convention); and the convention for the unification of certain rules relating to bills of lading for the carriage of goods by sea, signed at Brussels on behalf of the United States on June 23, 1925.

New Treaties and Conventions.

Since my message to the Seventy-second Congress and by virtue of the power vested in the office of the Chief Executive, I have continued to commission representatives of this Government to negotiate treaties with the representatives of other countries which affect the amicable, political, commercial, and juridical relations of this country, as well as treaties dealing with humanitarian matters.

Important treaties and conventions which have been signed recently by representatives of this Government are as follows:

1. Treaty of arbitration and conciliation with Switzerland, signed February 16, 1931.

2. Treaty modifying the conciliation convention with Italy (Bryan Peace Treaty), signed September 23, 1931.

3. Extradition treaty with Greece, signed May 6, 1931.

4. Protocol relating to military obligations in certain cases of double nationality, multilateral, signed December 31, 1930.

5. Treaty of friendship, commerce, and consular rights with Poland, signed June 15, 1931.

6. Treaty with reference to establishment and sojourn with Turkey, signed October 28, 1931.

These treaties and conventions will be transmitted to the Senate in due course, with a view to obtaining its advice and consent to ratification.

Bankruptcy Law Survey Is Urged

Representative Sumners to Sponsor Investigation at This Session.

(Associated Press.)

A congressional investigation into the operation and administration of the bankruptcy laws will be sponsored by Representative Sumners, of Texas, prospective chairman of the House judiciary committee.

Sumners said there had been many complaints that merchants receive but a small fraction of a bankrupt's assets.

"We had one committee to investigate the law's operation and administration, but little progress was made," he said.

"We should determine what becomes of the assets. The creditors should have better protection."

V. P. I. Football Coach Weds Junior Student

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Orville E. Neal, head football coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, was married here this morning to Miss Elsa Virginia Gudheim, a member of the V. P. I. junior class.

The ceremony, which was quiet, came as a surprise to the couple's acquaintances here. The marriage took place at the home of the bride, who is a daughter of Harry Gudheim, professor of mathematics at V. P. I. The Rev. D. W. Sipperer, Lutheran pastor here, officiated. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Neal left by automobile for the West on a honeymoon.

Tobacco Warehouse Closed by Disorders

Gallipolis, Ohio, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Gallipolis loose leaf tobacco warehouse opened today amid scenes which were reminiscent of disorders in the Kentucky tobacco marts.

About 100,000 pounds of tobacco were on the floor at the opening, and the extremely low prices offered at the start brought vigorous protests from growers, so vigorous that in some instances it ended in actual physical combat. No one was seriously hurt, but feeling ran high. The warehouse was closed before noon until tomorrow morning.

SENATE IN RECESS ON MOSES IMPASSE

G. O. P. Leaders Are to Seek Way to End Deadlock Over Week-End.

(Associated Press.)

Perplexed Senate Republican leaders yesterday called Senate sessions off until Monday in an effort to break by negotiation the deadlock over the reelection of George Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro tempore.

With the Western independents standing firm against Moses and the "Young Guard" of the party growing restless at the Senate's failure to organize and get down to work, a party reorganization was threatened.

Four more ballots failed to bring any change in the line-up of the silent forces in this strange personal Senate contest. Again not a word of debate was uttered. It was just voting.

Brookhart Votes for Moses.

The "Young Guard" proposed during a round of informal conferences that the veteran Senator Watson, of Indiana, the party leader, be advanced as a compromise candidate to replace Moses. It was further proposed that the popular McNary, of Oregon, be made the leader in event of this step.

But Watson put his foot down on the movement and, after adjourning the session, arranged for a series of conferences over the week-end.

The twelve Western Independents again voted for other Republican nominees yesterday, preventing an election since a majority is necessary. Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, after voting three times with the twelve switched to Moses on the last ballot.

The row over the presidency pro tem is the unfinished business of the Senate and there is plenty of important work due for consideration next week. The Independents believe this will force Moses to withdraw.

Threats by "Young Guard."

The Independents, whom Moses referred to as the "sons of the wild jackass" when they went into a coalition with the Democrats on the tariff last session, have stood firm on eleven ballots.

So has Moses and to all purposes he intends to sit it out. He holds the office until a successor is elected.

Some of the "young guard" element are reported to be threatening to absent themselves, thus giving the Democratic candidate a majority. However, this seems to be a threat to force the regular leaders to take action.

Senator Watson yesterday informed Senator Moses he would call no party conference for consideration of the dispute without the move coming from Moses himself.

Brakeman Sticks To Runaway Train

Body Is Found Buried Under Tons of Coal After Wreck.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The body of a brakeman who stuck to his post as a heavy 88-car Pennsylvania Railroad coal train plunged wildly down a steep hill near the Gallitzin Tunnel last night was found today buried beneath tons of coal.

He was Matthew Allison. Other trainmen, who were injured slightly as they leaped to safety, said they saw Allison clinging to the side of a car as the train sped to destruction. For a mile and a half there was no hand at the throttle of the locomotive and Allison was the only man on the train.

Then, striking a curve, the train piled up, the locomotive and 76 cars leaving the track. Railroad officials said the brakes failed to hold and the train, eastbound, ran away.

Maryland Project Is Given Disapproval

(Associated Press)

The War Department yesterday disapproved improvement projects for Neales Creek, Charles County, Md., and Bayou La Loutre, between Bayou St. Malo and Ysclosky, La.

The disapproving records were sent to the House.

SENATE BACKS I.C.C. ON RAIL PROBE PLAN

Holding Company Regulation Plea Renewed in Report by Commission.

(Associated Press.)

Two of the Interstate Commerce Commission's nineteen prescriptions for railroad health were reflected yesterday in the House and Senate.

The commission, in its annual report, suggested a congressional inquiry into the country's transportation system. Almost simultaneously the Senate interstate commerce committee approved a resolution for a thorough investigation of the railroad situation.

The report renewed the commission's proposal for regulation of railroad holding companies. Before the House adjourned Representative Rayburn, of Texas, had introduced a bill to put them under the commission's jurisdiction.

The commission, in proposing the transportation inquiry, said special attention should be given to Government-aided air lines and waterways.

Complaint of Railroads.

The railroads have complained bitterly over the part Federal money has played in putting steamboats back on the Mississippi and other rivers, arguing that the Government was retraining them on one hand and helping a competitor on the other.

Waterways advocates have replied vigorously and yesterday a group of delegates from the National Rivers and Harbors Congress visited President Hoover to tell him their organization would stoutly resist any attempt to put boats on inland streams under "restrictive control."

Most of the recommendations by the commission had been made before, among them a plea for repeal of laws intended to give it power to recapture excess earnings.

The commission had had trouble all along in administering the law. It said substitution of provisions to fix a rate level which would give the roads a fair return through good and bad years, would be much better.

Other Suggestions.

In addition to regulation of holding companies, the commission said motor highway transportation, freight forwarding agencies and coastwise steamship rates should be supervised.

A bill by Rayburn, prospective chairman of the House interstate commerce committee, for regulation of holding companies, died last term in the crush that accompanied the closing days of Congress.

The Senate resolution was sponsored by Chairman Couzens, of the committee. He mentioned among the reasons for the investigation a movement to reduce wages of railroad workers.

He said also it was needed because of representations by the roads that they must have financial aid from the Government unless their revenues increase.

Both the Senate and House must approve the resolution before the study begins.

Cunard Suspends Work on Ship.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Cunard Steamship Line has decided to suspend work on the 73,000-ton liner laid down at Clydeback early this year and scheduled to be launched in February. The press association and the evening newspapers, in making known the decision, said it would throw 3,000 men out of work.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 132

A number of prominent Washingtonians are to be found in this group photo, but unfortunately complete identification is lacking. However, the young man at the extreme left in the front row is William H. Gottlieb, and next in line is Norman G. Ellis, now living at 150 Tennessee avenue northeast.

The next is Milton Strasberger and then comes H. E. Doyle, who gained considerable fame as a tennis player locally. R. G. Donaldson is next, followed by William D. Clark, jr., now in the District government; Paul Hall, with the Standard Oil Co.; Frank Walter Brandenberg and R. Harlan Preston King is the young man in front of the doorpost at the right, while George Leet, treasurer of the Steel Corporation, is in the center of the second row.

Others in the photo are Robert Young, H. C. Larcombe, E. B. Hofman, C. G. Shaw, H. Burgess, J. T. Loane, G. A. Pennington, Robert W. Dyer, J. T. Walling, W. Curtis, jr., F. A. Nicholson, William G. WAR DEBT CUT PLAN HIT that, inasmuch as the House was jealous of its prerogatives in connection with originating financial legislation, the Senate would allow it to act on the moratorium resolution first.

Johnson Asks Loan Quiz.

Watson expressed the opinion that the foreign payments due on December 15 could very well be forgotten, because all nations regard the moratorium as an accomplished fact.

Shortly after the arrival of President Hoover's message on foreign affairs yesterday, the Senate adopted a resolution by Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, calling for a comprehensive investigation of American holdings of foreign securities and bonds.

The California senator is convinced that most of the agitation for revision or cancellation of war debts is inspired by international bankers, who are anxious to protect their own investments abroad.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, which is to make the investigation, said yesterday that he will call the committee together Monday.

Sequel to Laval's Visit.

President Hoover's recommendation yesterday with regard to an adjustment of the war debts was not unexpected. It was forecast by an "off-the-record" understanding entered into by him and Premier Laval, of France, in October.

While the official communique issued by the two men made no mention of any such understanding, it was explained in an authoritative quarter that President Hoover had promised to urge a revision of the allied debt to the United States if France moved to scale down the reparations debt which Germany owes to the allies.

In his message to Congress yesterday, President Hoover said:

"As we approach the new year it is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life.

Would Share Problem.

"It is useless to blind ourselves to an obvious fact. Therefore, it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments."

Pointing out that Congress has shared with the executive in the past the problem of handling war debts, President Hoover suggested that it continue to share such a responsibility.

"In order that we should be in a position to deal with the situation," he said. "I recommend the re-creation of the World War Foreign Debt Commission, with authority to examine such problems as may arise in connection with these debts during the present economic emergency, and to report to the Congress its conclusions and recommendations."

Senator Borah's Comment.

Commenting on the President's message, Senator Borah said:

"I favored the one-year moratorium because I thought it necessary to give Europe an opportunity to adjust matters and establish a sound, economic program. But I am not in favor of any further extension of the moratorium and I am not in favor of readjusting these debts upon a basis of capacity to pay.

"Europe has not up to this time availed herself of the moratorium to adjust those matters which it is necessary to adjust before there can be any economic recovery in Europe.

"I am not in favor of re-creating the world foreign debt commission. There is no business for it to transact. I do not see any evidence that Europe proposes to reduce armaments or that she proposes to adjust reparations upon any proper basis.

"We adjusted the debts on the basis of capacity to pay and canceled about $7,000,000,000 of obligations. Under the present policies pursued in Europe, another readjustment on a basis of capacity to pay would about wipe out the debts."

Fess Praises Message.

Senator Simeon D. Fess (Republican), of Ohio, lauded the President's message, describing it as a "courageous statement of the real situation and in accordance with the principle upon which the original adjustments were made—namely, on ability to pay."

The fact is that President Hoover made no mention of adjusting the war debts on a basis of capacity to pay. The French, it is understood, do not like this phrase. Nevertheless, the understanding is that President Hoover is determined that any revision of debts must be on such a basis.

In this connection, Senator Borah has pointed out that France is now the wealthiest nation in Europe, far more wealthy than she was when her debt to this country was last settled. Consequently, he argues, if capacity to pay is made the basis of another settlement, then France's payments should be increased.

Moses Enters Debate.

Senator George H. Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, the embattled president pro tempore, said that the first job of Congress is to ratify the moratorium proposal.

"Having dealt with that," he said, "we will take up the other grave subjects the President suggests."

Senator Smoot, who served on the old War Debt Commission, said he had no objection to the recreation of that body. On the question of debt reduction, he said he did not want to commit himself until the evidence had been submitted. He said he was opposed to cancellation.

Senator Claude Swanson (Democrat), of Virginia, ranking member of the foreign relations committee, had this to say:

"We have dealt very liberally with our debtors. I would not be willing to remit these settlements without care, and without positive proof that it would be advantageous to the United States."

Message Is Applauded.

The President's message on foreign affairs was read in both the Senate and the House shortly after the two bodies convened.

That part of the message which quoted a previous statement of the President to the effect that he did not "approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debt to us" was applauded, but his recommendation with regard to a further adjustment was met with silence.

When debate opened in the House, Representative John Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, led the attack on President Hoover.

"As long as millions are unemployed," he said, "as long as agriculture is distressed and the veterans are unpaid, Congress can not vote to postpone or cancel a cent of these foreign obligations."

"Dole" to Bankers Charged.

Rankin then attacked the Hoover moratorium.

"Are you going to give a dole to the international bankers?" he asked.

"No," chorused the Republicans.

"You are not going to get it passed by December 15," Rankin said, "and I doubt if you'll get it passed at all."

Recalling the pledge given President Hoover by many Democrats last June that they would vote for the moratorium, Representative Will Wood asked Rankin:

"Is that the kind of cooperation the Democrats are going to give the President? Are you not going to keep the faith?'"

Representative William B. Bankhead (Democrat), of Alabama, said that the Democrats were not necessarily committed to the moratorium.

Bank Head Quizzes Wood.

"Will the President," he inquired of Wood, "ask us to go along with him on cancellation or material reduction of the debt?"

It was at this point that Wood made the statement that he would not vote "for a dollar of cancellation or reduction."

Representative Frank Oliver (Democrat), of New York, charged that President Hoover, in his debt policy, seemed to be more concerned about Europe than he was about the United States.

"Mr. Snell," he said, referring to the Republican floor leader, "rushed to the White House over the corpse of Mr. Tilson to tell Hoover that the Republicans could not support cancellation."

Mr. Snell, who was in the chamber at the time, did not challenge Oliver's statement.

LaGuardia Hits Both Sides.

Representative Fiorello LaGuardia (Republican), New York, took both Republicans and Democrats to task for playing politics. There will be plenty of time for politics later on, he said.

"It would be far better," he said, "if you would organize your committees and start to work."

Referring to the debt cancellation talk, LaGuardia said:

"What is your remedy if they can't pay their debts. Are you prepared to send over the fleet to collect the debts?"

Representative William H. Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, said he was distressed by the attitude of the Democrats in attacking the moratorium. Politicians, he said, should emulate those in Great Britain, who, in a crisis, have formed a non-partisan "national" government.

Congress Opening Saves Veterans' Bureau Blush

Congress came back into session just in time to snatch the Veterans' Bureau from the brink of financial embarrassment.

Although $862,000,000 had been made available in the Treasury before adjournment last summer for loans on the service certificates, only $27,000,000 remained in the fund on December 7. Veterans' Bureau officials estimated this fund would not last two weeks.

As soon as Congress assembled plans were made for an immediate emergency appropriation of $200,000,000. President Hoover sent a special message to the House Wednesday requesting emergency appropriation.

The Veterans' Bureau budget for 1933 is $1,072,064,527, an increase of $124,624,649 over the estimate for 1932.

BELGIUM TO PRESS ECONOMIC PARLEYS

Socialists Defeated in Effort to Keep England Out of Negotiations.

Brussels, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Chamber of Deputies today authorized the government to continue negotiations with France, Holland and England for the purpose of arriving at an economic understanding and enlarging common markets.

The chamber's action was a defeat for the Socialists, who had urged that negotiations be aimed specifically at economic union involving Belgium, France and Holland.

Liberals and Catholics combined to defeat this project. The chamber's vote was construed as an expression of confidence in the government. No announcement was made of the vote tally.

Reason Hymans Opposes.

Earlier in the week Paul Hymans, Belgium's foreign minister, was in London conferring with British officials about tariff barriers erected against the Belgian goods by the new British antidumping laws.

It was said at that time that M. Hymans opposed economic union of Belgium with France and Holland because he believed the two small nations would be submerged in such an arrangement.

It was understood that the Belgian foreign minister was unsuccessful in achieving any agreement to lower the British tariffs. Reports were the London government would not consider even tentative negotiations until after the imperial economic conference scheduled for next July.

May Seek French Aid.

There was speculation to the effect that, failing in Britain, Belgium might turn to France for economic support.

European observers have been much interested in negotiations between Belgium and France looking toward some sort of economic understanding in view of the difficulties raised several months ago by the attempt of Germany and Austria to form a customs union.

France was a leading opponent of that proposal, taking the position that treaty engagements required Austria to keep her economic entity and that the customs union would prove to be the forerunner of political union.

The Austro-German question was disposed of when both Vienna and Berlin repudiated the plan and the World Court held against it.

Mary Nolan Is Accused In 13 Salary Warrants

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Thirteen warrants charging Mary Nolan, film actress, with failure to pay wages amounting to $500 were issued by the city prosecutor today after thirteen men and women, former models and tailors employed in the actress' dress shop, demanded her arrest.

The complaints also named Wallace T. Macreary, husband of the actress, once known on the New York stage as Imogene Wilson. The actress has been arrested several times on similar charges.

Ritchie Is Backed By Pennsylvanian

Maryland Governor Called Democracy's Most Available Candidate.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, is the Democrats' "most available candidate" for President, John Hemphill, Pennsylvania Democrat, who ran Gifford Pinchot a close race in last spring's gubernatorial elections, said in a statement here last night.

Mr. Hemphill referred to a recent statement by Joseph Guffey, another Pennsylvania Democratic leader, pledging support to New York's Democratic governor.

"I am aware that an admirer of the Governor of New York has made the statement that 69 or more of Pennsylvania's delegates to the national convention would be for Franklin Roosevelt, but I have seen no title and know of no authorization for such a startling claim," he said.

Byrns to Announce District Fund Unit

Parley Held on Make-Up of Appropriations Subcommittee.

Make-up of the District subcommittee of the powerful House appropriations committee will probably become known today, following a meeting called by Chairman Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, of the appropriations committee.

Chairmanship of the subcommittee will probably go to Representative Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri. Representative Ross Collins (Democrat), of Mississippi, who will be chairman of the committee on the War Department appropriations bill, wants to be relieved, as does Representative William Holladay (Republican), of Illinois, who would have been chairman if Republicans had organized the House.

It appeared likely that either Mr. Holladay or Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, who thinks six years of service should be enough, would be retained. Representative Maurice H. Thatcher (Republican), of Kentucky, has consented to serve again. Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, and Representative William J. Granfield (Democrat), Massachusetts, have been proposed as possible additions to the Democratic membership.

OFFICIAL GETS LIFE IN EVARTS SLAYING

Mine Union Secretary Was Accused After Killing of Deputy.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Dec. 10 (A.P.) The first trial arising from fighting in the Harlan County coal fields last May 5 resulted today in conviction and a sentence of life imprisonment for William B. Jones, mine union secretary.

Jones was accused of murder and conspiracy in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels, one of four men shot to death at Evarts. Five hundred to 1,000 shots were fired in some fifteen minutes of fighting between deputized mine guards and striking coal miners and sympathizers. Jones faces two other similar indictments and a score of others are under three similar indictments each in the case.

Show No Emotion.

As the jury which had gone out yesterday afternoon read its verdict today Jones and his wife showed no emotion. Later Mrs. Jones gave way to tears, but the union secretary remained calm and issued a statement saying, "I want to say I'm not discouraged. It's the coal interests of Harlan County that cause me to be here. I am innocent and intend to carry on the fight to the end and expect to win and vindicate myself of all the charges that were placed against me."

W. C. Hamilton, local Commonwealth's attorney who prosecuted the case here on change of venue, commented, "The law has been vindicated."

Ordered Back to Jail.

Jones, who had been free on bond, was ordered back to jail pending action on his motion for a new trial which he has until December 28 to file. Ben B. Golden, of defense counsel, indicated it would be based on the grounds of incompetent evidence and improper arguments by the Commonwealth. Jones said his wife and seven children would take an apartment near the jail as long as he remains there.

William H. Hightower, president of the mine union in Harlan County, will be called for trial December 28 as the next defendant in the Evarts fighting to face a jury. William M. Burnett, coal miner accused of killing Deputy Sheriff Jesse Pace last April when Pace tried to arrest a Negro miner at Evarts, was acquitted just before Jones' trial began. Jones' trial began November 23 and was estimated by court officials to have cost the State $7,000.

Hoover Makes Gift To Idle Engineers

Donates Check for $5,000 in Four Societies' National Drive.

New York, Dec. 11 (A.P.).—President Hoover, himself an engineer, has given $5,000 to aid in relieving distress among unemployed members of his old profession.

His check was received today in a letter to H. De B. Parsons, general chairman of the professional engineers committee on unemployment. The four national engineering societies are cooperating in the relief work, which is to be done on a national scale.

Mr. Hoover said in the letter that he imposed "no particular restrictions" on the gift, and was certain it would be "well administered and used to the best advantage, not only in finding useful employment but by relieving individual cases with small loans under liberal terms." The latter plan, he said, appealed to him particularly.

Spanish Bill Offered Affecting U. S. Capital

Madrid, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A bill which would abolish the government concession to the National Telephone Co. of Spain was introduced in the Assembly tonight.

The telephone company represents an American investment of $70,000,000. A legal battle between the government and the company was in prospect as the result of the concellation measure.

World of Music Is Agog Over Status of Ukulele

By JOHN J. DALY

ALL the musical world is rocked to its very foundations, upset over the status of the ukulele and the ukulele player.

Is the ukulele an instrument and is a ukulele player a musician? This is the double question the federation of musicians wants to have answered.

In one celebrated case, in a libel court, the defendant was accused of calling a ukulele player a bum:

"Your honor," pleaded the lawyer for the defense, "my client did not call the ukulele player a bum. What he said was, 'This bum is no ukulele player.'"

In the case now attracting world-wide attention, the center of controversy is a woman—so that chivalry, or what is left of it, may play no small part in the decision, even though some one has already questioned whether a lady would play a ukulele.

On top of this, the performer is described as a radio crooner and strummer. Therefore, another set of questions inadvertently arises: Is a crooner a singer? And what is a strummer?

* * * *

WHEN the ukulele craze first seized America, coming over from Hawaii with a shipment of pineapples, the Nation virtually went mad. After years of plunking, nerves wracked and hearing practically destroyed, the ukulele faded from the picture. It gave place to the marimba. Now the marimba is doing for the Nation just what the uke did years ago, driving people crazy.

Musicians fear that the ukulele is staging a comeback, as exemplified by the rivalry between ukulele orchestras and marimba bands.

It is for this reason that the Musicians' Union has decided to act promptly; to settle the question once and for all. Some demand that all ukulele players be refused membership, on the grounds that a ukulele player is anything in the world but a musician and that his music box, so-called, is really an instrument of torture.

* * * *

OF the same family with the guitar, the ukulele belongs to the newer generation of stringed instruments. There has been some question, too, about the guitar—whether it is an instrument or a disease. It all depends on the spelling and the pronunciation; no two words more nearly resembling each other than guitar and catarrh when accompanied by gutteral sounds.

Mexican lovers have strummed guitars under the windows of their ladyloves, in the moonlight, while the ladies themselves sometimes toyed with the dainty mandolins, but never with ukes. Marc Anthony is a gondola on the Nile is said to have hired musicians to play reed instruments for Cleopatra, and Nero fiddled while Rome burned; but, in ancient history there is no mention anywhere of an instrument called the uke.

So the lady on trial before a court of musicians will have difficulty proving a case for herself. Her opponents claim she is a ukulele player and not a musician, and she probably is; which puts her in the same class and category with the girl who was always a bridesmaid and never a bride.

KANE'S COLLEAGUES DENY HOME STRIFE

Medical Experts Say His Wife Suffered Heart Attacks Frequently.

Hampton, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Friends and university associates of Prof. Elisha Kent Kane came forward today to contradict sharply testimony of domestic turbulence in the Kane home submitted by his wife's relatives.

At the same time defense counsel presented expert medical testimony that Mrs. Kane suffered frequent and violent heart attacks in support of Prof. Kane's contention that the drowning of his wife at Grandview Beach last September was accidental.

Two watermen reported seeing the professor carry a body from the water to the beach and other defense witnesses testified that he drove at terrific speed en route to a hospital after the occurrences at the beach where the State charges he drowned his wife.

Mrs. John T. Lear, wife of a professor of engineering at the University of North Carolina, said she knew the Kanes well and that they were happy and sentimentally romantic.

"They appeared to be an ideally married couple with never a cross word," she said.

Mrs. Lear said Prof. Kane lived at her home in Chapel Hill, N. C., until his wife joined him in 1927, and after that they were neighbors.

M. D. Adams, also of the University of North Carolina, said he never saw any evidence of ill feeling between Kane and his wife and they appeared congenial. Adams said he was a neighbor of the Kanes in Chapel Hill, their sleeping porch being within hearing of his bedroom. He said he never heard Kane curse or abuse his wife.

V. Lee Ryan, of the University of Tennessee, where Kane was a member of the faculty at the time his wife was drowned, also testified the Kanes were congenial and happy. He said he was a frequent visitor at their apartment in Knoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham, of Hilton Village, parents of Mrs. Kane, and a brother and sister-in-law of the dead woman, testified yesterday for the State that Kane cursed and abused his wife continually and that she sought vainly to prevent arousing his anger. It was testified he sometimes cursed his wife all night.

Mrs. C. B. Price, of Knoxville, and Mrs. Lee M. Ragsdale, also of Knoxville, testified that the relations of the Kanes were harmonious. Mrs. Price said she lived in the same apartment house with them and they were always togetner and congenial.

Australian Makes Vote Drive by Wire

Stanley Bruce Will Be at Sea as Election Day Arrives.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Stanley Bruce, prime minister of Australia until the Labor victory of 1929 and again a candidate for the post, sailed for home today after a high-powered election campaign by cable and telephone.

Engaged in private business when word of the dissolution of the Australian Parliament came at the end of November, he drafted an election address to his home constituency and cabled it back. He made several intercontinental telephone speeches from his ramshackle office in London across 11,000 miles of land and water.

He will not arrive in Australia until two weeks after the election and the returns will be brought to him by radio somewhere between Port Said and Sydney on December 19. He is the candidate of the Oppositionist "United Australia party."

Fairfax Hunt Club Event Is Tomorrow

The Fairfax Hunt Club, of Sunset Hills, Va., is planning to stage one of the largest hunts of the season, starting at 10 o'clock tmoorrow morning, in the vicinity of Great Falls.

The hunt will start from the Costello Farm between Dranesville and Seneca. At the conclusion of the chase a hunt breakfast will be served in the clubhouse at Sunset Hills on the estate of A. Smith Bowman, president of the club.

GARNER TO TAKE UP MAPES REPORT NOW

port will advise a reduction in the Federal Government's lump sum contribution, or a sliding scale arrangement.

To Meet Monday.

"No irrevocable agreement has been reached," he told The Post. "We expect to meet again Monday. At that time we may decide what we shall do with it. In the meantime I would rather not discuss its provisions."

The special committee, appointed by the late Speaker Longworth last year after the usual House-Senate battle over District expenditures, comprises Representatives Frear (Republican), Wisconsin; Holaday (Republican), Illinois; Beers (Republican), Pennsylvania; Davis (Democrat), Tennessee; Collins (Democrat), Mississippi, and Patman (Democrat), Texas. Mr. Longworth was accused at the time of appointing a committee of men who believed District taxes are too low.

Both Mr. Holaday and Mr. Collins are members of the District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee, and though both have asked to be relieved of their duties, their services are sought by the man who will be the next chairman of the committee, Representative Cannon (Democrat), of Missouri.

Simmons Started Action.

Representative Robert G. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, former chairman of the District subcommittee, but who now is also asking to be relieved of membership, is father of the resolution which brought the Mapes committee into being. At its hearings a year ago he asked the committee to investigate the field of inheritance and income taxation, together with a possible boost of 2 cents in the gasoline tax rate.

In former years the Federal Government paid half of the District budget. Later Congress reduced its proportional contribution, first to 60—40 and later to $9,000,000 lump sum. Last year, and in 1929, the lump sum was increased from $9,000,000 to $9,500,000.

MAN KILLED BY CAR; SIX ON BUS INJURED

Hitch-Hiker, Hit at Berwyn, Dies; Companion Hurt; Carrier Quits Road.

One man was killed and another seriously injured when hit by an automobile on the Baltimore boulevard yesterday near Berwyn, Md., and six other persons were injured near Dorsey, on the same road, when a bus ran off the side.

The dead man is Joseph Tracey, 56 years old, of Fall River, Mass. He was instantly killed when struck by an automobile driven by Seymour W. Russ, of Randallstown, Md., who is being held pending an inquest to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. James Shea, who was walking with Tracey, received a compound fracture of both legs. After the accident he was brought to Hyattsville by Russ, and from there taken to Casualty Hospital by the Bladensburg Fire Rescue Squad.

According to Shea, he and Tracey were walking on the left of the road toward Washington, while Russ' automobile, coming from Washington, ran into them head-on. Shea was unable to explain the crash, as the road is straight at the point and there were no other cars near. Tracey was pronounced dead by Dr. W. Allan Griffith, of Berwyn, and his body taken to White's undertaking establishment in Laurel.

According to Russ, who is a well-known contractor of Randallstown, the two men suddenly appeared in the road in front of him. He had been watching the road, he said, but did not see the pair beside it. The accident happened directly across the road from the spot where County Policeman Claude Reese was seriously injured several weeks ago.

Russ was taken before Judge H. M. Scott, of Laurel, by State Policeman A. W. Knight, who is investigating the case. Judge Scott scheduled an inquest for Saturday night, and held Russ in bond of $1,000. He was released when he posted a certified check as collateral.

The two men appeared to be hitch-hikers, according to Judge Scott. The dead man wore several suits of clothes, one over the other, and a number of pairs of socks. They are believed to have spent the night in Laurel, as town policemen saw them leaving there shortly before the fatal crash.

The bus accident occurred when the steering gear locked and the vehicle ran off the road near Dorsey, crashing into a telephone pole, according to the driver, John Thomas Sleen, of Long Island, N. Y. Sleen and four passengers on the bus were uninjured. State Policeman John E. Klass investigated the crash.

The man most seriously injured in this accident was Harry Hellman, of Philadelphia, who has a fractured leg. Others hurt were James F. Duffy and Thomas Van Deli, of Philadelphia, Thomas Babbitt, of Beaver Dam, Va.; Stewart Johnson, of Richmond, Va., and Charles Gordon, of Dublin, Va. Gordon has a broken nose, while all the others were treated for lacerations. They were brought to Casualty Hospital in the ambulance of W. T. White, of Laurel.

MOB LYNCHES PAIR HELD IN 2 SLAYINGS

Prisoners Taken From Jail in West Virginia, Hanged and Bodies Riddled.

Lewisburg, W. Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A mob of nearly 60 men today lynched two negroes awaiting trial for slaying two constables.

The victims, Tom Jackson, 25, and George Banks, 27, garbed only in underwear to shield them from the cold, were whisked from the Greenbrier County Jail in the still of the early morning and taken to the outskirts of town in an automobile.

A cross arm of a telephone pole on the Midland Trail was the gallows used by the crowd after fashioning rope nooses about the Negroes' necks. The mob stepped back a few paces as the Negroes dangled at ropes' end and peppered them with bullets.

The constables, Joseph Myles and Jack Brown, went to a Negro dance hall at Leslie, November 22, to quiet hilarity. As the peace officers departed they were felled with a shotgun. Myles was killed outright and Brown died later.

The mob drove up to the jail, their automobile lights dimmed, and license plates removed to avoid identification. Without ado, they marched to the jail door and summoned Jailer Wallace Flint. As he opened the door, he was seized and relieved of his keys.

One group guarded Flint, while another went to the cell block to awaken Jackson and Banks. The Negroes were rushed outside, placed in an automobile and driven to the lynching spot. At a given signal they were hoisted into the air. Guns barked after another signal. The mob drove away as quietly as it had come.

It was the sixth lynching since West Virginia was founded in 1863.

No charges had been filed tonight against three men arrested for questioning.

Declaring "such matters must not be tolerated in West Virginia," Gov. Conley, at Charleston, ordered State police to investigate the lynching with a view to bringing the guilty parties to justice.

HOOVER PRESENTS SCHIFF AIR AWARD

Trophy for Safest Flying Goes to Aviation Base at Brooklyn, N. Y.

In recognition of the safest flying of a Navy squadron during the past year, President Hoover yesterday presented the Herbert Schiff Memorial Trophy to the officers and men of the U. S. Reserve Aviation Base at Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N. Y. Lieut. Richard F. Whitehead, commanding officer of the base, accepted the trophy in behalf of his men.

Following the presentation, the Schiff Memorial Association held its annual dinner at the Mayflower Hotel last night. It was declared that members of Lieut. Whitehead's command had flown more than 300,000 miles without a serious mishap.

The trophy, which has been awarded each year since 1924, was conceived by the family of Herbert Schiff, a naval flier who lost his life in the air. Commercial stunt flying was condemned by naval officials attending the dinner, and it was pointed out that the trophy was awarded to encourage safety in flying through the years.

In commenting on stunt flying, William Schiff, who donated the trophy, said:

"The disheartening figures that are sometimes quoted because of sporadic air stunts, has caused the public to think of this means of travel as extremely hazardous."

Among guests at the dinner were Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, and the trophy winners for the past six years, who were brought here for the occasion from various naval posts.

Darne, trustee. Delegates to the State session selected include Isobel Sherman, Mae Nordon and Bertha Blackman. Alternates, Gaynel Thompson, Mae H. Lane and Myrtle Hurst.

U.S. Envoy Accepts 2 Americans' Prize

Dr. Butler, Jane Addams Praised on Winning of Nobel Peace Award.

Oslo, Norway, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The Nobel Peace prize was awarded today to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, and Miss Jane Addams, Chicago social worker, "two of the finest representatives of the most vital idealism in the world."

The recipients were so described by Halvdan Koht, noted historian, who made a presentation address in which he declared the United States was presenting the world with some of its most vital idealism.

Neither Dr. Butler nor Miss Addams was present. Hoffman Phillips, American Minister to Norway, represented them at the ceremony, which was attended by King Haakon, Crown Prince Olaf, foreign diplomats, cabinet members, high state officials and other notables.

Stockholm, Sweden, Dec. 10 (A.P.). Three German scientists received today from King Gustave the 1931 Nobel prizes in chemistry and medicine.

The chemistry award was split by Dr. Carl Rosch and Dr. Friedrich Bergius for their success in assisting industry with their discoveries. Prof. Otto Warburg won the medicine prize for his studies of the fermentation process involved in respiration. Each of the two prizes amounted to about $31,100.

Hitch-Hiker, 19, Admits Killing Mining Student

Holyoke, Colo., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—John Markham, 19-year-old Granite City, Ills., youth, testified late today that in a fit of anger, he shot and killed Stanley M. Moore, former Michigan School of Mines student for whose murder he is on trial. After the youth and his father, Norman Markham, had testified, the defense rested its case.

The prosecution completed its case after a recital of the movements of Markham and Moore from the time Markham gave Moore an automobile ride near Lincoln, Nebr., until they proceeded to a point near here, where the former student was shot through the head on September 7 and his body thrown out of an automobile. The jury will receive Markham's case tomorrow morning.

CARNEGIE TO SHOW SCIENTIFIC EXHIBITS

Display to Open Tomorrow; Trustees to Hold Annual Meeting Today.

A collection of scientific exhibits will be on display in the auditorium of Carnegie Institution tomorrow at the opening of the institution's annual exhibition of the work of their investigating staff. The exhibit will continue through Monday.

Each exhibition will be explained by the investigator whose work it is. One of these is an instrument used in recording magnetic disturbances created by storms. This apparatus is so sensitive that current leaking from street cars can be detected at a distance of 5 miles.

Mount Wilson Observatory has an exhibit to show the form and structure of the Milky Way as it would appear to an observer outside the system. To one so placed the appearance of the system of stars would resemble that of certain spiral nebulae which have been photographed by the great telescopes. Photographs, charts, and instruments used in astronomical investigation are to be displayed and explained.

A committee of scientists is studying the moon by new methods to learn of what its surface is composed. A second and a quarter after the sun's rays leave the moon they reach the earth. These rays bring a message from the moon which is remarkably rich in information to those who can interpret it. The method of study will be explained and some of the results shown.

WAITER CONFESSES TO SLAYING FRIEND

Hoboken Man Tells of Putting Body Into Trunk; Talks to Victim's Fiancee.

Hoboken, N. J., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Otto Jochmann, 44, a waiter, confessed today, police said, to killing his friend, Louis Jensen, 27, and then discussing for two hours with Jensen's fiancee her contemplated marriage while the body lay stuffed in a trunk nearby.

Jochmann, who, police said, was jealous of the attentions Jensen paid Johanna Schlecht, pleaded self-defense. He asserted he killed his friend when Jensen, a baker, became angry and attacked him for casting a doubt as to the advisability of the marriage.

Jochmann had arranged a conference for last Tuesday among Jensen, Miss Schlecht, and Irwin Keller, Jochmann's roommate. Early in the evening he called for Jensen at a bakery, and they went together to Jochmann's apartment in the Bronx, New York. The quarrel and fatal shooting followed.

Fearing discovery and knowing Miss Schlecht and Keller would arrive soon, Jochmann said he placed the body in a trunk and hid it in a closet.

Scarcely had the task been completed when the girl and Keller arrived. Jochmann excused Jensen's absence, and for two hours the three talked, Keller then taking Miss Schlecht home.

The next morning Jochmann opened the trunk and took Jensen's keys. He went to the rooming house in Hoboken where the baker had lived to get Jensen's clothes, telling the landlady Jensen wished to leave Hoboken.

The landlady, Mrs. Alma Van Der Meinn, thought the story strange and called a policeman. Jochmann was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and held while New York police investigated and found Jensen's body in Jochmann's apartment. The confession followed.

MANCHURIA PEACE PLAN IS ACCEPTED

League of Nations Proposal to End War Approved by Japan and China.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Dec. 10.—Japan and China today accepted the compromise plan evolved by the League of Nations for settlement of the Manchurian dispute and the tangled issue was placed in the hands of a neutral investigating commission whose five members have not yet been selected.

Approval by the two belligerents made acceptance on the plan unanimous and it also has been indorsed by United States Ambassador Dawes, who watched the deliberations of the league council at a distance during the three and a half weeks of discussion.

Kenkichi Yoshizawa reserved for Japan the right to take such measures as it considers necessary against bandits in Manchuria. Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman, stipulated that in accepting the plan China abandons none of its rights under existing treaties and expects that the Japanese will evacuate Manchuria with the greatest possible speed.

Would Speed Evacuation.

Disturbed conditions in Manchuria, which he blames largely on the Japanese occupation, must not be made a pretext for further Japanese military activity, he said, and he specified that the first duty of the commission on inquiry should be to investigate and report on the progress of evacuation.

Aristide Briand, who has been chairman at this difficult council session, described the role of the investigation commission as providing the council with complete information regarding the Manchurian troubles.

Lord Cecil, of England, placed the chief responsibility for the success of the scheme on the Chinese and Japanese themselves.

"It would be easy for either of them to destroy the work we have done," he said, "but I am sure this will not happen. If it did the aggressor would bear a heavy load of responsibility."

Calls Problem Exceptional.

M. Briand, at one point in his closing speech, referred to the Manchurian problem as "of an entirely exceptional character," and this opened the way for speeches by the representatives of Panama, Guatemala and Peru to the effect that the "special situation" in Manchuria must in no way be interpreted as a precedent for the rights of a strong state as opposed to those of a small nation.

Dr. Sze insisted upon placing on the record, in this connection, the assertion that "China can not admit that the operation of international treaties shall cease at the frontiers of Manchuria."

The task of selecting the personnel of the commission of inquiry was given to a committee composed of M. Briand, the representatives of Spain and Norway and a British member, in collaboration with the league's political experts.

It probably will require several days, and it has been suggested that the commission is likely to go to Manchuria early next year.

RUM CARDS' POWER TOLD TO SEABURY

Speakeasies Using Them Are "Respectable," He Hears; Walker Aid Accused.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The magic, a certain "blue card" holds for proprietors of New York speakeasies, was described today by Patrolman Richard A. Frederick before the Hofstadter legislative committee investigating city affairs.

Earlier in the day, Samuel Seabury, committee counsel, charged that Charles F. Kerrigan, assistant to Mayor Walker, and others in the administration were attempting to "whitewash" the charges turned up by Seabury. He named Attorney General John J. Bennett as "ultra-friendly" to Tammany Hall but Bennett, in Albany, said he was "mystified" at this charge.

Frederick, called to tell about liquor conditions in the Bronx, asserted, among other things, that raids on political clubs were taboo, whether they were Democratic, Republican or Socialist.

"You were nonpartisan on that, anyway," Samuel Seabury commented.

His principal testimony, however, concerned the "blue cards" issued by the Liberty League, which, he said, was known as the Liquor Dealers Association in the Bronx before prohibition. If a speakeasy proprietor had this card, he said, it meant that "you had to see the lieutenant" before making an arrest. If there was a complaint, he asserted, they usually made a charge of "possession," or "a sale charge if it was too hot."

Senator John J. McNaboe, Democratic committeeman, accused Frederick of belonging to a "ring" and of cooperating with the blue card holders.

Frederick said he knew all the speakeasy proprietors by their first names because his lieutenant took him around and introduced him. Any place having a blue card, he reiterated, was "respectable."

Text of Agreement In Far East Tangle

The complete text of the agreement reached by Japan and China under the auspices of French Foreign Minister Briand was cabled to Secretary Stimson by American Ambassador Dawes. It is as follows:

The council first reaffirms the resolution passed unanimously by it on September 30, 1931, by which the two parties declare that they are solemnly bound. It therefore calls the Chinese and Japanese governments to take all steps necessary to assure its execution so that the withdrawal of the Japanese troops within the railway zone may be effected as speedily as possible under the conditions set forth in the said resolution.

2. Considering that events have assumed an even more serious aspect since the council meeting of October 24, notes that the two parties undertake to adopt all measures to avoid any further aggravation of the situation and to refrain from any initiative which may lead to further fighting and loss of life.

3. Invites the two parties to continue to keep the council informed as to the development of the situation.

4. Invites the other members of the council to furnish the council with any information received from their representatives on the spot.

5. Without prejudice to the carrying out of the above-mentioned measures.

Desiring in view of the special circumstances of the case to contribute toward a final and fundamental solution by the two governments of the questions at issue between them:

Decides to appoint a commission of five members to study on the spot and to report to the council on any circumstances which affecting international relations threatens to disturb peace between China and Japan or the good understanding between them upon which peace depends.

The governments of China and of Japan will each have the right to nominate one assessor to assist the commission.

The two governments will afford the commission all facilities to obtain on the spot whatever information it may require.

It is understood that should the two parties initiate any negotiations these would not fall within the scope of the terms of reference of the commission or would it be within the competence of the commission to interfere with the military arrangements of either party.

The appointment and deliberations of the commission shall not prejudice in any way the undertaking given by the Japanese government in the resolution of September 30 as regards the withdrawal of Japanese troops within the railway zone.

6. Between now and its next ordinary session which will be held on January 25, 1932, the council which remains seized of the matter invites its president to follow the question and to summon it afresh if necessary.

FIVE ARE RESCUED AS TRAWLER SINKS

Exhausted Crew Picked Out of Sea by Coast Guard Off Diamond Shoals.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—After being given up as lost with their ship, five men composing the crew of the schooner rigged trawler Anne May, of Newport News, were picked out of the Atlantic Ocean off Cape Hatteras today by Coast Guardsmen from the Cape Hatteras and Hatteras Inlet stations. The men had clung to one of the two masts in the craft all yesterday afternoon and last night, after their craft had stranded 6 miles offshore.

The men were not sighted until early this morning, when with the coming of daylight the beach patrol from the Hatteras Coast Guard station picked them up with the aid of a powerful glass. It was almost four hours later before they were rescued.

Those saved were Capt. Ralph Carmine, J. E. Carmine, sr., J. E. Carmine, jr., Ridout Lewis, all of Hampton, and Miriam R. Johnson, of Newport News.

The rescue was made under the most thrilling circumstances, and just in time. For almost four hours Coast Guardsmen attempted to launch their surf boats, but high seas drove them back to the beach.

It was not until a few minutes before 10 o'clock that the two Coast Guard crews got their boats off the beach. The men were still in the riggings when the rescuing party started from the beach, but ten minutes before they reached the wrecked craft the mast had broken from its fastenings and fell in the sea with its cargo of human souls.

The imperiled men had donned life preservers before they took to the mast as their last chance of life and when the Coast Guard boats reached them they were swimming around in the sea. They were almost exhausted from their trying experience while clinging to the mast of the little craft but managed to keep afloat until help reached them.

Capt. Carmine, who is only 22 years old, said he took the Anna May out of Hatteras Inlet yesterday morning when the wind shifted so that the inlet no longer afforded a safe shelter.

He said after he got out into the open sea he stopped his engines and the wind must have blown him five miles or more off his course. When the engines were again started, the ship struck the outer edge of Diamond Shoals and stuck.

He placed the time of the stranding of his vessel at 4 o'clock yesterday morning, but the Coast Guard did not sight the boat until some hours later. Several attempts were made to reach the stranded craft yesterday morning and afternoon by the Coast Guardsmen but it was not until 5 p. m. that a boat from the Cape Hatteras station cleared the beach. This boat circled the spot where the trawler was last sighted but returned to shore and reported that nothing was seen of the stranded craft.

Four of the five members of the crew of the Anna May are from one family. Capt. Carmine and J. E. Carmine, jr., are brothers and their father is J. E. Carmine, sr. Ridout Lewis is the son-in-law of the elder Carmine and brother-in-law of the two younger Carmines.

Heavy Snow Halts Car Travel in West

Highway Over Mountains in Nevada Closed by Severe Storm.

Denver, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Severe snowstorms in the high mountain ranges of the West today blocked motor travel. United States highway No. 20, over Donner Summit in the high Sierra Mountains of Nevada, was closed after the disturbance reached blizzard proportions. Snow fell in Reno, Nev.

One of the most severe snowstorms in recent years howled over the San Juan Basin of Colorado. Three feet of snow fell at Durango. Hundreds of cattle and sheep were threatened with starvation.

A storm which yesterday forced airplanes to the ground at Salt Lake City was believed breaking late today.

Persian Blaze Razes Parliament Chamber

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The main buildings of the Persian Parliament House were destroyed today by a fire originating in a defective flue.

A thousand troops helped firemen and succeeded in preventing neighboring buildings from catching fire. Great crowds stood by, and there was intense excitement all day.

MANCHURIAN FOES ACCEPT LEAGUE'S PLAN FOR TRUCE

the League Council is working on the membership now. It is believed that the ultimate membership of the committee will include at least one military member who may be French; a political man, who may be British, and an expert in finance and economics, who will be American.

In his statement last night Secretary Stimson developed the entire history of the Manchurian incident and the efforts which were made at various times to bring it to a peaceful conclusion. The present solution received the hearty approval of the Secretary when he stated:

"The Government of the United States is gratified at the unanimous resolution of the Council of the League. This represents a definite step of progress in a long and difficult negotiation which M. Briand and his associates have conducted with great patience."

American Part in Parleys.

The Secretary then traced the history of the peace negotiations which were conducted not only in Geneva and Paris by the League of Nations, but also in London, Paris, Tokyo, and Nanking by the American diplomatic representatives. The interest of the United States as one of the signatory nations to the Nine-Power Treaty and the Pact of Paris was unflagging from the beginning.

The Secretary said:

"The American Government will continue to follow with solicitous interest all developments in this situation in the light of the obligations involved in the treaties to which this country is a party.

"The future efficacy of the resolution depends upon the good faith with which the pledge against renewed hostilities is carried out by both parties and the spirit in which its provisions directed toward an ultimate solution are availed of."

While the United States is a partisan of the "direct negotiation" method between Tokyo and Nanking, there must be no indication that any agreement is the result of military pressure. Such an agreement, it has been claimed by China, forced her acceptance of the "infamous Twenty-one Demands" which Japanese military and diplomatic leaders forced her to sign while the other countries of the world were occupied with the World War.

"Signal Accomplishment."

The Secretary declared:

"The ultimate solution of the Manchurian problem must be worked out by some process of agreement between China and Japan themselves. This country is concerned that the methods employed in this settlement shall, in harmony with the obligations of the treaties to which we are parties, be made in a way which shall not endanger the peace of the world and that the result shall not be the result of military pressure. These are the essential principles for which the United States and the nations represented on the council have been striving and it is in itself a signal accomplishment that there has been arrayed behind these principles in a harmonious cooperation such a solid alignment of the nations of the world."

"The present resolution provides for the immediate cessation of hostilities. It reaffirms the solemn pledge of Japan to withdraw her troops within the railway zone as speedily as possible. It provides for the appointment of a commission of five members to study on the spot and report to the council on any circumstance which disturbs the peace or affects the good understandings between China and Japan. Such a provision for a neutral commission is in itself an important and constructive step toward an ultimate and fair solution of the intricate problem presented in Manchuria.

Gives Time for Calm Study.

"It means the application with the consent of both China and Japan of modern and enlightened methods of conciliation to the solution of this problem. The principle which underlies it exists in many treaties of conciliation to which the United States is a party and which have played in recent years a prominent part in the constructive peace machinery of the world. The operation of such a commission gives time for the heat of controversy to subside and makes possible a careful study of the underlying problem.

"The council of the League of Nations was in session on September 18 when the present situation in Manchuria first developed. China at once appealed to the council under article 11 of the league covenant. The council took immediate cognizance of this appeal, and China and Japan participated in the discussions before it in accordance with their obligations as parties to the covenant. This Government has from the beginning endeavored to cooperate with and support these efforts of the council by representations through the diplomatic channels to both Japan and China. Not only are the American people interested in the same objective sought by the league of preventing a disastrous war and securing a peaceful solution of the Manchurian controversy, but as a fellow signatory with Japan and China in the Kellogg-Briand pact and in the so-called nine-power treaty of February 6, 1922, this Government has a direct interest in and obligation under the undertakings of those treaties."

PROXY FIGHT OPENS FOR TRANSAMERICA

Leaders of $300,000,000 Company Hurl Charges in Effort to Gain Control.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A bitter proxy fight likely to go down in financial annals along with the struggle for the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., appeared to be developing today when Elisha Walker reached across the continent to throw down the gauntlet to A. P. Giannini.

Mr. Walker, a veteran Wall street banker and chairman of the board of the Transamerica Corporation, $300,000,000 holding company for the group of properties assembled by Giannini, California financier, sent a form letter to 245,000 stockholders of the corporation requesting their proxies, to prevent Giannini from once more gaining influence in the corporation.

Mr. Giannini and his associates were dropped from the board of the company a few months ago, when drastic changes of policy were announced, including abandonment of control of banking properties. Giannini has censured the Walker group in the company for its policies and has begun to seek proxies.

In the first reply to Giannini Walker vigorously attacks the California financier, citing large funds which were placed to his credit during his management of the corporation. Walker is joined in the letter by James A. Bacigalupi, president of Transamerica. Bacigalupi was long a close associate of Giannini in California, but broke with him recently.

In an effort to obtain a vote of confidence at the earliest practicable date, the management has moved the regular annual meeting date up to next February 15. The date had been set originally for March 31, 1932.

In attacking the management of Giannini in the past, the letter states that "there was placed to Mr. Giannini's credit from the cash funds of Bancitaly Corporation, or subsidiaries of Transamerica, during the three-year period, 1927-1930, no less than $3,700,000." This figure, it was added, "does not include the $1,500,000 given at Mr. Giannini's request by Bancitaly Corporation to the University of California to establish the Giannini Foundation and for the building of Giannini Hall, making $5,200,000 in all."

The appeal to stockholders further states that $2,400,000 was placed to Mr. Giannini's credit between December 30, 1929, and January 21, 1930, after the stock market crash and immediately before his retirement from active service with the corporation.

500 JOBLESS TO GET WORK AT CHRISTMAS

Week's Employment Will Be Arranged for Idle by Relief Group.

Plans of the District of Columbia Committee on Employment to make a Christmas present of five days' work, six hours a day, at 45 cents an hour, to 500 jobless men next week were outlined yesterday by Herbert L. Willett, jr., acting executive secretary of the committee, at a meting held in the board room of the District Building. Mr. Willett explained that the names of the men to be employed were obtained from the various social agencies and from the United States Employment Bureau.

Employment is being arranged with the cooperation of the District of Columbia Commissioners through the office of Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and the cooperation of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, superintendent of public buildings and grounds. Mrs. Agatha D. Ward, of the United States Employment Bureau, counterchecked the list of men for the committee. It was agreed that the work would be spread as much as possible, rather than give any number of men steady work.

The work of the women's division has been enlarged. A sewing committee under the supervision of the Junior League has been established at 1320 F street northwest. Mr. Willett also suggested a dormitory be established for women who do not care to go to an agency for aid, but who would be glad to work for food and shelter while awaiting a position.

Chairman Graham presented the resignation of George Adams, former executive secretary of the committee, for action, and his action in accepting it was endorsed. A letter was written to Mr. Adams thanking him for his work during the thirteen months he served.

Mr. Graham announced that William C. Cleary, who had been acting as chief clerk, would continue officially in that capacity, and his appointment was confirmed, as was that of Mr. Willett, loaned by the Community Chest.

Sidney F. Taliaferro, treasurer of the committee, was authorized to appoint Miss M. I. Welmer as assistant treasurer, and Maj. D. J. Donovan, chairman of the finance committee, was authorized to appoint A. B. Pilkerson as vice chairman to act in his absence.

Every Week's Delay in Joining a Christmas Club makes the first payment harder.

THE WAR DEBTS.

Just as Congress is considering the question of approving the "Hoover moratorium," the President sends in a message in which he virtually approves another postponement of payments on the war debts. At the same time the Senate adopts a resolution directing an inquiry into the methods of floating foreign bonds in this market, the identity of the bankers, the profits they have made, and the character and amount of these enormous transactions. All these foreign securities have depreciated, some of the foreign governments concerned have defaulted, and others threaten to repudiate their obligations.

Apparently American buyers of foreign bonds stand to lose billions of dollars. It is now suggested that the World War Foreign Debt Commission be revived, with a view to accommodating "certain foreign governments" which are unable to make payments in full next year. Thus the taxpayers of the United States, as well as buyers of foreign bonds, are apparently to lose enormous sums.

Which foreign government is unable to pay installments upon its debt to the United States? The President does not name any, but advises Congress that "a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life."

Does this mean that the governments holding claims against Germany are to be compensated for any concessions they may make by a corresponding concession from the United States? It is currently rumored that an understanding of this kind was reached by President Hoover and Premier Laval, but no official confirmation or denial of the rumor has been made. If the rumor be true, it seems that the United States is to purchase relief for Germany by saddling the load upon American taxpayers, thus permitting foreign debtors to escape without sacrificing a dollar.

Can it be that France is unable to pay the installments of its debt to the United States? If so, the world has been sadly misled. It supposed that France was exceptionally prosperous, with the second largest store of the world's gold in its vaults, and with demand deposits of additional hundreds of millions in London and New York.

If not France, can it be Italy that is insolvent? This does not seem probable, in view of Foreign Minister Grandi's statements while here that his country was in good shape and not in need of a loan.

The third heavy debtor is Great Britain. But Britain has never taxed its people a cent for the American debt. It has always collected from its debtors more than enough to pay the installments to the United States. Therefore, unless it has been arranged that Great Britain is to suspend collections from others and is to be compensated for this sacrifice by being released from payments to the United States, it is difficult to identify the governments which are to be unable to meet further payments.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made the unqualified statement in Parliament on Wednesday that a conference on international debts would be held after the experts at Basel had reported on the condition of Germany. If he meant that Germany's creditors would meet to revise the Young plan, well and good; but if he meant that a conference would be held to consider revision of the debts to the United States his statement is a gross offense to this country. The United States could not participate in such a conference or countenance it in any way. The debt of each government has been considered separately, and without reference to German reparations; and this fact is emphatically reiterated by President Hoover in his message of yesterday. No matter how desperately Mr. MacDonald may desire to shake off Britain's debt to the United States, he must deal directly and solely with this country on that subject. If he should induce the other debtors to meet in conference for the purpose of devising a scheme to revise their debts to this country he would merely stir up resentment in this country and the abandonment of any further efforts to assist Great Britain.

The latest developments in regard to war debts, here and abroad, are unfortunate. A furious controversy is likely to develop in Congress. The people are suspicious of European governments, after ten years' persistent effort on the part of those governments to make payment of their debts contingent upon Germany's payments to them. Now that the administration seems to have been drawn into a position where it must propose to transfer to American taxpayers any burden which European governments take from Germany, it is not to be expected that the transaction can be consummated without a battle. Americans will not permit foreign governments to wriggle away from their debts, under the pretext that they are forgiving Germany. Their claims upon Germany may be dishonest altogether, and in any event are palpably extortionate; but America's claims upon them are honest, and have been generously reduced.

The United States has acted in good faith. Now it is time for European debtors to show good faith.

MANCHURIA SURRENDERED.

With heavy losses to its prestige, the League of Nations has effected its retreat from Manchuria. A few weeks ago the league council was speaking boldly of economic sanctions and of withdrawing ambassadors from Tokyo. Since that time Japan has pressed steadily forward and has actually taken control of Manchuria. But the league now withdraws all threats, humbly resigning the affair into the hands of an investigating committee. In the meantime the belligerent powers are "invited to keep the council informed."

The resolution as it was finally passed amounts to little more than a face-saving gesture on the part of the league. Efforts to require Japanese evacuation on a definite date were abandoned. The council even found it impractical to establish a neutral zone around Chinchow, the only area that is not now under control of the Japanese. No restraint is put upon Japan's "right" to hunt bandits, which means that hostilities and aggression may be resumed at any time without being considered a violation of this agreement. China, on the other hand, reserves "any and all rights, remedies and juridical positions" to which it is entitled under the league covenant and treaties.

The effect of the resolution is to leave Japan in control of Manchuria. Japan would not even compromise. It is well understood that the objective of the invading army is to oust the existing government of Manchuria and to rid those provinces of all elements that are inimical to Japan. China is informed that to avoid trouble her armies must be withdrawn from Manchuria, leaving that area to its fate under Japanese domination.

Formal investigation of conditions by the league's committee is merely a gesture to soften the failure of the council. The league has taken no decisive action to prevent Japan from seizing Manchuria. What hope is there that anything will be done when the investigators make their report? By the time its study is completed the subjugation of Manchuria will be a fait accompli.

Apparently China must reconcile herself to the loss of this rich area. Japan is master of the situation, and since the league has manifest hopeless impotence, that country will not hesitate to carry out its plans. The Chinese in Manchuria recognize that fact. It is significant that Gen. Mah Chen-shan, who directed most of the fighting against the Japanese forces, has now allied himself with them under a protective agreement.

HITLER AIDS GERMAN PLAN.

Chancellor Bruening is not alarmed at the vociferous threats of Adolf Hitler that his Brown Shirts are about ready to take over the German government. In defiance of the Hitler campaign he announces a new emergency decree, reducing wages, commodity prices, rents and transportation charges, and increasing taxes. The existing dictatorship intends to retain control over the government, even if martial law is necessary to keep the Fascists within legal bounds.

This is the first time in recent months that Chancellor Bruening has taken public note of Herr Hitler's fanatic drive for a Fascist regime, even though he admits that the Brown Shirts "go forth preaching subversive doctrines and scattering schisms and distrust in the ranks of the people." Outside of Germany Hitlerism is considered the most formidable menace to the Bruening administration's program. Why does the government manifest an iron hand in dealing with industry and labor and maintain a lenient attitude toward these radical agitators?

It would be incorrect to say that the German government encourages the Hitlerites to frighten the world with their heresies. Nevertheless, there are indications that the government does not look with disfavor upon Herr Hitler's propaganda, so long as it does not get beyond control. Dr. Carl Melchior is in Basel demanding a "clean sweep of the reparations issue" so that "Germany may be restored to economic solvency." He points to Germany's enormous volume of short-term credits as the foremost reason why that country can pay no further annuities under the Young plan. Germany has borrowed billions of dollars from gullible American and British investors to pay reparations in the past and now pleads inability to continue paying because of these private debts. When creditors discuss terms to meet this situation German delegates point to the menace of Hitlerism and insist on further coddling to prevent a national convulsion.

In this respect Hitler is a great aid to the program of Chancellor Bruening, even though neither would admit it. The Brown Shirts propose to repudiate all reparations and demand revision of the Versailles Treaty. They would upset the republican government. Such a menace at home gives the Reich an excellent atmosphere for the discussion of reparations at Basel.

As a matter of fact, the Hitlerites are not so formidable as is generally supposed. Their rise to a position of influence appears remarkable because they have taken over large blocs of votes from other reactionary groups with similar programs. In the aggregate the reactionary group is not much stronger than it was a few years ago. But the fulminations of its members have increased. If the Nazis actually should try to seize control of the government they would doubtless be ruthlessly crushed, but so long as their agitation is confined to threats and boasts of future power the government is happy to play them off against foreign creditors.

BRIDGE SYSTEMS.

Contract bridge is a great game. It engages the enthusiastic attention of many thousands who never became ardent devotees of auction. No other card game has aroused the world-wide interest that attaches to the Culbertson-Lenz championship contest in New York. Whether 150 rubbers, played by such experts as the four contestants, can really determine the superiority of the forcing two-bid over the 1-2-3 method, or vice versa, is a question. Mr. Culbertson is sufficiently confident that he and his wife will be able to demonstrate the value of his system that he is wagering 2 to 1 on the result.

The first two sessions found Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby leading their opponents, though, of course, that means little when only about one-eighth of the rubbers have been played. There remain so few points of difference in the two systems of play that it is difficult to see how the contest will definitely establish superiority whichever side wins the odd points. Luck will not consistently favor one side, or poor cards boycott the other, throughout as many games as will be played. In such a series it may be expected that the "breaks" will be more or less evenly divided. Finesses in a thousand games will "go" as many times for Mr. Lenz as for Mr. Culbertson, and in the end the contest will probably be determined less by a system than by the individual skill of the players.

There is a growing number of bridgers who advocate fewer rather than more rules. They want to see contract played "naturally," developing the strength of each hand by bids that the cards held actually justify. The game loses much of its attraction when it becomes a memory contest rather than employing card sense and judgment. A contest between the champions of a rule and count system, and advocates of bidding without artificial informative aids would be interesting.

FRENCH IN AMERICA

From the Boston Transcript.

One of the apparently momentous happenings which have altered the course of history was Samuel Champlain's sailing up past Plymouth and Shawmut in 1604, visiting our Massachusetts shores, but scorning them as unworthy of settlement, and his final definite adoption of the mouth of the St. Lawrence as his scene of operations and the establishment of a French colony there. If Plymouth or Boston Bay had pleased Champlain's fancy New England would doubtless have been French today. The Mayflower's Pilgrims and Winthrop's subsequent comers would have gone to Virginia.

But a more important "if," along the line of nationality was to develop later. Canada, following Champlain's initiative, became a New France. It spread westward and southward. It reached well into what is now western New York and Pennsylvania. It held what is now Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, and extended its claims to the whole Mississippi Valley. If its extension in that all-inclusive direction had not been checked this "universal Yankee Nation" of ours would never have been.

The check came at a dingy little trading post on the shores of Lake Erie, where half-breeds kept the foregathering Indians in an uproar with eau de vie. There was war between England and France and the hostilities extended clear to the forest trails around Niagara. Here, where the City of Buffalo now stands, the French had built a quadrangular fort with bastions and called it Fort Niagara. Here, in this French, Indian and British war, in the year 1759, Sir William Johnson attacked the French and Indians, defeated them and drove them out. Then the English settled down at this outpost, which became the gateway and key of the West.

In due time the American settlers poured through the gateway, possessing themselves of the valley of the Ohio. Soon afterward all Canada became British, and ultimately all our Middle West and Northwest; and when, in 1812, the region to the southward of Lake Erie, and to the westward and southward of the Detroit River and of Lake Superior, fell into the possession of the United States, an entirely new empire was raised up where the speech of France survives today only in many place names.

Fort Niagara, indeed, began the end of French empire on the American Continent. The English speech possessed itself of a domain larger than all the civilized countries of Europe, and became the language of many millions whose vernacular might otherwise have been French. The battle fought in these forest aisles around Fort Niagara in 1759 has just been very quietly celebrated at Buffalo. It is an impressive thought that but a bare century and a half intervened between the pivotal skirmish in the woods and its extraordinary eventuation in American national greatness.

POST HASTE.

The new tax proposals would grind down and ruin a man with a $3,000 income by requiring him to pay $1.50 to support the Government.

Those who predicted that 1,001 measures would be offered for relief now see how they maligned Congress—6,001 bills have already been introduced.

The Democratic policy has so long been blind opposition to anything emanating from the White House that their self-starter has lost its spontaneous combustion.

Prime Minister MacDonald will call a great conference of governments to consider economic ills in a spirit of realism. Do you recognize the new cognomination of debt cancellation?

The League of Nations demand for Manchurian evacuation has simmered down to a plea that Japan allow a commission to go and have a look.

A Communist mob in Santiago, taking itself as seriously as a bunch of students, vainly tried to force dissolution of the Chilean Congress.

Senator Johnson is not really so innocent as to think the banks that floated foreign bonds still hold them, any more than the Federal Treasury is carrying the intergovernmental war debts.

Congress will have a hard time convincing members from Michigan that even for purposes of taxation automobiles are luxuries.

Moses who was rescued from the bull rushes never had to face anything as vindictive as the attack of the modern sowjas.

The musicians' union in New York must decide whether a ukulele player is a musician. This may also precipitate the question as to whether a crooner is a singer.

The new census shows that the population of France is 41,835,000. Evidently a play about 50,000,000 Frenchmen can be wrong.

It is gratifying to see Senator Lewis restored to the Senate as correct as ever sartorially. His reincarnation relegates him to the rear, but new members who think he will remain a back-seat driver do not know what a wheel horse he is.

PAUL HUDSON.

UNDER STIMULUS.

One of the arguments against the English dole is that its beneficiaries lose incentive to work, according to the New York Times. English industrialists are disquieted by what they term the "growing habit of idleness." A recent experiment in stimulating interest in work brought out curious results.

It was tried with a group of young girls having the job of threading needles. The rate of pay was changed to a piecework basis. But the output fell from 96 dozen needles threaded a day to about 75.

Next it was announced that after a girl had threaded 100 dozen needles she could go home. This system was a huge success, for all the girls completed the appointed stint by 2:30 in the afternoon. The record now stands at 300 dozen for a full day.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

CONTRAST.

People whispered as he went:
"Poor man, doesn't own a cent.
"Poor man, working day by day
Has no time for rest and play.
"Poor man! What a sorry fate
To be so unfortunate."
But the poor man passed along
Gayly whistling bits of song.
Stopped a moment to admire
Rosebeds in their best attire.
Chuckled as on flying feet
Came his children down the street.
Scampered with them, just as though
Not a care was his to know.
Poor of purse, but finding bliss
Some of us appear to miss.
Pointing many a blessing out,
Proud folks seldom think about.

You Are Armed as Well as Your Neighbor if Neither Is Armed

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN all parts of the civilized world, rich and poor are groaning under the cruel burden of armaments.

No one escapes. Those who pay little or no direct tax are burdened with the taxes of other men passed on to them in the increased cost of everything they must buy.

The people everywhere cry for relief, yet nothing is done and nothing can be done while statesmen and lay reformers waste their energy in an effort to mend matters in an impossible way.

It is impossible to end warfare.

So long as men remain selfish, they will think themselves unjustly treated; apparent injustice will enrage them and, being enraged, they will fight.

If the law and its servants are unable to prevent murder and homicide in a land of peace, why hope that any authority established by men can prevent conflict between antagonistic, jealous and fear-ridden races?

Experience has shown that treaties are mere scraps of paper. Men threatened with death forget rules and agreements.

So long as human nature remains unchanged, no power under Heaven can prevent the ugly business of war.

Why not confess the truth? Men make no progress by fooling themselves or playing the hypocrite. The first essential in solving any problem is to face the facts.

If war cannot be ended, the only hope of a tax-ridden world is to make the preparation for it less expensive.

What is the purpose and cause of armaments?

No nation now arms primarily for aggression. All arm to defend themselves—because they are afraid.

If one land builds a fighting ship and trains a troop of soldiers, other lands say "We want no war, but what would happen to us if a quarrel should develop? We must arm ourselves or this armed land may destroy us."

When all are armed alike, some land feels the need of greater protection and builds a second ship. And the others, fearful of such superiority, at once follow suit. Nobody wishes to fight, but each land recognizes the necessity of being as ready as its neighbors.

In the end, when all are heavily and equally armed, they are right where they began. That is, no one has an advantage in preparation that threatens the others.

Since equality of preparedness is the goal of all, why not adopt the cheaper and saner way of equal unpreparedness?

If all nations were disarmed, there would be little of the fear that necessitates armament.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Secretary Mellon's Tax Plan.

New York Times.

New taxation is proposed by Mr. Mellon which is estimated to yield $390,000,000 in the coming six months and $920,000,000 for the ensuing fiscal year.

This is fairly drastic taxation; the miscellaneous imposts in particular are a suggestive reminder of war-time Treasury finance. The Secretary bases his proposals frankly on the existence of an emergency; he asks, indeed, that the changes proposed be made so as to terminate in June, 1934. Whether the suggested taxes might not yield less or more than the estimates, whether the revenue from other sources might not turn out to be larger or smaller than the Treasury's calculations, must be left to the uncertainty of events. The essential fact is that the Government's fiscal department has at least faced courageously the problem of meeting an immense impending deficit, not through incurring equivalent new indebtedness but through plain taxation, no matter how unpalatable.

Designs on the Treasury.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Senator Norris wants an appropriation of $3,000,000,000 from Congress for highway building, the idea being to help the unemployed. Senator La Follette wants an appropriation of $3,000,000,000 for direct relief of the unemployed. Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart wants an appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for the Federal Farm Board, to be used in buying up crops. Together these demands call for appropriations of $7,500,000,000.

Other senators of the Norris-La Follette-Brookhart category doubtless have demands for additional appropriations. Needless to say, all of these solons propose that the money be raised by increasing taxation in the higher brackets—in other words, by "socking the rich."

Reconstruction Corporation.

Baltimore Sun.

A "Reconstruction Finance Corporation," chartered for a limited period as the President proposes, could unquestionably find a very useful field of activity and one where, conservatively managed, it would run only limited risks of loss to the public. The record of the War Finance Corporation, which served primarily to ease the agricultural credit situation in the years of depression following the World War, and wound up its affairs when the credit stringency had passed, provides a precedent which strengthens the proposal to create a similar institution to operate during the present emergency. The validity of such a proposal cannot be more than roughly assessed, however, until it is cast in far more concrete form than the President uses.

Senatorial Salaries.

Cleveland Press.

Senator Arthur Capper says he would be willing to accept a reduction in his senatorial salary, in these hard times. Not many senators and representatives would agree to follow suit. There is one measure which probably won't see the light of day in either House or Senate.

But since the senator from Kansas has brought the matter up, congressmen may like to think about it, just so they'll understand how wage cuts may have affected men who make carpets, clothes and autos, rather than laws.

Aggravating.

Macon Telegraph.

If it isn't one thing, as a fellow says, it's something else. Here just as the depression shows sign of pulling its freight, up bobs the possibility that the squelching of Mr. Heflin didn't take.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Depression Exposes Grave Deficiencies in Economic Leaders, but Adversity Often Leads to Greater Attainments.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is only in the crises of human affairs, whether in peace or war, that the true measure of men is revealed.

This fact was never more conclusively demonstrated than at present. Our country, blessed beyond measure in its institutions, and in material and financial resources, has been prostrated for more than two years, and the end is nowhere in sight. In a land of plenty millions are hungry and ragged and without employment, while millions of others are living in luxury. The maladjustments in our social, economic and political life are self-evident, and are a reproach to the age in which we live.

Naturally in such times the rank and file have looked to our so-called business leaders to find solutions for our ills, and to justify their right to leadership by guiding us from the wilderness of despair and depression into the fair fields of hope and better times. But they have looked in vain. Midst all the babble of talk, conferences, commissions and stuff that has filled the public press from day to day, there has been no clarion call.

The world situation of today, and particularly in our own country, has been the balances in which our leaders in industry and politics have been weighed and found wanting in every attribute heretofore ascribed to them. They are utterly discredited, and have been proved bankrupt in constructive spiritual and material ideas and in initiative.

Let us take hope and courage, however, from the fact that from evil good oft doth flow. Maybe the world's present catastrophe will bring to us all a realization of our interdependence and mutual obligations to society and to one another. We may learn the fundamental lesson that honesty is the best policy; that there can be no privileges without duties in our social and business relations; that there is no royal road to wealth and happiness, but that they come only from faith, courage and honest toil.

It is by suffering alone that we are started upon the road to perfection, though we may never fully attain it. And if such shall be the results of the travail through which we are now passing our adversities will not have been in vain, and let us hope that out of the welter and suffering of the past there may come a finer and better civilization.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

Suggests That the Storage Tanks for Gas Be Moved Far Down the River to Avoid the Dangers of an Explosion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Any fully civilized city would not tolerate within its borders a disagreeable nuisance and a risk to life and well-being. Consider for a moment the gas-producing plants and the storage tanks for illuminating gas that are located in South Washington, Southeast Washington, Southwest Washington and South Georgetown. These plants should undoubtedly be classed as local nuisances. They pollute earth, air and water.

These plants are a menace to the lives of thousands of people. This will be brought home to the minds of our unthinking citizens in general if we consider what happened just a few weeks ago on the railway adjacent to the Eastern Branch. The railroad company had stored several cylinders of acetylene gas on its right of way. Two of these cylinders exploded and considerable loss of life was only averted by the fact that they were not in immediate contact with residences. Suppose, however, that one or several of these large illuminating gas tanks should be damaged in some way so as to allow the outer air to mix with the gas and form an explosive mixture. No Man's Land in war time would be a haven of rest and peace compared to what might happen in such a contingency. In fact, only a few years ago in Pittsburgh a gas storage tank did explode and annihilated several city blocks with frightful loss of life.

In these days, when gas is piped from Texas to Chicago and from Kentucky to Washington, it would be a simple matter to locate these large, dangerous gas plants and tanks miles down the Potomac where the danger of an explosion would be minimized. Loss of human life would be limited and pollution of air and water would be so far distant from the National Capital that we might with some degree of truthfulness boast of a beautiful city free from the dangers and discomforts of a highly industrialized region.

Taxicab Drivers Break Safety Rules in Hustling for Living at Present Taxi Rates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When the taxicab companies adopted the 20-cent flat rate in the District the police enforced traffic regulations in a very stringent manner upon the taxi drivers. If a driver accidentally went a foot over a white line in a pedestrian lane and an officer noticed it the driver was haled into court. The drivers insisted that they were compelled to hustle in order to make a living.

The same rates are still in existence, the drivers are now hustling more than ever, many a traffic regulation is violated, and yet the police let violations go by unnoticed. In the past two weeks I have seen several bad smash-ups. In each instance a taxicab was involved.

There is nothing to do but have the police constantly on the alert for violators of regulations. Otherwise the drivers will become too bold and cause harm to pedestrians and motorists.

NICOLA WILL FREE SELF FROM BONDS

Master Magician to Wriggle Out of Strait-Jacket Tomorrow.

Nicola The Great will bring his strait-jacket to Washington tomorrow all prepared to present his amazing hanging feat before Capital residents. His stunt, which has been done before thousands throughout the world, will be presented at 1:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in front of The Post Building.

The magician, who is recognized as one of the leaders of his art, will appear on the bill next week at Loew's Palace Theater, but before his run starts here, The Post, in conjunction with the theater, has arranged for him to present one of his most mystifying feats at one of the busiest centers of the city.

Nicola will be strapped tightly in the strait-jacket and then suspended by his heels from the top of The Post Building. After that, it is up to him. He will endeavor to cast his bonds aside in record time.

He has never failed to escape from his wrappings, but he only needs to make one slip. Usually he goes free between one and ten minutes time, and he will be ready to amaze Washingtonians with his speed and dexterity in getting away from his dangerous position tomorrow.

Everyone is invited to watch Nicola make his daring escape in front of The Post Building, but Nicola is a great favorite with children, and after he is lowered to the street from his hanging feat, usually performs a few of his choicest tricks for them. The mothers of Washington are particularly invited to bring their boys and girls to The Post tomorrow.

TRUSSED UP, BUT NOT ENOUGH

Here's how Nicola will be tightly fastened up before he is suspended by his heels from the top of The Post Building tomorrow. Despite the greatest care in fastening the straitjacket the master magician usually manages to wriggle free, while suspended head down in midair, within five minutes. Nicola, who is on the bill of Loew's Palace Theater next week, will show his stunt to guests of The Post at 1:45 o'clock tomorrow.

Bills Caraway Fathered Reintroduced by Widow

(United Press.)

Twenty-nine bills were credited to Mrs. Hattie Caraway, widow of the late senator from Arkansas and the first woman ever to sit in the Senate for more than one day.

All save one were personal relief measures first introduced by the late senator and bearing his name, with an "s" added to the "Mr."

Coke Ovens' Reopening To Furnish Many Jobs

Greensburg, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Fifty coke ovens, which have been dark, cold and idle for more than a year, are to glow again and a large number of unemployed workmen will have jobs before Christmas.

The H. C. Frick Coke Co., subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation and one of the largest coke producing companies in the United States, today announced the half hundred ovens near their Standard mines, just outside of Mount Pleasant, will be fired at once.

Navy Tells of Jobs Provided for Idle

Yards and Docks Report on Public Works Is Submitted.

(Associated Press.)

How the Navy cooperated during the last fiscal year in providing employment on public works construction was told yesterday by Rear Admiral A. L. Parsons, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks.

Explaining in his annual report that the yards and stations met "in a highly commendable manner" the call for prompt action, Parsons reported that in five months, from the approval in February of the congressional act authorizing 68 projects, to the end of the fiscal year, $3,616,607 was paid out for labor and materials.

"The labor employed from February 9 to June 30, 1931, which would not otherwise have been employed," he said, "averaged 2,295 men per day on the government rolls and 546 men on contractors' rolls."

Action on Silver Problem Is Sought

Pittman Says Low Exchange Rate Is Hurting U.S. Foreign Trade.

(Associated Press.)

The silver problem was called to the attention of the Senate yesterday by Chairman Pittman, of the foreign relations subcommittee, which has been studying it.

Pittman, a Democrat, cited statistics showing a drop in American foreign trade and charged the Government has failed to present any remedy. He said the cause of the decrease was the low exchange rate in countries that formerly bought from this country.

Troubles in the United States are complicated, the senator said, by Great Britain's temporary abandonment of the gold standard.

The senator added Great Britain was not as interested in a silver conference as the United States is, because the former has a 30 per cent advantage in all foreign markets.

RAIL LABOR AT WORK ON WAGE-CUT ISSUE

Six-Hour-Day Proposal May Be Agreed Upon as Compromise.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Railway labor steamed into the problem of wage reduction today beset by a fog of rumors, but keeping its own counsel.

General chairmen of the 21 rail brotherhoods and unions met behind the carefully guarded doors of a Chicago hotel's grand ballroom. Outside the air was thick with rumors that the men would accept a 10 per cent wage cut, that they would refuse, that they were anxious to compromise. From inside came only the official word that the wage problem was finally being discussed.

It had taken three days to clear the way for this discussion and the labor representatives took every precaution to see that no inkling of it leaked out. Only one man, D. B. Robertson, head of the Firemen's Brotherhead and chairman of the meeting, was permitted to talk to newspapermen.

Policy to Be Outlined.

Robertson said the outcome of the meeting could be nothing more than a policy to guide the various local unions when the roads ask, as they have indicated they would, that the men accept voluntary wage reductions for one year. Since no definite proposal has been made, he said, there could be no definite answer at this time.

Leaders of the present meeting have pointed out several times that any question regarding wage contracts must finally be decided by the men themselves.

One of the rumors was that the union men, particularly those representing the four big brotherhoods, were willing to compromise with the railroads. This was credited with causing a late upturn in the New York stock market. In Chicago, any possible compromise was believed based on the strong desire of the unions to obtain the agreement of the roads to a six-hour day. This proposal, once turned down by rail executives, was considered a possible trading point to be stacked up against wage cut arguments.

Action Not Yet Taken.

In response to queries about the rumors, Robertson made the following written reply: "'No organization has yet acted or taken a position on the wage question."

The meeting broke up this afternoon and each of the 21 brotherhoods and unions held a caucus to elect three members of its group. These representatives then went into conference with the Railway Labor Executives Association with the announced purpose of forming a program of wage cuts and unemployment relief.

The program worked out by this group is to be presented for the approval of the entire conference at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

U. S. Requests Court To Upset Packer Pact

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday asked the Supreme Court to upset the lower court decision under which Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. were permitted to modify the consent decree of 1920 limiting their activities to the meat and meat packing business.

The appeal of the Department of Justice from the ruling of the District of Columbia Supreme Court protested vigorously against the modification. It contended that since the decree had been entered by the consent of the packers and the Government it could not be modified in any essential feature without the consent of all parties.

GOVERNORS ASK AID IN SOFT-COAL AREAS

Seven States Wire Red Cross to Relieve Suffering Children in Mining Districts.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The governors of seven States, including Pennsylvania, today sent a joint telegram to John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, Washington, asking that organization to relieve distress in the bituminous coal mining areas of the Nation.

The telegram was signed by Govs. Miller of Alabama; Parnell, Arkansas; Seligman, New Mexico; White, Ohio; Murray, Oklahoma; Dern, Utah, and Pinchot, Pennsylvania.

The telegram read in part:

"Among the regions hard hit by depression and unemployment in our respective States none are more deeply affected than the soft coal producing areas.

"The hardships of the unemployed bituminous miners and other industrial workers and their families amount to a calamity. The condition of these mining communities, never an enviable one, has been made so desperate by the national depression that it amounts to a great emergency. * * * The children in particular are exposed to privations whose results threaten to follow them throughout their lives.

"Our respective States have been doing all they could to meet this situation, but for constitutional and other reasons what they have been able to do is not enough.

"It is the peculiar function of the American Red Cross to relieve distress. Great sums are being collected and great sums are now in its possession for no other purpose. * * *

"We, governors of soft coal States, call upon you as chairman of the American Red Cross to perform the function for which you hold office by ministering to the necessities at least of the children in these regions. They are in bitter need. * * *"

WOMAN SAYS PARTY LED TO 'GRAFT' JOB

Testifies She Was Listed on Chicago Pay Roll, but Did No Work.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A comely brunette told the court today a dinner party in her apartment was the lucky event that brought her a $1,600 salary from the sanitary district of Chicago without any duties.

She could not, however, remember the guest who she said was her sponsor.

The witness at the $5,000,000 sanitary district graft conspiracy trial was Mrs. S. D. Huff, a former vaudeville and cafe entertainer, who said she was listed on the district pay roll in 1928 as Betty Tascott.

"How did you happen to get your job?" the prosecutor asked.

"I met my sponsor at a dinner party in my apartment one night."

"Do you remember his name?"

"I do not."

Nor could she remember who arranged the party nor the names of any of the guests except "Grace," second girl in the foursome. Mrs Huff testified she asked the man for a job, he gave her a card and she presented it at the office of Timothy Crowe, district board president. She said she did no work, but collected her check at the district offices twice monthly.

Another witness, Mrs. Rose Backhorz, said she was sponsored for a job by John "Dingbat" Oberta, gangster-politician, since slain, for whom she had worked during election campaigns. She said she was paid $175 and "waited for something to do."

Mrs. Bertha Hensley, Negro, testified she was paid $1,300 for making political speeches for the Democratic ticket, and was listed on the district pay rolls as a legal investigator.

To Caution "Jay Walkers."

Boston, (U.P.).—Morgan T. Ryan, Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles, has asked school children to be careful crossing streets.

Martin Johnson to Talk To Geographic Society

Martin Johnson will lecture before the National Geographic Society at the Washington Auditorium this evening, relating his adventures in wild game photography and his life among the pygmies in the heart of Africa. Mr. Johnson will show new motion pictures of a quality comparable to those in "Simba," recording new phases of animal habits. One of the reels shows an exciting hunt for gorillas.

Mrs. Johnson will be present on the platform with her husband, whom she accompanied in Africa and she will tell, from a woman's viewpoint, of the thrills of wild game photography and camping among savage Uganda tribes.

Loans on Property Lose Minnesota $2,302,108

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Comptroller E. A. Pearlove today said the State's venture into lending money on real estate had resulted in a $2,302,108 deficit since 1923.

He said an "unbiased outside survey" showed this, despite State Rural Credit Bureau records, which previously showed a $500,000 loss. The comptroller's total does not include reduction in values of bureau land since deflation.

First Bill to Pass Aids Olympic Players

(Associated Press.)

The house yesterday passed its first bill of the session. It was a measure by Republican Leader Snell to lift the usual alien immigration and visa restrictions from participants in next year's Olympic games.

Besides eliminating fees ordinarily required, the Olympic athletes would be permitted free entry of personal effects and athletic equipment.

Maj. Russell B. Harrison. They were present with Mrs. Russell B. Harrison and her daughter, Mrs. M. Harrison Williams; Mrs. Harrison in black velvet with diamond necklace and pendant, Mrs. Williams in black and gold lace, Miss Williams in pale green satin and Miss Reisinger in light blue velvet with lace top.

Mrs. Warren Fairbanks and her daughter, Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, named for her grandmother, Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, wife of the Vice President under President Roosevelt, were greeting old friends in the blue room, Mrs. Fairbanks very lovely in black satin with steel trimmings and Miss Fairbanks in white satin, and Mrs. Herbert Feis, wife of the economic adviser to the State Department, a granddaughter of President James A. Garfield, whose mother was a little schoolgirl when her father was in the White House, also was a much greeted guest.

The Diplomatic Corps is much changed since last year. The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, appeared for the first time last night as dean of the corps, having succeeded to that place by the transfer of the former Ambassador from Mexico, and with Donna Antoinetta de Martino, he was the first to greet President and Mrs. Hoover. Also it was the first appearance at any state function in the White House of the new Ambassador from Belgium and Mrs. May, who have already many friends in the corps.

Newcomers in Corps Are Warmly Greeted.

The same is true of the Brazilian Ambassador and Senora de Lima, who came in April after the season had closed last year, and the new Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Puig, here not more than a month, who made their first bows at a White House party. Mexico has now been moved to the end of the ambassadors' line instead of heading it, as last year. The new Siamese Minister, Phya Sompati Subarn, made his first appearance there last night, and the new Minister from Ecuador and Senora Zaldumbide did likewise.

The Minister from Canada and Mrs. Herridge were warmly greeted on all sides not only because they are charming new-comers but also because Mrs. Herridge is a very lovely bride, a sister of the Prime Minister of Canada and a woman well versed in the ways of officialdom. Another to receive special greetings from old friends and acquaintances was the new Minister from Salvador, Senor de Leiva, who although not a stranger in the corps by any means, appeared last night among his associates for the first time in his new honor.

It was an incomplete cabinet line which followed the President and Mrs. Hoover and the Vice President and Mrs. Gann down the stairway and into the blueroom where they took their places. Mrs. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, not being yet able to undertake such a strenuous duty as a reception because of her recent illness, was not present, and the Secretary walked with the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Mellon. The others were all in the line, but the Secretary of Labor, still exercising care of his health since his recent illness, left early with Mrs. Doak and they were absent from the little procession when they went upstairs.

Dancing Is Enjoyed Until 10:45 o'Clock.

President and Mrs. Hoover remained in their places until every hand had been shaken and then the dancing continued until 10:45 o'clock when the section of the Marine Band which went into the East room to play for the dancers, stopped and tucked instruments under arms and departed, the signal for all the others to do the same.

With the Vice President heading the stately Cabinet procession was Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, becomingly gowned in petunia color velvet, made on long lines, with a square neck line in front and circular pieces falling from the shoulder in back. With it she wore a string of pearls and earrings to match, and shoes to match the gown. Mrs. Stimson was gowned in green and silver flowered brocade.

Mrs. Hurley had chosen a running frock of rose pink velvet made with a circular piece falling from one shoulder. The skirt was shirred in diamond sections and she carried a shirred scarf. Mrs. Mitchell wore a gown of black velvet, the top of which was blue and silver brocade. Mrs. Brown was gowned in light green satin very long and plain and trimmed with rhinestones.

Mrs. Adams was gowned in lame, gold and black, in a large figured design. The long skirt fell into a train in back and she wore gold slippers. Mrs. Wilbur wore a gown of gold cloth with a small figured design.

Mrs. Lamont wore a gown in two shades of blue velvet, sapphire and a lighter shade, and made on long lines, and Mrs. Doak was smart in a frock of cream color satin.

Donna Antonietta de Martino, heading the line of diplomats with her husband, the Italian Ambassador, dean of the corps, wore a gown of white and silver brocade with a scarf of ice-blue tulle around her throat. She also had on a tiara of blue and white diamonds.

Senora de Ferrara, wife of the Cuban Ambassador, was handsome in a gown of white brocade, with a dropped shoulder line of brown tulle. The girdle was of brown velvet with a buckle of brilliants. With the costume she wore a magnificent diamond necklace.

Mme. Claudel, wife of the French Ambassador, considered by many the best-dressed woman in the Diplomatic Corps, wore a gown of black velvet with a bodice of pale pink velvet embroidered in silver threads. Mlle. Reine Claudel, their attractive daughter, wore white, as she most frequently does. The frock was of crepe georgette fashioned on simple lines.

Frau von Pritwitz und Gaffron, wife of the German Ambassador, was unable to accompany her husband because of illness.

Mme. Debuchi, piquant wife of the Japanese Ambassador, wore a gown of heavy ecru lace with a deep decolletage and a cape shoulder of circular ruffles. The skirt was also of circular ruffles.

Lady Lindsay Wears Pale Yellow Moire.

Mme. Filipowicz, wife of the Polish Ambassador, usually an outstanding figure at the receptions, was absent last evening, not yet having returned from Poland.

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, wore a beautiful robe de style of pale yellow moire figured with large satin dots, woven in the material. She wore a corsage ornament of diamonds and a diamond necklace.

Mme. May, wife of the Belgian Ambassador, wore a smart gown of wine colored velvet with a bodice of gold embroidery. Her tiara was of magnificent diamonds. Her daughter, Mlle. Francoise May, who made her first appearance at a White House function, wore a charming frock of pale peach satin fashioned on princess lines.

Mme. de Lima e Silva, wife of the Brazilian Ambassador, wore a striking gown of rich red velvet with a bandeau of brilliants in her hair. The gown was fashioned with a long fish-tail train.

Senora de Puig Casauranc, wife of the new Mexican Ambassador, was in a gown of white chiffon with crystal beads, fashioned on simple lines. Last evening was Senora de Puig Casauranc's first official appearance in the Capital.

Viscountess d'Alte, wife of the Portuguese Minister, dean of Ministers, wore with her beautiful tiara of diamonds a gown of black net heavily beaded with jet, and a short circular shoulder cape of the jet.

White Crepe Worn By Wife of Swiss Envoy.

Mme. Varela, wife of the Uruguayan Minister, arrived yesterday in Montevideo with her two charming daughters and so was missed last evening at the reception.

Mme. Peter, wife of the Swiss Minister, wore a simple gown of white crepe with a long circular skirt and a low decolletage with a strap back.

Countess Szechenyi, wife of the Hungarian Minister, wore a graceful gown of pale orchid velvet fashioned with a cowl neckline and a long-draped skirt. Countess Cornelia Szechenyi was in a gown of white crepe simply made and fashioned on Greek lines.

Mme. Simopoulos, wife of the Greek Minister, wore a handsome gown of lustrous ivory satin that fell in deep folds around the hemline and seemed almost gold in the soft lights of the Executive Mansion.

Mme. Prochnik, charming wife of the Austrian Minister, was in a gown of silver brocade and black velvet. The bodice was of the silver and was made with a low decolletage in the back and strap of brilliants.

Mme. Radeff, wife of the Bulgarian Minister, had on a gown of deep red velvet simply fashioned with a train.

Mme. Bostrom, wife of the Minister of Sweden, wore a gown of black velvet with a shoulder cape of black net.

Sapphire Blue Chiffon Worn by Mme. van Royen.

Mme. Van Royen, wife of The Netherlands Minister, was unable to attend the reception because of illness.

Mme. Bachke, wife of the Minister of Norway, wore a gown of sapphire blue chiffon with designs appliqued in blue velvet of a deeper shade.

Senora de Recinos, wife of the Guatemalan Minister, wore a robe de style of chartreuse taffeta, most becoming to her brunette coloring.

Mme. Veverka, wife of the Czechoslovak Minister, wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a long train and crystal shoulder straps. In her hair she wore a narrow band of brilliants.

Mrs. Michael MacWhite, wife of the Minister of the Irish Free State, was in a gown of black velvet fashioned on princess lines and her only ornament was a rope of pearls.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Model Husband.

WE asked recently that readers of this column who were not sorry they had married come forward and tell us why. Naturally we did not expect any volunteers. But that is just the thing about running a column. You never know what a day will bring forth. And today brings forth a batch of model husbands, assorted ages, sizes, and dispositions. We have deliberately missed a matinee reading this bumper crop of testimonials, which would bring on an attack of matrimony if one were not immune. It seems almost any kind of man may become a model husband if you know how to start. One girl warns the amateur wife that you must be "boss from the first or be slave." Do you wonder a slave missed a matinee? Get settled, for this is going to be good:

Dear Frances McDonald: I would like to be the first to enter my husband as a model. Married twelve years, three children, and I would not change places with Queen Mary. I am 36 and he is 44. I had a fine job when we married, but have never done a day's work outside the home since. He never gets excited, has never told me a lie, disciplines the children in all serious matters, and for the rest minds his own business and lets me mind mine.

If you ask me why some married people are miserable I would say because neither will do that one simple thing. He has yet to ask me why I do this or that. And I have yet to ask him. If I put powdered sugar on the strawberries he accepts the fact. My friend's husband wants to know why. If I served roast beef he does not inquire why we have so much roast beef. He takes it for granted that I manage the house with what intelligence I may have. The same with the children. He does not expect that I gave birth to full-grown adults, but accepts their mistakes and small sins exactly as he accepts the weather. And he has never yet complained of the weather.

When I see the way people manage to fight over things that are nobody's fault; things that are none of their business and things that are of no consequence to anyone on earth anyway you look at it, I thank the Lord that I found a man who understands that life goes along whether you like it or not and who goes along calmly with it instead of against it. We have been through everything the average couple meets. But we did not conclude that either one planned and executed our difficulties, but rather that each would assist the other in meeting them. This we have done. Once when things were pretty bad financially I offered to go back to work. He was not at all upset by the suggestion, but calmly said he felt able to meet whatever came. And he did. I took my cue and helped from my end by keeping tab of every ounce of food, every penny, but never hinting that I was doing so. We have had sickness, in-laws, bad breaks. We have had differences of opinion and arguments. But we each believed in the other. If he holds to some opinion I feel it must be sound—simply because I know I did not marry a fool. And invariably when I really try to see his view I see why it is right. He feels the same way when I am set in an opinion—for instance, about the site for our home. At first we could not agree. He felt it was in my realm and listened to my reasons and accepted them. He is an intelligent companion. He is a reasonable being. He is a gracious escort. He is an understanding, friendly pal. He is a model husband.

MRS. X.

And who shall contradict?

All we want to know now is where a man like that came from. In fact, we are that cynical we are inclined to believe that the truth is this man has a model wife who simply turns blind eyes on his faults and parades his virtues. Which, if you ask us, is about the only way to find a model man! In any case it is her story, and she believes it, so who are we to doubt?

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SAGITTARIUS"

IF December 11th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 3:45 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 7:10 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

Astrological influences on December 11th are negative, and a flat and featureless day is predicted with little to upset the even tenor of your way. There will be many small calls on the purse, which will fritter away an unexpectedly large amount of money. Love affairs will progress slowly.

Children born on this December 11th will be naturally neat and tidy, and discord and untidiness will grate upon them unpleasantly. They will be very close about money matters, and can make a little go a long way. They will be steadfast in their friendships, but will have very strong likes and dislikes in regard to people.

If you were born December 11th, the Stars in Sagittarius radiated influences which have given you a dual personality. There are times when the spiritual side of your nature predominates, and you take an absorbing interest in religion or philosophy. You are attracted to intelligent, clean-living people, the thinkers and doers of the world. You have spells, however, when you like to be frivolous, and to throw discretion to the winds. You economize religiously for months at a time, and then plunge into a period of wild extravagance. Your inconsistencies are hard to understand.

Your critical faculties are highly developed, so much so that faults are often more apparent to you than virtues. It is hard for you to assume a blind eye, and to overlook imperfections. Your mind is clear and quick at apprehending things, and you very readily assimilate new ideas and new modes of life. Your disposition, although sometimes disturbed, is generally calm. You only become brusque and defiant when stirred to self-defense. You are a friend of peace, truth and justice.

There are many obstacles in the first part of your life, but fortune comes in the end. False friends will endeavor to injure you, and your family affairs and home life will be affected by snake-like enemies. Do not be too trusting.

Successful people born December 11:

1—Hiram Paulding, naval officer.
2—George David Cummins, bishop.
3—T. Coleman DuPont, powder manufacturer.
4—Gilbert Rolland, film artist.
5—Leo Ornstein, pianist-composer.
6—Gerrit Smith, organist, South Church, New York.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Black silk fringe is woven into a stunning Sunday night frock of great individuality. The foundation is rose satin, and the body of the gown has silver threads woven into the silks. (A Dah-ray design.)

New York, Dec. 10.

NOW that Paris has finally settled down, and the ferment of excitement, speculation and surprise that the autumn collections raised has subsided, let's take just a wee glance at things as they are there now. It's pretty much as was expected and predicted, my deahs—all the new modes have been boiled down to "modifications" that suit the life of the smart woman today much better than the original styles themselves.

Take the silhouette, for instance. It isn't noticeably "period" now except in very rare evening cases. It's long, rather than quaint—'n' the reason for this look of length is the tight waistline achieved by tucking or wide belts, the tight and swathed hips and the fact that skirt lengths themselves actually are longer. O-o-o-h, it's being done very slowly and subtly, this lowering of the hemline, but just the same it's going on all the time, 'n' some day we may wake up and find ourselves wearing street-sweeping skirts just as Grandmamma did!

Of course, you know, for I've told you often enough, that the leading daytime color at the last Paris openings was black. Black is still fashionable, but it is rather a background to the newer, brighter shades that have come to enliven dark winter mornings than an important color in itself. These new daytime colors, incidentally, are warm browns, dark greens and Persian and brick reds, with a close following of slate blues and violets.

And as for hats—aside from the fact that we still wear them on the top of our heads and tilt them over the right eye, they're no more the hats of the early season than a farm girl's sunbonnet! But more about them anon.

* * * *

If you've the figure, my deahs, 'n' the poise, 'n' the carriage, 'n' the chic, then the frock I not only sketch for you today but designed as well, would be the most original and stunning you ever could wear! It's every bit hand made, of black silk fringe, with the bodice and hips closely form-fitting, and a fichu shoulder-yoke effect. 'N' if I could have drawn you a motion picture today, I would have, for it's hard to imagine the grace of the swaying fringe when the wearer moves about. The foundation, which is decidedly important in so revealing a frock as this one, is rose satin, and the body of the gown has silver threads woven in with the silks!

* * * *

If you'd give a lot to have a really original pair of gloves, I think you'll love the long ones illustrated today. They are of palest gray glace kid with the top bands of heavy silver brocade and the stitching in silver threads. And the wee accompanying purse is lined with flame-red satin.

* * * *

A cup-shaped brassiere to give that youthful, firm contour that's so necessary these days, 'n' a way of adjusting shoulder straps so that there is no necessity for an embarrassing glimpse of undie, no matter how low the frock, 'n' panties 'n' a chemise besides! That's what you'll get, all-in-one, if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for illustrated directions to the Dare Department of The Post. You'll get more, too, that you'll have to find out for yourself—things like a perfect, restraining form fit without any discomfort, and no useless gadgets under your slimmest frock, and so on!

Au revoir!

THE FLAMING POINSETTIA.

AMONG all the lovely things the florists offer us at this gladsome season, the poinsettia stands preeminent. It has no rival. No other Christmas flower possesses the decorative possibilities of the poinsettia. Originally it came to us from Mexico, but it is now grown in Southern California in great profusion at ever turn.

It may surprise some readers to be told that while the poinsettia comes into full flower at Christmas time, it does not fade when the holidays are over. With only a minimum amount of care it can be kept in open flower for at least nine weeks.

The poinsettia, being a subtropical plant, must have plenty of sunshine and heat. It requires a rather steady or even temperature of 65 degrees. Any chilling of the plant causes the leaves to become yellow and fall. It likes a soil that is rather heavy, but it must be one that will retain moisture. When in bloom, give the plant large quantities of water. Just before it unfolds its scarlet leaves give it some stimulation in the form of liquid manure. This will act as a tonic and increase the size of the blossoms. A well-developed flower measures anywhere from eight to twelve inches in diameter. The larger the flower the more stimulation the grower has given it.

When the red leaves begin to drop off in late February, it is a signal that the plant is entering its period of rest. This means that you must cease to water it and gradually let it become dry. During the summer the plant should be virtually bone-dry. After it has rested, in late August remove the dead tops and begin to water it. It will show signs of growth and send up four, five or even six shoots. Remove all but three of these.

Cut blossoms last very well if, when cut, the ends of the stems are held for a moment in boiling water. A few of them massed in a low bowl make a beautiful table decoration for Christmas and one that will keep fresh until New Year's. They are the most decorative of all flowers for altar decoration.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

GROWTH RATE OF CHILDREN.

THE tendency in recent years has been to neglect the weighing and measuring of children. The enthusiasm with which this procedure was welcomed a dozen years ago caused most people to go too far and to expect too much. Weighing was done too frequently and too many conclusions were drawn from slight variations. Not enough attention was paid to differences of build, racial peculiarities, and differences in the size of the bones.

The records were too conspicuously displayed. Awards and demerits, direct and indirect, tangible and intangible, were bestowed without a proper regard for all the facts. Some children were made to feel that there was something wrong with them when there was not, or that they were inferior merely because their weight charts did not show the gains that other weight charts did.

Dr. C. B. Davenport thinks the weight-height movement should have another day in court. He would modify the method of interpretation and make some other changes, and this being accomplished would use it for a new purpose. One consideration, overlooked under the old plan, was variation in rate of growth dependent on season and age. Growth is not steady. It spurts and it slows. It is more rapid in certain seasons than in others. Climate is a factor.

More important than these is the variation due to age. Growth is very rapid in the months that immediately follow birth. The rate is much higher in the first six months of life. It slows year by year until about 4 years of age, but the decline is never as rapid as it is in the first year. At 4 years of age the rate of growth begins to increase. It increases slowly until about 10 years of age. At 10, or thereabouts, there begins a spurt which continues until about 13. After that there is a gradual recession. Growth in stature slows up from 13 on, and finally stops at about 17.

Dr. Davenport says we must take into consideration unevenness of this rate curve, and particularly the spurts. He advocates not only weighing and measuring height, but other bodily measurements. His main point, however, relates to what this all leads up to.

In the old plan emphasis was put on the flats. Dr. Davenport would pretty much disregard the flats. Whenever the weighing and measuring show the child to be in a spurt, then is the time for care and caution. Rapidly growing children are under great strain. They should be spared all the artificial strain that can be under our social system. Rapidly growing children should not be given hard courses of study, or made to do outside work, or be allowed to play too hard, or to be subjected to great emotional strain.

Culbertson on Contract

FORCING A LEAD.

"IF I could have forced my opponent to have made a spade lead, I could have won the contract," is a frequent lament at the Bridge table. This plaint would not be as frequent if the Declarer were more accurate in his card reading and more careful in his play. Desired leads can frequently be forced. One of the best systems of forcing a lead is of eliminating all other suits from the hand of the chosen opponent before giving him an opportunity to lead. By use of the elimination play, many a Contract game can be won that would be lost by any other system of play.

Today's hand, which was played by Mr. Earl M. Hoffman, of Cleveland, discloses elimination as the only method of making game on the hand. It was played in Duplicate and other players failed to find the correct solution.

Neither side vulnerable.
East—Dealer.

	♠ A 6 2 ♡ A 8 4 ◇ A J 6 5 ♣ J 7 5
♠ K J 9 7 5 ♡ 7 ◇ K Q 9 4 ♣ 9 8 4	N W E S	♠ 4 3 ♡ Q 2 ◇ 10 8 7 2 ♣ A K Q 10 6
	♠ Q 10 8 ♡ K J 10 9 6 5 3 ◇ 3 ♣ 3 2

South obtained the contract at four hearts, after North had bid notrump Fourth Hand and East had bid clubs.

After winning the first two tricks with clubs, East continued that suit and South trumped and led his Singleton diamond, taking with the Ace in Dummy. A diamond was returned and trumped and the Dummy reentered with a trump to again lead diamonds which the Declarer ruffed. He now led the King of hearts, removing the last adverse trump. Another lead of trumps put the Dummy in to lead the last diamond, which eliminated all the diamonds outstanding. South again trumping. South now led a spade and when West played the nine he was permitted to hold the trick. His hand, however, was now void of everything but the King and Knave of spades, so South was enable to make his contact through the correct use of the elimination play, followed by a throwin. South knew that East did not hold the King of spades; otherwise, he would have had an opening bid. He also knew that East held but two spades originally, as he had already shown the possession of five clubs, four diamonds and two hearts. His end play was the only chance of making his contract.

It might be well to point out that East could have defeated the contract if instead of leading the third round of clubs he had led a spade, as the situation which gave the Declarer his contract could not then have arisen. While East was not certain as to the location of the remaining club after two rounds had been played, it would be a safer defense to have credited South with a shortage in the suit, than to hope to find him with three.

Miss Maude O'Flaherty was elected secretary and Mrs. J. H. Lapish will have charge of publicity.

Orphans of Capital To See Marionettes

Seigniory Club to Be Host at Show Today in Masonic Hall.

Through cooperation of the Washington Seigniory Club, orphan children of the Capital will be honor guests at a performance of Tony Sarg's marionettes at the Masonic Auditorium this afternoon.

The club, through a special committee, including Col. and Mrs. Wrisley Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Custis Lee Hall, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clapp, jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Dwight, Dr. and Mrs. Charles P. McNeill, Mr. and Mrs. Abner H. Ferguson, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Mistretta, Dr. and Mrs. T. G. Foran, and Dr. Dunlap P. Penhallow, has reserved a section of the hall for the orphans. Buses will be provided to take children to the auditorium and return them to orphanages.

First display of the marionettes was at the auditorium yesterday under the auspices of the T. Arthur Smith Concert Bureau.

Shoppers Heed Advice To Carry Small Parcels

Chistmas shoppers in Washington are taking heed of the advice of merchants to carry small packages, Edward D. Shaw, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, said yesterday.

Mr. Shaw points out that small packages are apt to be lost, or misplaced during the Christmas rush. During the last Christmas season, a check of the downtown pedestrian traffic during the height of the shopping season in several of the larger cities showed that nearly 90 per cent of the women were carrying small parcels, nearly three times the average number during a normal shopping period, Mr. Shaw stated.

FUTILE BRIBERY LAID TO CANNON BROKER

Goldhurst Must Now Finish Out His Five-Year Term for Mail Fraud.

(Associated Press.)

A story of futile bribery behind the revoked parole of Harry L. Goldhurst, bucket shop broker patronized by Bishop James Cannon, jr., was disclosed yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell.

Without public comment, Mitchell handed out a report from the Federal Parole Board, explaining why it granted and then rescinded clemency for the New Yorker. Goldhurst now must finish a five-year term for mail fraud in the Atlanta Penitentiary. The report said:

That Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney, and his assistant, Robert E. Manley, failed to report either to Washington or to the parole board, their knowledge that Goldhurst paid a court employe almost $5,000 to help him;

That both attorneys recommended parole, saying Goldhurst furnished valuable aid in clearing up "an important matter"—the matter of the bribe;

That Bishop Cannon, the Southern Methodist Churchman, vainly interceded for Goldhurst so that he (Cannon) could be present for the case which "might involve him in publicity."

The Justice Department's inquiry into the Goldhurst parole was asked by Senator Glass, of Virginia, interested in the case because of his long-standing dispute with Bishop Cannon. He had asked if some collusion of Federal officials might not have been involved.

Goldhurst, pleading guilty, was sentenced on October 16, 1929. Parole was recommended last June 19, four days after Goldhurst became eligible.

Paid Almost $5,000.

In February, 1930, Tuttle replied to a parole board inquiry that he made "no recommendation at this time." But later he recommended clemency in view of the heavy penalty imposed and Goldhurst's assistance.

In August, 1929, the district attorney's office learned that Goldhurst "had been attempting to bribe an assistant," the report said. A woman was questioned, but denied it. After Goldhurst was sentenced, he revealed—in November, 1929—that he had given the woman the money in addition to jewelry.

The report specifically exonerated Miss Ellamarye Failor, who had charge of the case for the district attorney and once studied at a school with which Cannon was connected.

The proposal for parole, the report added, seemed to have been initiated by the trial judge as a result of "representations then made to the court respecting the distressing situation of Goldhurst's family."

In November, 1929, Goldhurst made a statement which the report said revealed that he had paid her almost $5,000 and had given her valuable pieces of jewelry "and that the young woman referred to had represented to Goldhurst that she was getting the money and jewelry for Miss Failor and one of the other assistant United States attorneys and one of the postal inspectors who had to do with this case."

The report also showed that Bishop Cannon was interested in the Goldhurst case, but it said that thorough investigation "does not support the suggestion that Goldhurst pleaded guilty on any assurance of parole or that Bishop Cannon had anything whatever to do with the recommendations by the judge or former United States attorneys with respect to parole."

Reconsidered Action.

Mitchell told Glass, in a letter transmitting the report, that the parole board reconsidered its parole action after learning of the corruption attempt, and that Goldhurst was indicted for mail fraud a second time for an offense commited "while he was on bail and awaiting disposition of the first case."

Goldhurst pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years on October 16, 1929. He became eligible for parole last June 15, and on June 19 the parole board granted parole, but postponed the effective date to April 15, 1932.

Recent investigation disclosed, the report said, that shortly before the plea of guilty, Bishop Cannon asked the United States attorney "to postpone it on the ground that the bishop expeced to be absent for a time and desired to be present when the case was reached, as it might involve him in publicity."

This request was refused, the report said.

Long Distance Forecasting Seen in New Weather Device

Dr. Charles G. Abbot, Smithsonian Secretary, Exhibits Machine Before Board of Regents, Which Can Tell if Variations Occur in Cycles.

Long distance weather forecasting was foreseen with the invention of a machine designed for highly specialized and laborious mathematical computations, which was exhibited for the first time yesterday at the annual meeting of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution.

It enables its operator to discover and evaluate periodicities in a long series of observations of a continuous phenomenon, such as solar radiation or weather.

The apparatus is the invention of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the institution. Solar radiation, upon which the life of the world depends, has been the study of Dr. Abbot for many years. He has designed delicate instruments for detecting the amounts of variation of heat radiating from the sun from day to day.

It has been determined that the amount of heat radiated by the sun varies slightly each day, and now, with Dr. Abbot's instrument, it can be learned whether these variations occur in "cycles"—periods of rise and decline at regular intervals.

It was while determining these periodicities with paper and pencil that Dr. Abbot conceived the idea of his invention. The device is simple in comparison with most mathematical instruments, Dr. Abbot explained. It can be operated by a person without training in mathematics, and although not a rapid calculator, it will be possible to work out the periodicities faster than with paper and pencil.

The element of human error due to fatigue is almost entirely eliminated with the use of his machine, Dr. Abbot declared. As heat waves radiating from the sun have an effect on atmospheric conditions, he believes that if the length of the "cycles" can be determined, it will be possible to predict weather far in advance.

Another exhibit shown at the meeting was a "living photographic plate." This plate, covered with live algae—minute plants—records the killing power of strong light rays. Different wave lengths of the invisible ultraviolet rays fall on the plate, immediately killing the living organisms.

If these rays fell on a regular photographic plate, the result would be a series of black lines. On this "living plate," however, they are recorded as white lines as the plants die when struck by the deadly invisible light.

Members of the board of regents attending the meeting yesterday included Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, chancellor of the institution; Senators Reed Smoot, Joseph T. Robinson and Claude A. Swanson, Representatives Albert Johnson, Robert Luce and R. Walton Moore, Frederic A. Delano and Dr. John C. Merriam.

GERMAN STRUGGLES TOLD TO DEBT BOARD

000,000 reichsmarks (about $400,000,000) is anticipated. It is hoped this will be recompensed by the new turnover tax of 2 per cent.

"But the 1932-1933 expenses will tend to increase—largely because of the enormous interest on the floating debt. The fate of the budget depends on the economic situation and on the new emergency decree."

In the course of a summary that kept him talking the greater part of the day, the German expert reiterated several times that a profound impression had been caused in Germany by the government's latest emergency measures, promulgated to maintain the stability of the currency.

Berlin, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—World fears of the "Hitler menace" could be removed at one stroke by "humane" treatment for Germany in the matter of reparations, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening declared today.

The chancellor made this statement to a group of 150 newspaper correspondents at the first formal press conference he has held since taking over the foreign affairs portfolio. With his inevitable black cigar in hand, he expounded his political tenets.

"If foreign countries are worried over the growth of Nazism (Hitlerism), let them remember that world events and the political exigencies imposed on Germany are 50 per cent responsible for it.

"I am firmly convinced that if the world estimates the danger of national socialism to be so extraordinarily high, it could at one blow remove this danger by helping Germany in a manner corresponding to the principle of humaneness."

He definitely implied that Germany will make every effort to rid itself of the reparations burden entirely, contending that the world would be helped as much as Germany herself.

"I desire before you once more, he said, "to underscore my radio remarks about national socialism and especially my references to legality. The government is determined to use the authority given it in the constitution in case illegality should be embarked upon."

Turning to the question of the emergency decree issued Tuesday evening, Dr. Bruening declared that if world depression and disorganization continue other nations will follow in Germany's footsteps.

The German nation, he said, now is forced to rely on itself entirely. This means the greatest sacrifices upon the whole people, the chancellor declared, but he was confident they would bear their burden.

Dr. Carl Goerdeler, the price dictator set up in the emergency decree, started his operations today at the Reichs food ministry. All provincial authorities have been instructed to obey his orders.

Power has been given him to fix or alter the prices of necessaries, to examine tradesmen's books and, at a moment's notice, to close the stores or business houses of those who infringe his regulations.

HOLIDAY ON DEBTS LAUDED BY GRANDI

efforts of American statesmen. He asserted his deep confidence in those efforts and assured his hearers that Italy and the United States could work together for the promotion of peace and prosperity.

In the diplomatic gallery was Alexander Kirk, American charge d'affaires, acting as the United States representative.

The foreign minister emphasized the possibility and desirability of settling the naval differences between France and Italy. He called the Hoover moratorium the "first real act of international cooperation," and the first attempt to rise above the "tragic debit and credit balances written with the blood of 10,000,000 men who will never see the sun again."

Recalling that America supported his suggestion for an armaments truce, the foreign minister remarked that the truce and the Hoover moratorium were inspired by the same ideals. Both truce and moratorium are provisional, he said, "but are leading to practical and immediate results."

Signor Grandi emphasized his admiration for "the broad-mindedness, the generous and intelligent understanding of international problems, that President Hoover and the American statesmen constantly carry to their work."

"In the arduous and determined efforts the world is making to overcome the difficulties confronting it," he continued, "this work constitutes one of the surest courses and can not fail to inspire deep confidence.

"Never as today has it been so clearly shown that the interests of all nations are strictly interdependent, that the misfortune of one will never be the fortune of another, and that in the welfare of all lies the welfare of each.

"I believe that the United States and Italy can work together within the sphere of international cooperation."

Relationships fostered during his American visit will be valuable, he said, "in laying the foundations for beneficial action by our respective governments."

"In the United States," he declared, "just as with us, it is believed that peace can not be dissociated from justice."

His final words were an expression of "hope that on the long road of fortune that will be history, America and Italy will go side by side, working together for the realization among the peoples of the world of the ideals of their history and civilization."

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Ralph Capone, older brother of Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, entered the McNeil Island Federal Penitentiary, 15 miles from Tacoma, today. He was transferred from the Leavenworth, Kans., prison, and is under sentence for three years for Federal income tax evasion.

HOWARD REELECTED BY DRY COMMITTEE

Plans Are Made for '32 and New Members Received at Annual Session.

The National United Committee for Law Enforcement met yesterday in annual session at its Washington headquarters in the former United States Supreme Court Building at 206 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, and made plans for the presidential year. New members included the Rev. John Kubacki, of South Bend, Ind., to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Rev. George Zurcher, of New York, as the representative of the Catholic Clergy Prohibition League, and Dr. Charles M. Sheldon, of Topeka, Kans., member at large from that State.

All the old officers were reelected on motion of Dr. Robert Watson, of Boston. Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., begins his eighth year as chairman, and Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, of New York City, as secretary-treasurer.

This morning at 9 o'clock a memorial breakfast will be held at headquarters for Father Zurcher, and tonight at 6 the annual banquet will be served in the Methodist Building on Capitol Hill, with a mass meeting to follow in Simpson Memorial Hall to be addressed by Clinton N. Howard and Father Kubacki.

The afternoon session will open at 4:30 o'clock with Bishop William F. McDowell as principal speaker. He will discuss a proposed petition to Congress asking aid in ending "the great national depression."

The Rev. Clarence True Wilson, vice president of the federation, will preside at the banquet, which will begin at 6:30 o'clock. The Rev. Robert Watson, of Boston, Mass., will speak on lawless liquor traffic.

Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., will close the celebration with an address on "Shall We Crucify the Constitution?"

Apostolic Delegate Holds Anniversary

Rev. Peter Fumasoni-Biondi Gives Dinner to Honor Consecration.

The Apostolic Delegate to the United States, the Most Rev. Peter Fumasoni-Biondi, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of his episcopal consecration with a dinner last evening at his residence, 1811 Biltmore street.

There were present the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore; the Minister of Jugoslavia, Dr. Leonidas Pitamic; the Minister of Egypt, Dr. Sesostria Sidarouss Pasha; Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts; Count Alberto Marchetti di Muriaglio, of the Italian Embassy; the Right Rev. James H. Ryan, rector of Catholic University of America; the Very Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, president of Georgetown University; Herr Rudolf Leitner, of the German Embassy; Mr. Bojidar P. Stoianovitch, of the Yugoslav Legation, and the Very Rev. Paul Marella, the Rev. Francis Hyland, and the Rev. Celestine Daly, of the staff of the delegation.

Spanish Bill Affects U. S. Phone Interests

Zaragoza, Spain, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—One person was killed and three were wounded today in a clash between strikers and police growing out of the refusal of women factory workers to pay for maternity insurance out of their wages.

Gijon, Spain, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Four police were wounded today in a renewal of fighting with strikers, and 40 agitators were arrested. Two persons have died in the last two days as a result of the dispute.

3 Die From Radiator Alcohol.

Philadelphia, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Three men died today and a fourth was critically ill from the effects of drinking what police described as radiator alcohol at a party in a barn in North Philadelphia. Three other men alleged to have participated in the party were held in $500 bail each to await action of the coroner.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES LOURDES MIRACLES

Attache of Medical Bureau Asserts Cures Are Beyond Science.

The miracles wrought at the Shrine of the Grotto of Lourdes in France, which to this day defy explanation by science, were graphically described to an attentive audience of nearly 800 persons at Catholic University last night by Dr. John J. A. Sherry, assistant to the president of the Lourdes Medical Bureau.

Illustrating his talk with lantern slides depicting cases described by leading scientists and specialists of Europe and America as "incurable," Dr. Sherry, who is a leading member of the medical profession, revealed how absolute and lasting cures were brought about at Lourdes without the utilization of materia medica.

Proof Precedes Credence.

"Pilgrims from near and far come by the thousands every year to the shrine of the Blessed Virgin nestling in the Pyrenees Mountains," the speaker declared, "and the staff of the Bureau des Constatations Medicales, of which I am a member, has witnessed countless miracles since the bureau was organized to investigate the cures of Lourdes." The bureau, he said, is nonsectarian.

Dr. Sherry said he has personally handled the evidence of miraculous cures at the shrine. No credence is given to cures until at least a year has expired from the time of the happening, he said, in order that concrete evidence as to the condition of patients prior to visitation at the shrine might be amassed, and also to ascertain if lasting cure has been accomplished.

Cures Are Instantaneous.

The lecturer brought out five major points of interest in connection with cures at Lourdes. They are: 1—There is no physical treatment whatsoever. 2—There is absolute elimination of the time element; cures are instantaneous. 3—There is absence of convalescence; there being no line of demarcation from the cure to the restoration of normal condition. 4—There is inconsistency as to method of cure; sometimes it is through drinking water from the fountain at Lourdes; sometimes by bathing in it, or by receiving the Blessed Sacrament, or other methods. 5—Sometimes the functional restoration precedes the organic change.

He illustrated the latter point with the case of a woman who was cured of blindness, but who, when she said she had redeemed her sight, was seeing through blind eyes.

Dr. Sherry is making a lecture tour of the United States. He spoke at Catholic University in one of a series of lectures being arranged for the winter season dealing with topics of universal interest and wide appeal.

Inquirendo Names Fehr Head Again

Senator Reed Smoot Addresses Session on Interallied Debts.

Joseph Conrad Fehr, Washington attorney, founder and president for the past two years of the Inquirendo, a group of lawyers, diplomats, journalists, Government officials, members of the clergy, college professors and other professional men active in the life of the Nation's Capital, was reelected as president at the last meeting of the year last night which was addressed by Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate finance committee.

Senator Smoot discussed interallied debts, the Federal Treasury deficit and the need of increased taxation, as proposed by President Hoover.

Other officers elected by the Inquirendo for the coming year are Judge C. Rogers Arundel, of the United States Board of Tax Appeals, vice president, and Warren W. Grimes, secretary-treasurer. These officers together with J. O'C. Roberts, solicitor of the United States Veterans' Administration, and newly elected chairman of Inquirendo's membership committee, and Harold A. LaFount, of the Federal Radio Commission, constitute the executive committee.

Man, 62, in Jail, Fears Ma, 107, Will Lick Him

Los Angeles, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A 62-year-old man who escaped from the Alhambra City Jail and pleaded with officers who recaptured him not to "tell my ma because she'd likely lick the tar outta me" was back in his cell today to complete a sentence for shoplifting. His "ma" is Mrs. Charles Peebles, 107 years old, of Eau Claire, Wis., and the errant son is Cordel Peebles.

Peebles, convicted last Tuesday of shoplifting, escaped from the city jail Friday and was traced to the home of his brother, S. J Peebles, 70 years old.

"I was just getting ready to fetch this feller back to jail when you fellers arrived," officers said S. J. declared as he shook a scolding finger at his younger brother.

TRIPLE DEATH TRIAL TO OPEN IN VIRGINIA

Walter Woolfenden Will Face Court Today in Slaying of Miller Family.

Manassas, Va., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Walter Woolfenden, charged with the triple murder of Goodwin W. Miller, his wife and small child, whose bodies were found September 25 in the smoldering ashes of their home near Joplin, will go on trial here today in Prince William Circuit Court.

The mysterious deaths of the Millers, whose home served as their funeral pyre, attracted wide attention throughout northern Virginia, and officers sought to unravel the baffling details of what they believed to be a grewsome murder. Miller's head was missing from the charred body when it was discovered more than twelve hours after the fire became known.

Elmer T. Dewitt, neighbor, discovered the fire when he arose at daybreak to milk his cows, and county officers were notified. Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Raymond Miller, of Dumfries, a sister-in-law, found the charred bodies in the ruins and officers began an intensive investigation.

Woolfenden, a nearby resident, was first suspected when M. F. Lynch and W. E. Parlow, State prohibition officers, revealed that Miller had informed them Woolfenden was selling ardent spirits, and that they saw him near the Miller home the night of the fire while looking for a still. Woolfenden claimed he had been squirrel hunting.

The defendant was charged with the murder in a warrant served on him here just as he left a magistrate's hearing on a charge of stealing chickens on October 27. Sheriff John Kerlin said the warrant was sworn out after officers discovered Woolfenden had collected money on insurance policies on Miller's life. He gave the amount as $740, collected on a double indemnity policy. Commonwealth's Attorney Thomas H. Lion said it was originally made payable to the Miller estate, but later was changed to make Woolfenden the beneficiary.

Woolfenden was indicted by the Prince William grand jury last week on three counts of murder and one of housebreaking and his trial fixed for December 11.

Crew of Motorboat Feared Lost at Sea

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The remains of the motorboat Mariguana, of Nassau, Bahamas, was found today by the Coast Guard floating in Charleston harbor near the jetties.

The boat is believed to have gone to pieces on the jetties during a northeast gale Tuesday night. No trace of the crew, thought probably to have numbered five or six, was seen.

Fall River, Mass., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Two units, the only divisions of the Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates in Fall River remaining closed, will reopen Monday, giving employment to 1,100 to 1,200 operatives.

M'DONALD FOES FAIL IN VOTE OF CENSURE

House of Commons Defeats Labor Effort by Ballot of 439 to 44.

London, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A Labor opposition vote of censure against Prime Minister MacDonald's government for its handling of economic questions was defeated by a vote of 439 to 44 in the House of Commons tonight.

The motion calling for the vote of censure arraigned the government for failure to take steps to "deal with the currency and exchange situation" and for not producing a plan to cope with the problems of unemployment and high rent.

The result of the voting, which came after two days of debate, was a foregone conclusion. But the debate was made noteworthy by the prime minister's references yesterday to plans for an international conference of nations to investigtae causes of the world's economic ills.

Other Efforts Fail.

Attempts also were made by protectionist Conservatives to force the government into adoption of iron and steel tariffs, but these were warded off by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade.

Prime Minister MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today he would ask Parliament tomorrow to adjourn until February 2 and request power for the speaker to summon the house at an earlier date if it became necessary.

He said also the government's agricultural policy would be settled during the recess and a statement thereon would be made soon after the Commons reconvened.

Hoover Waits Details.

(Associated Press.)

American participation in the general economic conference suggested by Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, was described in administration circles yesterday as dependent upon the program for such a meeting.

Aside from informative dispatches from American diplomatic missions that such a conference was being talked over informally, the State Department had no information regarding the proposal.

President Hoover and his advisers have already surveyed the field of international economics, in the expectation that some action must be taken before the expiration of the one year's moratorium on international debts.

The Washington Government is determined that the initiative must come from Europe.

VISITING KIWANIANS HONORED AT SESSION

New Officers of Maryland and Virginia Clubs and Educators Are Guests.

The orthopedic committee luncheon of the Washington Kiwanis Club was held yesterday at the Raleigh. Local Kiwanians were hosts to newly elected officers of several Maryland and Virginia clubs and members of the Board of Education.

Miss Beulah Drake, principal of Weightman School for Crippled Children, which is actively supported by the Kiwanis organization, spoke on activities of the school. She particularly outlined the necessity of supplementing the work of the hospital staff by adequate school training and a definite plan of placement.

The officers of the out-of-town Kiwanis Clubs attended a special school of instruction yesterday at the Raleigh, held to acquaint them with their new duties. Virginia clubs represented included Arlington County, Alexandria, Clarendon, Frederick, Manassas, Winchester, Frederick and Hagerstown, Md., sent their officers.

The school was presided over by Lieut. Governor-elect Jesse C. Oakes. Speakers included past governors, past presidents, members of the District committee on Kiwanis education and others. Bradford Moses, past president of the Washington Club, spoke on three topics while Edwin F. Hill, chairman of the District committee on Kiwanis education and vice president of the Washington Club, gave a talk on "Interclub Relations."

Dr. Rabbi Simon, president of the Board of Education, spoke at the luncheon congratulating the Kiwanians on the work they are doing for the crippled children. Other guests included Dr. Frank Ballou, superintendent of public schools; Stephen Kramer, first assistant superintendent of public schools, and Robert Haycock, assistant superintendent of public schools; Dr. W. S. Fowler, health officer of the District of Columbia; Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, vice president of the Board of Education, and others.

Tydings Would Found U. S. Sculpture Board

(Associated Press)

Senator Tydings, who is well brushed up on such subjects, wants Congress to do something for American art.

The Marylander, who is a painter, among other things, has submitted a bill to establish a national painting and sculpture board, with an annual competition for American painters and sculptors.

Clear Skin—

rich, red blood cells will help you . . . .

"I WAS determined to have a clear skin."

"Some one told me of S.S.S. * * * now I am so glad the last pimple is gone."

Whenever bad complexion or blemishes on the skin are due to a low blood count, or to a lagging appetite, the condition can be relieved or benefited by a course of S.S.S.

If you are pale, or languid, give S.S.S. a trial. It may help you as it has helped thousands of others.

Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Builds Sturdy Health

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

Don't let them count you out!

TOURNEY IS OPENED BY BRIDGE LEAGUE

Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Clarke, Champions in 1930, Are in Contest.

The Washington Bridge League started, last night, the first of a three-day series of bridge contests at the Shoreham Hotel to determine the Washington champions in contract bridge. The assembled contestants numbered approximately 100, including Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Clarke, contract pair champions of The Washington Post tournament last year.

A tournament held yesterday for class B players resulted in the open tournament trophies awarded to Mrs. Ralph Emery and Mrs. Elmer Jones, and Mrs. Allan Rutherford and T. H. Wilkenson, teams from Baltimore.

Last night the first round of the contract pair championship was played and the two leading teams in their sections are Mrs. Robert C. Jones and Mrs. M. R. West in the first section, and Mrs. F. H. Stephens and Miss A. E. Skinker in the second. The leading contestants are Washingtonians.

The contest is being held under auspices of the American Bridge League, and its official rules givern the play. R. E. Needham is manager of the tournament and Russell Baldwin official scorer for the American Bridge League, is tallying results. The chairman of the tournament committee, A. P. Stockvis, who was the only local contestant at the national tournament held recently at Philadelphia, is among the players and is holding the sixth position in the play.

Trophies are to be awarded the pair making the highest percentage in match points during the three sessions of the tournament and to a team of four which wins the competitive match. The runners-up will also receive cups or prizes.

Danish Minister Receives Seals

Health Crusaders Present Stamp in Ceremony at Shoreham Hotel.

A group of children, clad as "health crusaders," representing the Washington Tuberculosis Association, yesterday presented to Otto Wadsted, Minister from Denmark and Mme. Wadsted their quota of Christmas seals at exercises in front of the Shoreham Hotel.

In accepting the seals from 9-year-old Cora Ann Berliner, granddaughter of the late Emile Berliner, Mr. Wadsted declared that Einar Hoelbiell, of Denmark, was the originator of the Christmas seal idea.

The children arrived at the hotel aboard an old tally-ho stagecoach, driven by a Santa Claus. After receiving the sheaf of seals, Mr. Wadsted conveyed Christmas greetings to the group from the children of his own country.

C. U. Law Students To Hear Dr. Ferrara

Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cuban Ambassador to the United States, will be guest speaker tonight at the law library of the Catholic University in the second of a series of lectures being given at the various law schools in the District under the auspices of the Riccobono Seminar in Roman law.

Dr. Ferrara, who is also professor of public law at the University of Havana, will discuss "The Relations Between Public and Private Roman Law Before Justinian." Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier, of National University, is president of the Riccobono Seminar.

Culbertson Raises Wagers; Is Set on First Bridge Hand

Increases Bets on Triumph of His System to $7,750; Hangs Up "Wishbone" for Good Luck; "Kibitzers" Blame Lenz's Play.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson staked another $1,700 on his bridge bidding "system" tonight. Mrs. Culbertson put a rabbit's foot on her purse and together they stalked back into battle with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, defenders of the "oficial," or system of the "elder statesmen."

Culbertson delayed the third session only long enough to hang up on a bridge lamp a wishbone that had been sent to his wife and to sign several checks to cover at two to one, himself on the confident end, wager offers that came by telegraph—from Newark to San Francisco. Chief Referee Alfred M. Gruenther holds the stakes.

Jacoby took another $250 in addition to the $500 he put up at the start of play Tuesday.

Analysis of Wagers.

Culbertson's confidence chart now reads like this:

Against Lenz: $5,000 to $1,000 that the Culbertson system is better than Lenz's 1-2-3 official system and that the 150-rubber match will prove it. Winnings either way to go to charity.

Against Jacoby: $1,500 to $750 that the Culbertsons win.

Against an official system rooter of San Francisco: $1,000 to $500.

Against the same kind of rooter of Newark, N. J.: $200 to $100. Total, $7,750 against $2,350.

As Culbertson took his position before the green felt tonight he taunted his opponents with:

"Well, have you decided yet to change over to the Culbertson system?"

"We have not," snapped Lenz.

"Nor," retorted Jacoby, with a glance at the score—Lenz, 9,365, Culbertson, 7,290—"have we seen any need for such a change."

Culbertson was set two on a three no-trump contract on hand 60. With four spades to the ace he bid a no trump over a spade by the opposition and it turned out there was only one stop in spades. The hand:

The king of spades was led by North and the Culbertsons could do nothing to prevent the opposition getting in and setting the contract. Neither side was vulnerable.

Jacoby's Bid Above Strength.

Jacoby made a third-hand bid that lacked sufficient high cards under any system, but it turned out well for his side as it got the Culbertsons into an unmakable contract.

Hand No. 62 involved a set of three tricks imposed on Lenz, who bid three hearts to keep the Culbertsons out of game. They had a partial score. It was a good example of a correct opening fourth-hand bid. The hand:

The ace of spades was led. Neither side was vulnerable. Culbertson said his bid of 2 no trump on the third round of bidding was a bluff which deceived his opponents.

Lenz, the master player, failed to play his cards correctly in the view of some Kibitzers, and was set one on a four-heart contract on hand 63. Here is the hand:

The bidding:

West, 1 club; North, 1 heart; East, 2 clubs; South, 4 hearts. The contract:

The play follows:

East's opening lead is the trey of clubs. South plays the king, West the ace and North the four.

Trick 2: West leads the diamond king. North plays the 6, East the 4 and South wins with the ace.

Trick 3: South leads the knave of hearts, West plays the 6, North the 3 and East the 4.

Trick 4: South leads the deuce of hearts. West plays the deuce of clubs; North, the king of hearts and East the five of hearts.

Leads Ace of Hearts.

Trick 5: North now plays the ace of hearts, East the nine, South the queen and West the five of diamonds.

Trick 6: North leads the ten of spades, East plays the seven, South the queen and West the four.

Trick 7: South leads the deuce of diamonds, West plays the seven, North the ten and East the knave.

Trick 8: East plays the five of Clubs, South the five of Spades, West the queen of clubs and North the club eight.

Trick 9: West plays the queen of diamonds, North trumps with the seven of hearts, East plays the three of diamonds, South the eight.

Trick 10: North leads the two of spades, East plays the ace, South the six and West the three.

The balance of the tricks were conceded.

Kibitzers said the reason for the defeat of this contract was due to the failure of Lenz either to ruff his losing club tricks or establish his spade tricks before drawing more than two rounds of trump. Culbertson brilliantly took advantage of this and on the second play of the diamond lead passed it, allowing his partner to win with the knave, which permitted her to lead the club. In this manner Lenz must lose another club trick, and must go down one.

Mrs. Culbertson had the first game hand tonight on hand No. 67. The bidding involved her rebid of hearts in denial of her partner's opening bid of diamond. She contracted for 4 hearts and made 5. The hand:

Neither side was vulnerable. East and West had a below the line score of 90. The opening lead was the four of clubs by South and the 5 hearts were conceded after ninth trick. The bidding by the two Culbertsons was a good illustration of denials of support until rebidding indicated that trumps support by partner was not required.

Lenz Set on Redouble.

In the first redouble Lenz was set three on a four-heart contract redoubled, costing his side 800 points and provoking much argument. Jacoby, who did the redoubling, claimed Lenz had not bid correctly. The Culbertsons smiled and regarded the bidding by their opponents as indicative of an inferior system. The hand was the seventy-sixth of the series and the first of the thirteenth rubber.

East, pass; South, pass; West, redouble; North, pass.

East, pass; South, pass. Neither side was vulnerable.

The ace of clubs was led by South. The rebidding of the hearts by Lenz caused Jacoby to assist the hearts after once refusing to do so. He thought his redouble was sound if the rebid of hearts was justified.

The second lead of Mrs. Culbertson (South) was the Queen of Clubs in response to the signal of eight played by Culbertson (North).

LENZ TEAM INCREASES LEAD IN THIRD NIGHT OF BRIDGE PLAY

two in a five-heart contract. Net score, Lenz, 610.

They changed positions at the beginning of the twelfth rubber, Culbertson becoming North; Lenz, East; Mrs. Culbertson, South, and Jacoby, West.

Hand 72. Jacoby made game on a three-no-trump contract. Net score, Lenz, 715.

Hand 73. Culbertson was set one in a two-diamond contract. Net score, Lenz, 765.

Hand 74. Culbertson made five hearts on a contract for four. It was game for him with each side vulnerable. Net score, Lenz, 595.

Hand 75. Jacoby made a four-heart contract giving him game and rubber. Net score, Lenz, 1,215.

Rubber 13:

Hand 76—Lenz contracted four hearts redoubled and was set three. Jacoby, who redoubled, expressed his dislike of Lenz's bidding. Net score, Lenz, 415.

The first redouble of the series cost Lenz and partner 800 points. The score prescribed for a set of three redoubled and not vulnerable. Culbertson regarded it as a triumph for his system of bidding.

Hand 77—Mrs. Culbertson was set three on a four-heart contract. Net score, Lenz, 565.

Hand 78—Lenz was set one in a three no trump contract. Net score, Lenz, 515.

Hand 79—Culbertson was doubled on a five-diamond contract and was set one. Net score, Lenz, 615.

Hand 80—Lenz made four hearts on a contract for two. Net score, Lenz, 475.

Hand 81—Lenz was set one in a three-spade contract. Net score, Lenz, 725.

Hand 82—Jacoby made six spades on a contract for three, which with a previous score gave his side game. Jacoby had 100 honors, net score Lenz 1,065.

Hand 83—Culbertson fulfilled a contract for three spades. Net score Lenz 975.

Hand 84—Culbertson was set one in a three club contract. Net score Lenz 1,025.

Hand 85—Mrs. Culbertson made a contract for two spades, which with a previous score gave her game, each side being vulnerable. Net score Lenz 965.

Hand 86—Jacoby went down one in a four spade contract. Net score Lenz 865.

Hand 87—Lenz fulfilled a contract for four spades giving him game and the thirteenth rubber. Net score Lenz 1,485.

Rubber 14:

Hand 88—Mrs. Culbertson made two on a contract for one no trump. Net score Lenz 1,400.

Hand 89—Culbertson made five spades in a contract for three, which with the previous score, made game. Net score Lenz 1,210.

Hand 90—Mrs. Culbertson was set one in a three heart contract. Net score Lenz 1,310.

Hand 91—Jacoby fulfilled a two diamond contract. Net score Lenz 1,350.

Hand 92—Lenz with 100 honors fulfilled a three club contract, which with a previous count gave him game and each side became vulnerable. Net score Lenz 1,510.

Hand 93—Culbertson went game and rubber by a three no trump contract. Net score Lenz 905.

Rubber 15.

Hand 94—Lenz made five spades on a contract for four. Net score Lenz 1,075. Lenz vulnerable.

Hand 95—Jacoby fulfilled a contract for three diamonds. Net score Lenz 1,135.

VISITING EMPLOYES RAP RICH'S PAY BILL

Tell House Member in Plea That Salaries Were Not Raised During Boom.

Twenty Government employes representing their brother workers in eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, descended on Washington yesterday determined to disabuse the minds of members of Congress from that section that reduction of salaries of Government workers was a panacea for the ills of depression.

They conferred with Representative Robert F. Rich (Republican), Pennsylvania, in the headquarters of the National Federation of Federal Employes in the Labor Building, near the Capitol. Mr. Rich is the author of the first bill introduced in the House providing for a reduction in Government salaries.

The argument of Representative Rich did not persuade the workers nor, probably, did the arguments of the workers convert Mr. Rich to their side, but there did develop a mutual respect and a broadened viewpoint.

Outcome Is Uncertain.

What the outcome will be remains to be seen. Luther C. Steward, president, and Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer, of the Federation of Federal Employes, will confer again with Mr. Rich.

Addressing the gathering, Mr. Rich said that as an employer and a citizen he was opposed to wage cutting; that the more than 500 employes in his mill were a happy family; that there never had been a strike or any labor trouble there; that he was concerned with maintaining the family and living standards of his employes, and that he wanted to keep up wages.

Representative Rich favored old age pensions and urged a minimum wage law which would prevent unscrupulous employers from taking advantage of a buyer's market throqgh ruthless cutting of wages. His proposal to cut Government salaries, Mr. Rich said, was advanced only as his idea of how to help reduce Government expenditures and relieve the burden of the depression and was only a temporary expedient which should not extend beyond a year.

Point Out Their Views.

Representative Rich was only one of several members of Congress called on by the delegation, for whom George Christie, jr., and Harry G. Harris, acted as spokesmen. They pointed out that talk of cutting Government salaries was improper because Government workers had not had the advantage of the high salaries of the boom period, but had labored under the same low pay of past years during the period when living costs rose.

Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), of New York, and Representative William I. Sirovich (Democrat), of New York, yesterday introduced bills affecting retirement of Government employes. Mr. LaGuardia's bill provided for retirement of Government workers after 30 years of service. Mr. Sirovich's bill provided for retirement at 60 years of age and provided that widows who had married ten years before the death of their husbands shall receive three-fourths of the annuity due their husbands.

M'INTURFF RITES PLANNED.

Department of Commerce Worker Will Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services for George Frank McInturff, jr., who died after an extended illness at his home, 6206 Seventh street northwest, yesterday morning, will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the S. H. Hines Co. funeral home. Interment will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Falls Church, Va.

Mr. McInturff was born in East Tennessee in 1886 and his family moved to Falls Church during his early boyhood. He started work with the Department of Commerce as a messenger boy in 1908 and in 1918 was appointed assistant chief in that department, a position he held up to the time of his retirement in November, 1930.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mildred E. McInturff; a son, George Franklin McInturff; two daughters, Mildred E. and Patricia A. McInturff; his father, George Frank McInturff, sr., and a sister, Mrs. Addie M. Cutts.

MISS HUDSON RITES TODAY.

Retired Treasury Worker to Be Buried In Alexandria.

The funeral of Miss Lucie Broaddus Hudson, who died Wednesday at her home at 1763 Columbia road northwest, after an illness of several months, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Union Cemetery, Alexandria.

Miss Hudson, for 40 years, was a resident of Washington, and for 51 years was employed in the National Bank Redemption Bureau of the Treasury Department, having been retired in 1925. She was a daughter of the late Augustine and Georgianna Norman Hudson, and a niece of the late Edward Stanton, Secretary of War under President Lincoln. She was active in the work of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and was twice regent of the Potomac Chapter, D. A. R.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MANN HEADS G. O. P. ANTI-HOOVER GROUP

Tennessee Foe of Administration Indicates Fight on Renomination.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

An anti-Hoover Republican organization of unknown strength was established yesterday under the command of one of the President's chief lieutenants in the 1928 campaign.

Horace Mann, of Tennessee, who successfully directed the Southern drive of Hoover forces three years ago, is the guiding genius of the movement. He announced establishment of headquarters here.

Claiming a Nation-wide organization, carefully prepared by months of work, Mann declined to name the candidate to be supported in the 1932 Republican convention.

It is reported that supporters of Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania have been in touch with the Mann group, but there is reason to believe that the organization really would like to throw its support to Senator Hiram Johnson, of California. Johnson has assailed the Hoover policies, but has declined so far to step into the presidential race. The name of Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to England, also is heard in the speculation.

Mann did not discuss those to be associated with him except to say they were "regular Republicans."

"If the next Republican convention, manipulated and composed of any considerable number of the Hoover patronage machine, renominates Mr. Hoover," said Mann, "it will be an utterly useless gesture by the Republicans which will result in certain and calamitous defeat in November, 1932."

west. They may not enter Seventh street between the two avenues unless they have a passenger in the cab, or unless they are answering a specific call to pick up a fare.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, in discussing the arrests last night, denied that any attempt had been made, or would be made, to halt cabs answering calls to the area.

After the flood of arrests started yesterday and taxicabs began to grow scarce on Seventh street, several Christmas shoppers, who had been unable to find transportation for their armsful of bundles, put in complaints.

One of them called The Post and complained vigorously against the new regulation. This man said that he had come from a store, heavily burdened with Christmas packages, and had been unable to find a cab. He said that a taxicab company had refused to send one of its machines to him because they feared its driver would be arrested if he ventured to turn into Seventh street.

the present policy of Congress. Appropriations for Federal enforcement are on the expectation of cooperation."

Following this query, someone asked:

"Then do you think we will ever have effective cooperation and enforcement?"

Mr. Woodcock replied that he regarded State cooperation as a local problem. He said that he had instructed his deputies to cope with these two main problems—leadership of the small Federal forces and the securing of local cooperation.

"What is illegal possession?" Mr. Woodcock was asked, and to this he replied.

"The element of knowledge enters in: If you took liquor without knowing it was liquor, you wouldn't be guilty—but the proof of purely private violations like this is so difficult, we could not bother much about it."

All through the questioning, which at times took on an element of shrewd repartee, courtesy prevailed. Mr. Woodcock, attired in full dress, seemed almost to enjoy the debate. Many of his answers drew applause and good-natured laughter greeted some of his responses.

In his prepared talk, Mr. Woodcock asserted that the real problem of prohibition enforcement is the development of a system of temperance education leading "toward that much misused word, culture."

1932 FOOTBALL GAME REPORT. (IF THAT IDEA OF SEVERAL TEAMS COMPETING IN THE SAME STADIUM THE SAME AFTERNOON IS GENERALLY ADOPTED.)

* * * *

CHICAGO.—Under clear skies and ideal football conditions, the annual Notre Point-Southern Dame-Princevard-Yaleton grid tilt took place here today. The game was somewhat marred by a tendency of the players to forget who they were and what team they were playing on, but a good time was had by all.

* * * *

A feature of the meeting was the performance of the college bands before the game, introducing the cornetophone and saxonet as new instruments and striving to play the college songs of their own and their rival colleges at one and the same time.

* * * *

The bands had paraded for fifteen minutes before the startling discovery was made that a Tulane band was on the field by mistake. "We just got all mixed up on who is playing who and where today," explained the leader.

* * * *

THE AMUSEMENT OVER THIS WAS ADDED TO A MOMENT IATER WHEN WORD WAS RECEIVED THAT THE NOTRE DAME BAND WAS AT THE PENNSYLVANIA - BROWN-GEORGIA - BOSTON COLLEGE ROUND ROBIN GAME IN PROVIDENCE THROUGH A MIXUP IN READING THE SCHEDULE.

* * * *

The cheering was very picturesque although also marked by confusion if not chaos. After the first period it was found that the Southern California cheer leaders had been leading the Yale cheering section by error and that a large group of cheer leaders had been calling for three rousing cheers for Southern Methodist, which was not even in the stadium.

* * * *

AMONG the college songs sung were "Boola-Nassau," "March, March On Down the Field Fighting for William and Mary," "Fair Princeton" and the famous Notre Dame tiger song.

* * * *

Because of the difficulty of keeping track of which teams were playing in any given period, substitutes were used sparingly and when sent in were instructed to join any team they liked and run as rapidly as possible in all directions.

3 YOUTHS CONFESS THEFT IN CLARENDON

Admission of $500 Robbery at Drug Store Follows Their Arrest.

Confessions to entering the Boyer Drug Store in Clarendon, Va., and taking $500 worth of merchandise early yesterday were obtained from two youths who were arrested yesterday afternoon, it was announced last night by Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County.

The boys are John Shaffer, 17 years old, of Falls Church, and Raymond Galloway, 18 years old, of Clarendon. The stolen merchandise, consisting of cigars, cigarettes, fountain pens and flashlights, was found packed in a sugar barrel and two baskets in a vacant house less than a block from the drug store.

Entrance to the store was gained by smashing a glass door on the Clarendon avenue entrance. W. R. Boyer, proprietor of the store, died a few days ago, and the establishment had just been reopened for business. Officers Hugh Jones and Vernon Wilt assisted Sheriff Fields in the investigation.

A third youth, Charles Keefer, 18 years old, giving address as 48 I street northwest, Washington, was arrested by James Scott, of the Arlington County police, in Clarendon last night. He, too, admitted his connection with the crime, according to Sheriff Fields.

Shaffer was being questioned further by officers together with Sheriff Fields at a late hour last night regarding other robberies in the county.

Two Held for Jury On Dry Law Charges

Waiving preliminary hearing on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Francis J. Brennan was held for the grand jury yesterday by Judge Harry R. Thomas. He was later released on $500 bond.

Marion Vinson, who also waived preliminary hearing on a charge of liquor possession, was held for the grand jury by Judge Thomas. He was also released on $500 bond for appearance in court Monday, opening day of Arlington County Circuit Court.

B. W. Spille Is Renamed as President of Business Men's Association.

The Rosslyn Business Men's Association last night reelected B. W. Spille as president for next year. Other officers are Joseph L. Crupper, jr., vice president; N. R. Pond, secretary; R. Bleakley James, assistant secretary; and Alan B. Prosise, treasurer. Members of the board of directors to serve a term of three years are J. V. Davis and L. H. Greathouse. Other members of the board are D. R. Collins, Joseph L. Crupper, jr., Lawrence W. Douglas, John E. Fowler, Alan B. Prosise, B. W. Spille, and Fred N. Windridge.

It was voted to cooperate with the Arlington County Bicentennial Council in the 1932 celebration.

Reports from all committees show that much progress was made during the year. Among the projects supported by the association and which were completed was the construction of the Washington-Georgetown Pike and the plan to relight the business section of Rosslyn.

Auction in Fairfax County Is Announced for January 4, 1932.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

A statement issued yesterday by Fairfax County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson shows 600 tracts of land in the county will be sold at public auction on January 4, 1932, beginning at noon at the Fairfax County courthouse, for delinquent taxes for 1930, totaling $13,892.59. Of the land to be sold 370 tracts in six magisterial districts are owned by white persons with $10,897.90 back taxes due and 70 lots in the five incorporated towns belonging to white persons on which $1,506.57 in taxes are due. Of the property owned by colored persons there are 147 tracts of land scattered through the six magisterial districts and thirteen lots in the incorporated towns on which the taxes amount to $1,488.12.

Properties are scattered throughout the six districts as follows: Centerville district, white, 26 tracts; taxes, $1,473.82; colored, 20 tracts, $240.35; Dranesville district, white, 64 tracts; taxes, $2,530.19; colored, 16 tracts; taxes, $211. Falls Church, white, 66 tracts; taxes, $2,224.89; colored, 51 tracts; $573.62 taxes; Lee district, white, 27 tracts, $728.69; colored, 13 tracts, $155.30; Mount Vernon district, white, 73 tracts, $1,142.40 taxes; colored, 14 tracts, $100.30 taxes, and Providence district white, 116 tracts, $2,798.21 taxes; colored, 33 tracts, $152.31 taxes.

The property located in the incorporated towns which is to be sold includes Fairfax, white, 2 tracts, $72.10 taxes; colored, 4 tracts, $11.94 taxes; Falls Church, 30 tracts, $644.53; colored, 2 tracts, $15.96; Herndon, white, 19 tracts, $475.61; Vienna, white, 14 tracts, $212.24; colored, 6 tracts $27.61; West Falls Church, white, 5 tracts, $102.09 taxes; colored, 1 tract, $9.73 taxes.

Grocery Company Gives $400 to Arlington Relief

The Sanitary Grocery Co. has made a donation of $400 to aid unemployed persons in Arlington County, according to announcement yesterday by County Commissioner of Revenue Harry K. Green.

E. G. Yonkers, president of the company, said the donation will cover a period of four months, $100 to be used each month. The money will be turned over to the Arlington County Welfare Board, of which Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs is superintendent.

FAIRGROUNDS OFFER MADE IN ROCKVILLE

Board of Education Seeks Site of 30 Acres for New School Unit.

The Montgomery County Board of Education, acting with the acquiescence of the Montgomery County Commissioners, has made a definite offer to the Montgomery County Agricultural Society for the nearly 30-acre tract known as the Rockville Fair Frounds, it was announced yesterday. The price was not made public.

It is probable that a special meeting of the fair association will be called within a short time to consider the offer, according to Otho C Trundle, secretary. The price offered would permit the fair association to liquidate its indebtedness of more than $30,000 and still have a balance. Sale of the property will mark the end of the historic Rockville Fair which has opened its gates for 78 years, to close with a large deficit this year and for the past several years.

Purchase of the property for a school site has been advocated by a number of county organizations, with the erection of a modern Rockville Elementary School as the first unit to be built. Later, it is planned to build a model high school for Rockville and the upper end of the county on the fair-ground site.

The following directors were elected at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Association: William A. Waters, Thomas I. Fulks, Otho C. Trundle, Clarence L. Gilpin, Charles F. Haight, James T. Cashell, Edward P. Abbe, Ira Darby, Findlay Pollock, Harvey J. Harris, James D. King, James R. King, Dr. Thomas A. Ladson, James W. Brown, J. Paul Brunett and Basil Mobley. The directors will meet next week to elect officers and decide whether to call a special meeting of the members to discuss the sale of the fair grounds.

The total receipts for the 1931 fair were $7,406.92, the report of Secretary Trundle revealed, while funds from other sources swelled the association's treasury by $1,850.35, making the aggregate receipts for 1931 the sum of $9,322.12. The disbursements for the year were $9,304.28, leaving a balance of $17.84. The amount of $5,427.34 of the 1931 expense of the fair has not been paid, the secretary-treasurer reported.

Bayol, of San Francisco, Calif.

Pythian Sisters Temple Opened.

Martha Washington Temple, Pythian Sisters, was instituted last night at a meeting held in the Westminster Building, in Alexandria. The work was in charge of the local organizer, Walter Clements. The meeting was attended by more than 100 members of the fraternity from Washington and Fredericksburg.

ALEXANDRIA CHURCH PLANS DEDICATION

First Christian Congregation to Consecrate New Building on Sunday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The First Christian Church of Alexandria will formally dedicate its new building on Sunday next at 3 p. m. The building is located at the corner of DeWitte avenue and Raymond street, and the main aduitorium will seat at least 200 persons. There is a full basement and separate rooms for Sunday school use.

December 12 marks the close of the first year of the pastorate of the Rev. Ralph W. Frame, of Washington, and while there are a number of churches of this denomination in this vicinity, this is the first building to be erected for their use. The congregation has increased in numbers in the past year, that the church has outgrown its quarters in the rented building used the past few years at Glebe road and Mount Vernon avenue.

An interesting dedicatory program has been arranged, the sermon to be by the Rev. C. N. Williams, of Washington, secretary-evangelist for the Christian Churches of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Beginning this Sunday all services will be in the new church building, including Bible class at 10:30 a. m., Christian Endeavor at 7 p. m., communion and sermon at 8 p. m.

An ordinance to prohibit buses using King street is being prepared by the city attorney, and was presented at an informal meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon, but as these meetings are not open to the public and are not listed as being other than committee meetings, no decisive action can be taken by the council members, and matters may only be discussed to expedite the action of the regular meetings. With two bus lines operating in King street traffic conditions have become congested, and Police Chief John S. Arnold has stated that buses seeking passengers must cease the present practice of passing each other on this thoroughfare. Also steps must be taken to discontinue the practice of using certain corners for parking.

Mary Washington Council No. 4, Daughters of America, held a meeting on Wednesday night and elected the following officers:

Miss Margaret Travers, councilor; Mrs. F. W. Ebhardt, associate councilor; Mrs. Ethel B. Foland, vice councilor; Miss Ryrh Rudd, associate vice councilor; Miss Myrtle Purcell, conductor; Mrs. Mae March, warden; Miss Marie Ford, inside sentinel; Miss Mary Edhardt, outside sentinel; Mrs. Margaret Strudey, trustee for 18 months; Mrs. Rosa Cradlin, Mrs. Alice Robertson and Mrs. Ethel Mitchell, representative to state council; J. R. Mansfield, S. T. Park and R. H. Hancock, alternate representatives. These officers will be installed in January. A memorial service for Mrs. Mary Agnes Chapmen was held

Masons Pay Honor To Past Masters

Former Officials of Lodge in Charge as Degrees Are Conferred.

Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22, A. F. and A. M., convocation last night in the Masonic Temple in Alexandria was attended by all of the past masters of that body, who occupied the chairs for the degree work.

The past masters in order of seniority are: J. Fred Birrell, William A. Moore, Thomas B. Cochran, J. Edward Shinn, Robert W. Fuller, Charles H. Callahan, Edward H. Kemper, Samuel W. Pitts, Charles B. Wilfred Robinson, John T. Ashton, C. Aubrey Callahan and C. F. Swetnam.

It has been the custom for several years to present to those members having attained a membership of 25 years in this lodge a Masonic pin, and last night the following were given their awards: C. A. Campbell, W. B. Davis, E. M. Demaine, C. W. Duffey, H. E. Gentry, Alvin Powell and S. E. Wade. The pins were presented by William A. Moore, who was master of the lodge when they received their degrees.

Alexandria Bus Hearing Is Shifted to Richmond

The hearing to dissolve the temporary restraining order entered in the United States Court, to keep the State authorities from interfering with the Alexandria-Washington Bus Line, which started operations this week, will not be heard in Alexandria today as planned.

The case will be heard in Richmond at the request of the attorney general of the State. Judge Luther B Way has permitted the new line to continue operations pending a decision.

WORK FOR POST'S TOY FUND SPEEDED AS YULETIDE NEARS

will distribute toys and funds sent in by contributors.

The same thought was evident through the conversion of individual donors as well. "I just love the chance to have Christmas before Christmas," said a bright-eyed little boy as he rummaged through his toy box and in a spacious toy closet with his mother intent on the mission of collecting last year's toys and then assisted by a young [illegible] proceeded to paint them up and fix them before they were sent in for The Post Toy Fund.

A junior high school girl reported that she had mended and ironed the clothes of her three dolls put away from her most childish days and is busily fitting a coat and a hat for each of them which she has promised to deliver to The Post in a day or two.

Only those Washington families who have looked over their possessions and counted up their Christmas budgets to see if they have toys or funds to send to the Christmas Toy Fund can experience the fun it is to take part in the merry preparation for Christmas with a thought to those less fortunate. Any little girl would enjoy her brand new doll all the more if she knew that she had given one to another little girl and that Santa Claus had remembered her so generously this season because she herself had had this generous impulse.

In one of the Government offices The Washington Post learned yesterday all the women clerks have banded together to collect as many toys as possible from their friends. A friendly but keen rivalry is afoot in that selfsame office to see which group can do the most for Washington children.

All inquirers yesterday were told that every penny of the Toy Fund would be used to furnish real Christmas joy only to children and that a careful check would be made to see that the funds went only for this purpose through the agencies to which it is given.

Many of the letters received have praised The Post Toy Fund as most feasible and satisfactory. It is felt by many of these correspondents that children must have the toys which spell Christmas for them and that naturally the relief agencies of the city can not be expected to provide toys from their funds which are so greatly overtaxed this year, anyway.

These agencies must keep their thoughts on clothes, fuel, food and rent because these essentials must be met. But dolls, drums, games and baseballs are essential to childhood and will bring smiles to wan faces and put the light of hope back into children's eyes.

The Post Toy Fund is anxious to see that every needy child gets at least a part of its Christmas desire. Such presents through the fund will come to these families as welcome as flowers in May, and workers from the relief agencies will see to it that the children get the benefit of the fund.

Of course, while money can be handled more easily, toys in good condition will be accepted by The Post Fund Officers. Such gifts of toys should be sent to Miss Frost, Santa Claus Lady, in the Library of The Washington Post Building.

Here's a hint to mothers who have lost their own children and cherish their toys. Give a toy or a contribution in the memory of your own child and the merry Christmases he had in his lifetime. You will find that it will take some of the ache out of your own heart to know that some other child is happy this Christmas because your darling has lived and known Christmas joy.

1,000 CHILDREN HEAR SYMPHONY CONCERT

Varied Program Is Presented at School With Kindler Directing.

More than 1,000 happy children heard the second children's concert of the National Symphony Orchestra yesterday afternoon at the Central High School Auditorium which was conducted by Hans Kindler and was under the management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

A feature of the concert was the singing of a group of songs by Penelope and Rebecca Tarwater, which highly delighted the youthful audience and led to enthusiastic applause at the close of the group. The singers responded with an encore and were presented with flowers.

The overture to the "Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart, opened the program, followed by a study in the use of woodwinds demonstrated in Jarnefeldt's "Preludium." "The Spring Song" by Mendelssohn and "The Bumble Bee" by Rimsky-Korsakoff were received with appreciation by the audience and then the audience itself was given a chance to take part in the program by singing "My Old Kentucky Home." The juvenile chorus was sweet and appealing and when the song was over it applauded itself vigorously while the kind conductor and his musical men joined heartily in the handclapping.

The program was closed by the swinging strains of the "Marche Militaire" by Schubert.

Madariaga Shifted To Paris by Spain

Service as Envoy to U. S. Is Definitely Ended by French Action.

Paris, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Salvador de Madariaga, internationally known writer and publicist, looked back upon his brief and interrupted representation of the Spanish government at Washington as ambassador today following concurrence of the French foreign office in his new appointment as ambassador to France.

"I took up my post at Washington with great hopes of developing relations between our two countries," he said. "The United States is a country where I have so many public and private friends I thought I would have been able to put Spanish relations with her on a footing of mutual knowledge and effect a coordination of effort toward what has always been my central idea—the inherent possibility of close cooperation between the United States and Spain, and Spanish-American nations."

He said he soon realized with regret, however, that his work with the League of Nations at Geneva would take considerable time away from his residence in Washington.

Madrid, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Angel Calarza, resigning director of Spanish police, was offered the post as ambassador to the United States by the government today but declined to accept it.

ated by his late enemy, the former dictator, Gen. Primo de Rivera. Alcala Zamora was a Monarchist until the beginning of the dictatorship in 1923, when he turned Republican, and later organized the finally successful revolutionary movement as a result of what he considered a personal insult by the dictator.

Decoration Bestowed by Cabinet.

The decoration was bestowed upon him by the cabinet. The only others to hold it are former King Alfonso and Cardinal Ilundain, besides the late dictator, although the republic recently conferred the rosette of the order on La Argentina, the dancer.

Moors in native hoods and white robes, here from Morocco for the occasion, looked down from the balcony as the vote was announced and cheers went up in the chamber where years ago King Amadeo I was selected for his short reign as constitutional monarch of the Spanish people, and where in 1873 four presidents were elected in rapid succession during the eleven months of the first republic.

Tonight's was probably the last presidential election for the chamber, for the new constitution provides that hereafter the president shall be elected by a body composed of members of the assembly and electors chosen by the people in equal numbers.

Among the few assembly members who abstained from voting tonight were traditionalists, who support the claims to the discarded throne of the pretender, Don Carlos Alfonso. Count Romanones, lone Monarchist member, who defended former King Alfonso before the deposed monarch was convicted of high treason, remained away.

54 Years Old Last July.

The president-elect was 54 years old July 6. It was on April 14 that King Alfonso went out and Alcala Zamora came in as provisional president, but on October 14 he split with the assembly over the status of religious orders in Spain and resigned, to be succeeded by the now retiring Azana.

A year ago Alcola Zamora was in jail for antimonarchical activities. Tonight Alfonso was in exile and Alcala Zamora was at his home, receiving a constant stream of well-wishers.

"I am too happy to be interviewed," the president-elect said. "Tell all the Americans I take this occasion to salute them and will realize one of my biggest desires if I can travel to the Americas during my term."

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN that crimson host from Alabama, the Rose Bowl champs of the gridiron, undertake the Herculean feat of playing—and, they hope, defeating—Washington's George Washington, Georgetown and Catholic U. teams, all in one afternoon, beginning Saturday at 2, the executives of the National Theater and the Loew interests in Washington will be in boxes adding their modest dins to the tumult of the masses expected at this field day for charity.

If you dabble with the sports pages, you are aware that the Alabamans, 30 strong, arrived in town yesterday morning and were luncheoned, worked out at Griffith Stadium and otherwise diverted from the moment they alighted from the Birmingham flier until bedtime.

Last night at the 7 o'clock performance, the entire squad were guests of Mr. Colby Harriman, managing director for Loew in Washington, and the management of the Columbia Theater, to view a performance of "The Champ," costarring Wallace Beery, as the fallen heavyweight champion who comes back long enough to score one final victory, and Master Jackie Cooper, his devoted and idolatrous son.

Tonight, for a bit of relaxation prior to the considerable job they have cut out for themselves on the morrow, the team will be guests of Mr. Stephen E. Cochran and the management of "Mr. Whistler," at the National.

As a reciprocal gesture, the Alabama grid stars are entertaining the Loew and National panjandrums at the game tomorrow—which, everything considered, seems fair enough.

A bulletin comes to hand to the effect that Henry Hull, who has just closed in Galsworthy's "The Roof," and Edgar Stehli, last seen in "Steel," have been selected for the leading male roles in Charles K. Gordon and Joe Zelli's new production of "Papavert." It is the present plan to open the new play at the Belasco Theater in this city prior to its New York engagement late this month.

And speaking of such, Guthrie McClintic announces that when Pauline Lord appears for the first time on any stage in his production of Dan Totheroh's new drama, "Distant Drums," in the Shubert-Belasco Theater in Washington on January 4 as the fourth attraction of the Professional Players, she will be supported by Beulah Bondi, Arthur Hohl, Eda Heinemann, Kate Morgan, Edward Ellis, Margherita Sargent (Mrs. Augustin Duncan) and Charles Kuhn.

The play now is in rehearsal in New York City and following its premiere in Washington will be seen in that city at a theater not yet determined.

The fact that Ruth Etting, one of the most gifted and most popular balladists of the day, did not appear here with the Ziegfeld "Follies" during its recent engagement at the National, can be a little more generously overlooked now, since Harry W. Crull, managing director of the Fox Theater, has definitely announced that Miss Etting will shortly appear on F street in person as a special added stage attraction.

In addition to her star rating in musical comedy and revue, this talented midwesterner also is a favorite of radio audiences and has made many shortreel screen subjects that have been instant hits.

Alice White, being all fagged out by the arduous exactments of her tour of personal appearances—her act is not an easy one, consisting, as it does, of chatter, songs and intricate dances—plans to vacation for a week following the conclusion of her eminently successful week at the Earle tonight. Her mind was made up as long ago as last Saturday. Hot Springs may be the spot.

The balloting having closed last night, it won't be long now until we will know the winners of the Fox Theater West Indies Christmas cruise contest and, thus, of whom to be jealous.

While the bargains that were to be had then probably are not available under any circumstances now, I recall a stop at Curacao, Dutch West Indies, on a certain leisurely ramble through Caribbean waters when an American tourist was dickering for a handsomely wrought mahogany jewel box profusely inlaid with pearl. He took a handful of change out of his pocket, aggregating several dollars in all, and proferred it to the vender for the ornate casket. The offer was repeatedly declined. Each time the sum was turned down, the prospective purchaser removed a coin from his hand and replaced it in his pocket, so consistently reducing the bid price at every rebufff.

When the final whistle, "all ashore who're going ashore," sounded, the native hurriedly grabbed all that was left in the American's hand and let him have the jewel chest—realizing about half of what he might have received had he said "yes" in the first place.

I can only advise the winners of the Fox cruise contest, and of the $100 side purse for incidental expenses, not under any circumstances to pay the "first price" for anything they want to buy. Half the asked price will generally turn the trick.

It is one of the boasts of this department that there is no charge for this service! Just a few bottles of Jamaica rum will do nicely! For Christmas pudding, you understand.

Reverting momentarily—or less—to the fact that the Alabama footballers have arrived in our midst, so also have Lynn, Carol and Jerri Yates, Birmingham song-and-dancers, featured at the Club Michel, who are doing their share to make the visiting Southerners feel at home. They are "home folks" themselves and among the best bets in an entertainment way that Walter von Herbulis so far has corraled for his swanky Thomas Circle rendezvous.

It takes a bit of doing to change a name that already has achieved some luster upon the screen. Actual names are more often than not changed to purely noma de theatre when aspirants for fame first risk the judgment of the public, but not so frequently is familiar nomenclature sacrificed when one seems on a fair road to substantial success.

This, however, is precisely what has been done by a young actress of stunning beauty who launches upon a new avenue of self-expression in Chester Morris' vehicle, "Corsair," beginning at the Palace tomorrow. You will, of course, know the young woman the minute you clap eyes upon her—but not her name.

Just to prove it, does "Alison Lloyd" mean anything to you? I thought not. But how about Thelma Todd, the gorgeous blonde who for some time has been cofeatered with ZaSu Pitts in two-reel comedies?

Well Alison Lloyd is Thelma Todd, and the part she plays in "Corsair" is said to be as different from anything she has done as her new name is from her old.

By the way, I wonder what the gal's real name is. Not that it matters.

Car Watching Racket Is Attacked by A. A. A.

The District of Columbia division of the American Automobile Association yesterday urged local authorities to take steps toward protecting motorists from "the car watching racket."

The association advises motorists to discourage solicitation by the "car watchers" by calling the attention of police to any one making such solicitation. Private or semiprivate parking lots where regular attendants protect cars are approved by the association.

SAVANTS DISCOVER WEIGHTY HYDROGEN

Finding Will Be Beneficial in Research Work on Various Gases.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Discovery of a new kind of hydrogen, twice as heavy as the ordinary gas, was announced tonight by the American Institute of Physics.

Whether the heavy hydrogren can be produced commercially and what its uses might be is still uncertain. The heavy gas would lift an airship as it has about 14 per cent of the density of air. Ordinary hydrogen has 7 per cent.

The discovery was made by Prof. Harold C'Urey, of Columbia University; Dr. F. G. Brickwedde, of the United States Bureau of Standards, and Dr. G. M. Murphy, of Columbia.

For some time mathematical calculations have shown the possibility of two kinds of hydrogen. To make a practical test, Dr. Brickwedde liquefied hydrogen by cooling it under great pressure. At 437 degrees below zero fahrenheit the gaseous hydrogen turned completely into a liquid.

Theory Proves Correct.

Next Dr. Brickwedde allowed part of the hydrogen to evaporate. The theory was that the light kind of hydrogen, if it existed, would evaporate first. This proved to be the case. The residue in the liquid hydrogen contained was twice as heavy as it should have been

This residue was sent to Columbia University, where the heavy gas was enclosed in an airtight glass tube, and converted into a glowing light resembling one of the new style street signs. This hydrogen glow was pale pink with a slightly bluish tinge.

This light was passed through a prismatic glass, which showed the extra weight concentrated at the nucleus of the hydrogen atoms. Ordinary hydrogen is composed of two charges of electricity, and no more. This heavy hydrogen had four charges, three of them concentrated in the nucleus.

Weight Only Difference.

The new type of hydrogen is an "isotype," which means that it is like ordinary hydrogen in all respects except its weight. Numerous other elemnts have isotypes, but this is the most amazing one ever found. For the others all are only slightly different in weight from the ordinary atoms.

Hydrogen is the simplest and lightest of all the 92 elements which comprise every known kind of matter. Hitherto known to be consisting of but two charges of electricity, it has been almost too simple for experiments in discovering how a nucleus is put together.

The new hydrogen atom with two positive electrical charges and one negative charge in its nucleus gives scientists more parts to experiment with, yet not so many as to be too complicated. They wish to unravel the mystery of how two or more charges of electricity can combine to form solid matter.

Linthicum Calls Wets In House to Meeting

(Associated Press.)

An invitation to join the unofficial House committee opposed to national prohibition has been extended to all representatives by the chairman, Representative Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland.

He wrote members that those wishing to join should reply by December 14, after when there would be an organization meeting.

Colorado for Hoover, Phipps Tells President

(Associated Press.)

Fresh encouragement for President Hoover in the 1932 campaign was brought to the White House yesterday by former Senator Phipps, of Colorado.

Phipps, a Republican, said he told President Hoover he thought Colorado would be for him for reelection. He added that his State generally elected candidates on their personalities, explaining it frequently would elect a Republican governor and a Democratic lieutenant governor and so on down the line.

150 Armed Men Seized In Philippines 'Racket'

Manila, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Reports that disorders were planned in Manila by the Tangulan, a secret society, has resulted in the arrest tonight of 155 men, most of them armed. George Butte, acting governor general, said the Tangulan was a "racket" with little apparent connection with Philippine independence agitation or with communism.

Roads leading into Manila were guarded by Philippine constabulary. Guards were placed about the home of Manuel Quezon, president of the Senate, and at the city power plant.

Francis V. du Pont Sued By Wife for Divorce

Reno, Nev., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Katherine Clark du Pont filed suit here today for a divorce from Francis V. du Pont, member of the prominent Delaware family.

Mrs. du Pont took up residence here last October, after a futile attempt at a reconciliation. Her complaint charged extreme cruelty.

Milwaukee Expecting Balance of $4,000,000

Milwaukee, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—With all bills paid, Milwaukee's city treasury is bulging with $2,234,000. The city's excellent financial condition was revealed by a report of Comptroller Louis M. Kotecki today.

Before the end of the year the city will meet one more pay roll, and other expenses will bring the disbursements still to be made in 1931 to $750,000, Kotecki said. But, meanwhile, he expected about $3,000,000 in taxes would be paid. Indications were, the comptroller said, that Milwaukee would close its books for the year with $4,000,000 in the bank.

Cash Register Stolen From Store.

A stamp machine, containing 20 2-cent stamps and $11 in cash, was stolen from a counter in Frank Kalinsky's store, 2221 Georgia avenue northwest, yesterday morning. A short time later two men reported to police that they saw a colored man breaking the machine open in a vacant lot in the 2200 block of Eighth street northwest.

Russian Newspapers Play Up U.S. "Crisis"

Moscow, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Russian newspapers are giving prominent space to the opening of the United States Congress, seizing upon America's economic difficulties as evidence of the collapse of capitalism.

Izvestia talks of the "mounting crisis" and of "Hoover's inability to stem it." Pravda calls Washington the "most dangerous center in agitation for a new war," and both papers renew the charge that the United States is trying to undermine Soviet Russia by forcing her into the Manchurian dispute.

U. S. Gold Standard May Go, China Hears

Shanghai, China, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—American gold dollars declined sharply on the local exchange today following publication in the press of an anonymous dispatch from Washington stating that Senator Brookhart had announced that he would introduce a bill in Congress to abolish the gold standard in the United States.

Selective Immigration Recommended by Hull

(Associated Press.)

Scientific selection of immigrants was recommended yesterday by Harry E. Hull, commissioner general of immigration in his annual report to Secretary Doak.

The commissioner would have consular officers empowered to select immigrants needed during labor shortages here.

Filipino Independence Meeting Is Planned

Following extended conferences here this past week with members of both houses of Congress, Dr. Hilario Camino Moncado, outstanding Philippine independence champion, yesterday issued a call for a national convention of Filipinos in Los Angeles, starting Wednesday, December 23, and continuing until January 1.

Filipinos from all over the Nation, as well as Hawaii, will attend this gathering, which will be sponsored by the Filipino Federation of America, of which Dr. Moncado is president.

Parched or toasted? No, sir! CAMELS are FRESH!

THE bedrock of Camel popularity is the inherently fine quality of the tobaccos that go into our cigarette.

These tobaccos are notably mild, full-mellow, delicately flavored by nature — the finest Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos that money can buy.

To safeguard the essential goodness of these fine tobaccos we exercise every care to conserve their natural moisture and natural flavors.

They are never parched or toasted — the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say Camels are made fresh to start with—and why the Camel Humidor Pack can bring them fresh to you, in prime smoking condition.

If you want to know what a blessing that means in unalloyed smoke-enjoyment, switch to Camels for just one day — then leave them—if you can.

GIANT ALABAMA TEAM STAGES DRILL IN CAPITAL

Crimson Tide Impresses Watchers

Big Team Is Fit for Charity Battle Here Tomorrow.

D. C. Coaches Attend Workout; Magoffin Named Referee.

By JACK ESPEY.

LITERALLY and figuratively giants of football history, Alabama University's Rose Bowl champions of 1930 came to Washington yesterday in response to the call of charity, preparatory to playing the teams of George Washington, Catholic and Georgetown universities in the Capital's novel gridiron triple-header, scheduled tomorrow afternoon in Griffith Stadium.

Hale, hearty and enthusiastic, these sinewy sons of the South, genuinely pleased at lending a helpful hand to the city's unemployed, got down to work shortly after arrival with a brisk workout of an hour's duration in the stadium. A crowd of 250 persons, attracted by the extensive ballyhoo the event has been given, watched with admiring gaze the impressive manner in which the Alabamians did their stuff. Never before in Washington's football annals have as many spectators attended a practice of a visiting team.

Capital Coaches View Drill.

It was clearly evident that the Alabamians justified all advance notices as to physical condition and spirit, a fact readily admitted by the coaches of the local teams who viewed the practice and then departed to continue preparation of their own teams for the event. Everything from passing to running through signals made up the drill program which was halted sporadically only at the insistence of working newspapermen and photographers.

Twenty-three players and Coaches Frank Thomas and Hank Crisp composed the party that left Tuscaloosa home of Alabama University, Wednesday morning. Among them, true to advertisements, were Big Fred Sington, unanimous choice for all-American tackle last year; Charles "Foots" Clements, another great tackle and captain of 'Bama in 1930; John "Flash" Suther, half back who has a 100-yard touchdown run to his credit, and Joe Sharpe, center, who captained the Crimson Tide this season and who will act in the same capacity tomorrow.

18 of Squad Played On Coast in 1930.

Eighteen of them were members of the famous squad that won the Rose Bowl championship last New Year's Day by defeating Washington State in Pasadena, Calif., while seven, including Sharpe, have been playing with the Alabama eleven of 1931. Rounding out the squad were five "greats" of other days at Tuscaloosa; namely, Pooley Hubert, quarter back of 'Bama's first Rose Bowl champions of 1925; Clyde "Shorty" Propst, six-foot-four-inch center who was all-Southern center in 1923 and 1924; Earl Smith, captain and end of the Tide in 1928; Herschel Caldwell, a half back now coaching at Duke University, and "Dumpy" Haglar, a 200-pound guard, who also is helping Wallace Wade, former 'Bama mentor, at Duke.

One reason for the excellent physical condition of the squad is that

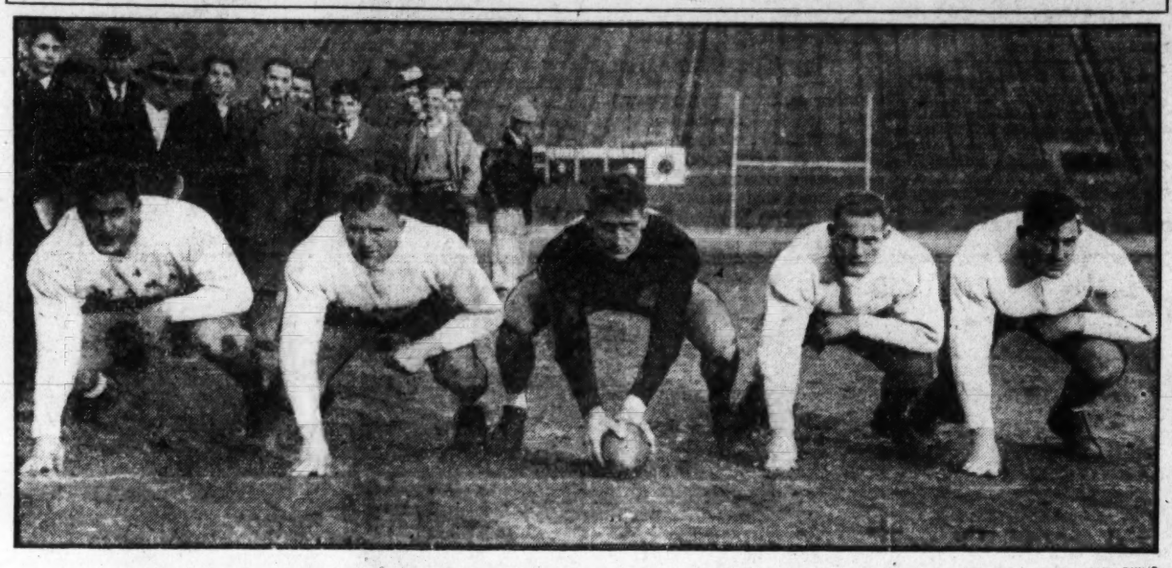
Alabama's Powerful Line Pictured From Tackle to Tackle



Washington fans who watched the first workout of the Alabama team in the Capital yesterday were impressed with the bulk and the speed of the men in the line. Left to right, above, is the center of the frontal wall which will face the three Washington varsities tomorrow: Freddy Sington, right tackle, 220 pounds; John Miller, right guard, 192; Joe Sharp, center, 178; Frank Howard, left guard, 184; Charles "Foots" Clement, 210. The average weight is 197 pounds.

GUARDS HOLD HOPES OF GEORGIA

2 Red Heads in Line Menace to Attack of Trojans.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A couple of sorrel-topped guards, Red Leathers and Red Maddox, may disrupt the famous Trojan power play when the University of Southern California gridsters meet Georgia here Saturday.

It was a pair of St. Mary's guards Capt. Bill Fischer and Mike Steponovich, who turned the trick when Southern California was beaten September 26, but no other team has been able to muster the necessary strength at these positions since.

The Georgia record shows that Maddox and Leathers, 170 and 191 pounds, respectively, have been pretty hard to deal with all season, and if the Trojans are stopped at the center of the line, all may not be well within Olympic Stadium walls two days hence.

Coach Howard Jones' team has been successful on its reverses and laterals as well as the occasional forward passes, but ability to crack just inside the tackles has been the primary factor in making the other plays workable.

Loss of Roberts Handicap.

Georgia will be hampered by the absence of Jack Roberts, who, besides being a hard-plunging full back, is a great defensive star.

Coach Harry Mehre took the Bulldogs to motion picture studios this morning and then put them through their last hard workout at Tournament Park, Pasadena, in the afternoon. More defense work against the Trojan shift was in order, followed by a lengthy drill on Georgia's famous pass plays. The second team scrimmaged as the Trojans.

At Bovard Field, Los Angeles, Southern California was given another secret workout, but it was known that Coach Jones was giving much attention to the Bulldog passing attack.

The Trojans have showed a fair pass defense since the St. Mary's game, but are stronger on protecting against short tosses than the long variety expected from the Georgians.

House Bill Provides Army-Navy Renewal

(United Press.)

Immediate resumption of athletic relations between the Naval Academy and West Point is provided in a resolution introduced yesterday by Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas. The rules of other first-class colleges and universities should govern eligibility of players, Blanton contends.

Jones Overpowers Romano In Mat Show's Feature Bout

Rocking Scissors Ends Italian; McNamara in Victory; Kotsonaros and Cox in 30-Minute Draw.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE old maestro, Prof. Joe Turner, added five more mat bouts to the long and overstuffed schedule at the Auditorium last night, the feature tangle of which was won by Paul Jones, with a tortuous-looking rocking scissors, in which was ensnarled, trapped and impaled the proud old chassis of Gentleman Mike Romano.

Mr. Romano came to his sad and uneasy ending just 27 minutes after the two grunting Goliaths were unchained and allowed to practice squaring the cube root of each other. During the tangle Jones was constantly the aggressor, although twice he was grounded and all but pinned by a strange-looking full nelson with Romano's legs the levers, a holt which a hurried skimming through the Holt and Homicide Almanac failed to identify.

But there was little fear in the hearts of the 2,000 ever faithful that Jones was going to be laid with his nose pointing straight up. Romano had not half the physical strength, and little in the way of trickiness. Jones, while he could have won with straight rassling, roughed the sensitive Italian's gnarled mugg throughout, planting one open-handed slap which would have corrugated the face of a cast-iron washweight.

Backer of Italian Loses Hope.

Jones' jabs with his elbows were sincere enough to keep the Italian nose a bit off true, and before it was half over the lone supporter of the Italian in the audience had long since given up hope and slumped back into voicelessness. The end came in the tried and trusted Jonesian fashion. He hurled Romano up against the ropes, tummy first, and when the harried Fascist bounded back, like a fat spitball off a big rubber band, Jones leaped high in the air and "caught" the oncoming brontasaurus with the treacherous and final scissors.

Although confidently expected, the preliminaries did not make off with the show. The semiwindup was something of a frost from beginning to end. Matros Kirilenko ruined his perfectly good reputation for fair play in the righteous minds of the citizenry, by being nasty to Leon Smith, and long and loud were the exhortations for Nordic supremacy, but Kirilenko, immeasurably stronger than the collegian, dumped him after 33 minutes with a series of flying headlocks.

Two toughies, Joe Cox, a new pan in the game, and George Kotsonaros, who used to be a movie actor himself, tugged and biffed to a 30 minute draw in the outstanding preliminary. Kotsonaros was doped to win, on the strength of several good bouts recently, but could make no headway against the bar'l chested, oak-legged Cox, who seems to be headed somewhere in wrestling.

Herby Freeman, after rough sailing, ground the fine old Canadian shoulder blades of Gene Ledoux into Mr. Turner's cushions in 23½ minutes, after some right smart tussling.

While the customers were crushing unrelated insteps and knocking hats askew in the tortures of being seated, Our Own Jim McNamara, a familiar face at Georgetown, Devitt and the Jewish Community Center, made his local batting average an even .500 with a 4½ minute ring-shattering victory over one Sergeant Reynolds, with an ear-grinding headlock.

Singer-Battalino Ready for Battle

Odds Shift to Even as Lightweight Meets Feather Champ.

New York, Dec. 10 (U.P.).—Al Singer, former lightweight champion, and Bat Battalino, featherweight titleholder were ready tonight for their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday evening.

Betting odds were even. Singer had been a slight favorite. Yesterday the odds shifted to 13 to 10, favoring Battalino.

The bout means more to Singer than to his smaller rival. It's the most important event of his "comeback" campaign. A loss to a featherweight would be damaging, while Battalino has almost nothing to lose.

Station WJSV, Mount Vernon Hills, Va., will offer a broadcast of the Battalino-Singer fight at about 9:45 o'clock tonight. Jeff Randolph will announce.

Notre Dame Played To 500,000 in 1931

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's football team played before approximately 500,000 spectators in nine games last season, a drop of less than 30,000 over the 1930 figures.

The Army game at New York drew the biggest crowd of the Notre Dame season with an attendance of 80,000, while the Northwestern contest at Soldier Field in Chicago, played during a heavy rain, drew 65,000. The total attendance for games at home drew 144,000 in four contests.

SMITH GAINS COAST GOLF MEDAL

Has Card of 68-75; Mackenzie Qualifies in $7,500 Event.

San Francisco, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Horton Smith, golf star, fractured a bone in his right wrist in an accident here tonight a few hours after he had won medal honors today. He was returning to the Lake Merced Country Club in an automobile driven by Joe Kirkwood. As Kirkwood backed into a parking place Smith stuck his arm out of the window and it was jammed against another car. Smith was taken to a hospital for X-ray and treatment. Dr. Bert Frohman said the radius bone of the wrist had been cracked, and that it would take probably six weeks for the break to knit. Smith will be out of play for several months.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Horton Smith, tall Missouri youngster now affiliated with the Oak Park Country Club, Chicago, won medal honors in the San Francisco $7,500 match play open championship today when he posted a score of 143 for the 36-hole qualifying test here. He had a 68 yesterday and a 75 today.

Harry Cooper, of New York, finished in second place with a 144. Gene Sarazen, of Great Neck, Long Island, former national open champion, and Harold McSpadden, 23-year-old youth from Kansas City, tied for third place with 145. Sarazen had a 69, 76 and McSpadden 72, 73.

Roland Mackenzie, former Washington, D. C., amateur, was one of the two amateurs to gain a place in the match play round. He was nine strokes behind the leader with a 74 today after a 78 yesterday for a total of 152.

Two coast players tied at 146 strokes, Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, had two rounds of 73, while Billy Hunter, of Monte Bello, posted 74 and 72. All scores of 152 and lower qualified.

The qualifiers:

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., 68—75—143.
Harry Cooper, New York, 74—70—144.
Gene Sarazen, Long Island, 69—76—145.
Harold McSpadden, Kansas City, 72—73—145.
Olin Dutra, Calif., 73—73—146.
Willie Hunter, Calif., 74—72—146.
Frank Morrison, Calif., 74—73—147.
Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, 73—75—148.
Frank Walsh, Chicago, 70—78—148.
John Golden, Norton, Conn., 76—73—149.
Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, 73—76—149.
Dewey Longworth, Oakland, 73—76—149.
Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, 75—74—149.
Sid Harmon, Salt Lake City, 72—78—150.
Willie Goggin, San Francisco, 72—78—150.
H. Espinosa, San Francisco, 79—71—150.
Al Zimmerman, Portland, Oreg., 78—72—150.
R. Espinosa, San Francisco, 74—76—150.
B. Coltrin, Oakland, 73—78—151.
Paul Runyon, White Plains, 76—75—151.
T. Miyamoto, Osaka, Japan, 74—77—151.
R. Asami, Yokohama, Japan, 75—76—151.
John Perelli, Calif., 73—79—152.
George Von Elm, Los Angeles, 74—78—152.
Harold Sampson, Calif., 75—77—152.
Roland Mackenzie, amateur, Los Angeles, 78—74—152.
Larry Brazil, San Francisco, 74—78—152.
John Foss, San Francisco, 78—74—152.
Arthur Sato, amateur, San Francisco, 74—78—152.
Billy Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 75—78—153.
Jimmie Thompson, Colorado Springs, 73—80—153.

Derby to Precede Preakness in 1932

Maryland Classic Is Second in Order for First Time Since 1922.

For the first time since 1921 the Kentucky Derby, best known horse race in America, next year will be run earlier than the Preakness, Maryland's famous classic for 3-year-olds, it was announced yesterday. The Derby also is a 3-year-old test, and around the two stakes, each of which is a $50,000 race, revolves much of the intense interest on the turf each spring.

The Derby will be run on May 7, and the Preakness, as recently announced, will be renewed on May 14. Matthias L. Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, under whose auspices the Preakness is run, said yesterday that he had just received word from Churchill Downs as to the date of the Derby.

The dates of the Derby and Preakness have been watched with more than ordinary interest since 1922, when the races were run on the same day, a confliction which was deeply regretted, since it prevented horses from running in both events. On other occasions the races have been run so close together that it was difficult to run a horse in both tests and have him do justice to himself.

Campbell Elected Eastern Captain

Tackle to Lead School's 1932 Eleven; 17 Given Varsity Letters.

Seventeen Eastern High School gridmen were rewarded with major letters, and Bob Campbell, 190-pound tackle, was elected captain of the 1932 Blue and White team last night at the annual dinner in honor of the gridiron squad.

The football players honored were Capt. Charles Mades, George Beuchler, Bob Campbell, Dave Smith, Bernie Lieb, Ray Wierschem, Morris Wolfe, Joe Howard, Norman Alvey, Hafry Lewis, Dan Dranke, Tony Palmer, Salvatore Minni, Carrol Boyd, David Sprinkle, Wilbur Courtney, John Adams and Manager Joseph Yahrees.

Adams and Manager Joseph Yahrees.

Presentation was made by Coach Mike Kelley. Among the invited guests were Edgar C. Buckingham, '93, and George L. Lantel, '93, who played right end and right tackle on the first Eastern High team, which beat Central High, 10-5, by scoring two field goals, each of which counted, in that era, 5 points.

Vaudeville acts by the school's dramatic guild rounded out the entertainment.

Present Heavies Are Easy For Dempsey, Says Gibbons

Man Who Extended Jack in Prime Is Impressed by His Physical Condition; Hopes "Mauler" Will Fight for Title.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—An insurance man who knows his risks, hazards a guess the old Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, could take most of the heavyweights right now.

And he ought to know, for Tommy Gibbons, now a life insurance salesman, satisfied and a wee bit chunky, is the only man to have gone fifteen rounds with Dempsey from the time Jack won the championship from Jess Willard until he lost to Gene Tunney.

Tommy was surprised today when he watched the one-time king of the heavyweights step through his training paces.

Gibbons Finds Jack In Fighting Trim.

"I expected to see him carrying some superfluous weight, with heavy, loggy legs," said Tommy after the workout. "But I was surprised to find him anything but that. He's down to fighting trim and apparently in the best of condition."

It caught Tommy's eye the way Dempsey stayed up on his toes through the workout.

"I looked him over at the finish of the session, for it is then a fighter beginning to lose the old vim starts to fall back on his heels, but not so Jack."

Whether Jack is able to get in the shape necessary to regain the championship is something Tommy thinks will have to be determined by later events.

Dempsey's Timing Needs Polishing.

Dempsey still needs to polish up the rough spots in his timing and judgment of distance and only boxing can do that.

"Burned out? That's more a matter of how much he has fought, rather than over how long a period I fought more in my days in the ring than Dempsey has fought in his and I did not feel I was through at the time I decided to quit.

"When Dempsey was at the top he didn't have to fight much. His fight with me at Shelby was the longest he had. Most of them were finished in far less than the scheduled distance and seldom was he pressed."

Most of the present crop of heavyweights would not give Jack much trouble, Gibbons suggests, adding it would be interesting to see "Jack fight either Sharkey or Schmeling, and I sincerely hope he gets the chance."

MiddiesLeave Amid Cheers Of Town

AnnapolisGivesTeam Rousing Send-Off for Army Game.

Coach Miller Hoping for Dry Field in Battle Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—Amid the shrieking of siren, gun and torpedo fire and clanging of bells, not to mention the cheers and exhortations from their highly enthusiastic comrades of the regiment of midshipmen, the Navy football squad, half a hundred strong, left Annapolis for New York at 5 o'clock this afternoon, high spirited and fit for the battle with Army at Yankee Stadium Saturday afternoon. The send-off was of the type never before accorded a departing naval athletic team.

The siren blasts came from two trucks of the Water Witch Hook and Ladder Fire Co., of Annapolis, whose headquarters are within a stone's throw of the Naval Academy wall and the members of which are ardent Navy fans. The grid warriors, clinging to the sides of the truck, rode through the streets of the city to the West Street Station where they boarded their special train over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Fire Marshal Leads Procession.

Fire Marshal Jesse A. Fisher, in his automobile, led the procession, and in the wake of the fire trucks, came a fleet of automobiles, in which naval officers and other dyed-in-the-wool fans were riding, and who furnished the gun and torpedo fire. Hundreds of residents of the city gathered along the streets, cheered the players as they passed by and hundreds more were at the railway station.

Prior to this demonstration, the regiment converged in front of Bancroft Hall and it was a wildly cheering and singing mass of youngsters that escorted the players to the gates of the reservation.

As a final work-out on home grounds, Head Coach Miller carried his proteges through a one-hour drill, again taking advantage of the opportunity for the players to test out soft footing, as there is no telling what will be the condition of the Yankee field as the result of recent rains, and more falling weather forecast for the next 48 hours. Miller spent considerable time putting the finishing touches to the team's offensive and defensive in aerial tactics, as well as the general running attack and special plays that have been mapped out especially for the impending battle.

Navy Coaches Hope For Dry Field.

Arriving in New York late tonight, the naval party will retire to the Westchester Biltmore Club at Rye, which will be their quarters until just before game time.

Realizing that a difficult task lies ahead, Head Coach Rip Miller and his staff of assistants are hoping that the Yankee field will be reasonably fast, for it is pointed out that this condition would greatly enhance Navy's chances of ekeing out a victory, in view of the fact that the West Pointers will have a tremendous advantage in point of weight, especially in the line. Jim Reedy, at right guard, is the heaviest man in the Navy outfit. He is just under 200 pounds. The rest of the line men range between 167 and 192. Army, on the other hand, has several players above the 200-pound mark, notably Capt. Jack Price, at tackle, and Summerfelt and Trice, the pair of guards. Though most football critics have installed Army a heavy favorite, no such feeling prevails in Annapolis. On the contrary, optimism has been steadily on the upgrade since the Middies found themselves in the Pennsylvania game last Saturday.

Moncure to Play Quarter Back.

The prevailing opinion here is that a hard-fought battle, with a close result, is in the offing, and there are many fans who incline to concede the Tars a good chance of victory.

It was definitely announced that "Bert" Davis, regular quarter back,

Big Leagues To Reduce Salaries

Vote Cut Estimated at 10 Per Cent in 1932 Contracts.

CiteAttendanceDrop; Player Limit Is Cut to 23.

By PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CHICAGO, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A wave of drastic economy swept the ranks of major league baseball today.

Cornered by a sharp decline in attendance at their parks, the club owners of the two major circuits voted to economize by trimming the player limit from 25 to 23 and by substantially reducing general operating expenses, notably by cutting players' salaries.

No definite amount was set by the action to cut players' salaries, but the general opinion was that the matter would be left to the discretion of each club owner. Ten per cent was the estimated wage slash, and a share of that was accomplished by the reduction in the player limit, which will save each club approximately $10,000 annually.

Attendance Decline Given as Cause.

The resolution affecting economy in general operating expenses briefly read:

"Resolved that by reason of prevailing conditions and the decrease in attendance at our games it becomes necessary that the general operating expense, including salary lists of ball players of both major leagues, be substantially reduced."

In their action to reduce salaries, the majors followed that already taken by virtually every minor league. The three class AA leagues—the American Association, International and Pacific Coast Leagues—voted for substantial salary cuts at their meeting last week at West Baden, Ind.

The fight to trim the player limit was led successfully by the second-division clubs of the American and National Leagues, which argued that players were sitting on the bench of stronger clubs which they could use themselves to good advantage. American League club owners voted to reduce the limit to 22 while the National League stood out for 23.

Judge Landis Casts Deciding Vote.

Each voted as a unit so Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, cast the deciding vote—for a limit of 23. The option limit of 15 for each club was not affected.

Minor league club owners were happy over the action as it will ultimately force 32 major league players—two from each of the sixteen major league clubs—into their field.

Both major leagues will be forced to adhere strictly to their respective schedules in 1932. The club owners voted that synthetic double-headers, whereby games are moved up to make attractive double-headers, violate the schedule rules. Henceforth, no club or clubs can arrange such synthetic double-headers without the consent of the president of both leagues.

Season Shortest In History.

The 1932 major league season will open on April 12 and close September 25 with another schedule of 154 games. The schedule, adopted at today's meeting, will be the shortest in major league history. This year, the season closed September 27.

By unanimous vote, the major league club owners also voted to underwrite again the American Legion baseball championship tournament up to $50,000, and to contribute $7,500 to the relief fund of needy baseball veterans.

Three members of the minor league's "big five" committee conferred with the major league club owners in an effort to acquaint their big brothers of baseball with their problems and financial difficulties. The majors appointed a two-man committee of Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Billy Evans, general manager of

Rules Chief Probe Causes For Abnormal Fatality List

Will Consider All Suggestions for Taming of Football; Game Wrongly Blamed for Many Deaths This Season.

By DIXON STEWART.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10 (U.P.).—While publicity seekers, from opera singers and ribbon clerks to campus editors and football coaches, are rushing into print with reform suggestions and attacks, the national intercollegiate football rules committee is quietly going about its business of conducting a detailed investigation into 1931 football fatalities.

The rules committee's only object is to find out if certain plays are dangerous and if the game as designed for college players is sound or unsound. It hopes to determine how many of the 41 deaths attributed to football this fall really were caused by football.

And while the attacks and suggestions of the "reformers" doubtless will accomplish little, the rules committee investigation promises to provide an accurate premise for legislation to reduce future gridiron accidents.

Many Deaths Wrongly Blamed on Game.

The committee believes that many of the deaths, which in the current hysteria are charged to football, are not strictly attributable. Even a casual survey indicates that many of the 41 deaths now laid at football's door resulted from accidents such as might have come in any other sport.

Included in this category are the suicide of an Indiana youth who killed himself because he failed to win a position on a high school football team; the death of a boy, run over by a truck in a street game; another death resulting from a boy carrying a football plunging into the side of a parked truck; one from heart failure during a game, and several resulting from neglect of cuts which developed infection.

Only seven deaths occurred among college players and of these three resulted from injuries sustained in practice, leaving but four deaths in college games conducted under the intercollegiate rules.

Sandlots and Streets Claimed 14 Lives.

Of the remaining deaths, 20 resulted from injuries sustained in high school games or practice, while 14 players—half of them boys between 8 and 13 years old—were killed

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE odds on the Notre Dame system to win the charity game here tomorrow between Alabama and the three local varsities are 3 to 1. The odds are easily arrived at with the realization that Alabama, Georgetown and Catholic University will be using the Rockne system while George Washington relies on the Warner methods.

But George Washington may take consolation from the words of an Army coach whose comment on the approaching Navy game following Army's 12-0 victory over Notre Dame was to the effect that West Point is indeed thankful that Navy is using the Notre Dame system.

The reception of the Alabama squad by friends and local fans at the Harrington Hotel yesterday took on the appearance of a Notre Dame reunion. Frank Thomas, the Alabama coach, a former Notre Dame man, found an old roommate in Forrest Cotton, Catholic U. line coach. Dutch Bergman, head coach at C. U., preceded both of them at Notre Dame and Tommy Mills spent five years as Rockne's aid at South Bend. Coach Jim Pixlee, of George Washington, a University of Missouri graduate, all but slunk in a corner.

Coach Bergman took one look at the lobby full of Alabama players and immediately decided on his method of attack tomorrow. "It will be three passes and a kick for us," said Bergman, as he cast an appraising eye over the Crimson Tide's husky lads.

All three head coaches of the Washington varsities which will meet the Alabamans ventured out to Griffith Stadium yesterday to watch the practice of the Crimson Tide, leaving the superintending of their own practices to various assistants. But it is reported that all three left Griffith Stadium early and hurried back to their respective campii after a brief look.

If the margin of a field goal is required to give Alabama a victory or a tie, then Washington fans will see the big right foot of Freddie Sington, 220-pound tackle, in action. In practice yesterday, Sington booted them across the bar and between the uprights from midfield with startling consistency.

The game scheduled for tomorrow has already set two records in Washington football history. The $8,000 advance sale reached several days ago is a new high in that respect and the 250 fans who turned out to see the Alabamians practice yesterday constituted a record gathering for a practice session in the Capital.

Champ Pickens, former member of the Alabama State Legislature, through whose efforts the Alabama team was persuaded to play the charity game here, has delved far back into the Weather Bureau records to bring to light the fact that December 12 for the last twenty years has been a clear, sunlit day almost without exception.

Coach Tommy Mills of Georgetown also chimed in with the belief that the Alabamians would be most vulnerable in a passing attack. He, like Bergman, arrived at this conclusion after he was introduced to a half dozen Alabama linemen who almost put his arm in a sling.

The possibility that the local coaches may lose their enthusiasm for a forward-passing attack after the game gets under way is very great. If one of these forward passes falls into the hands of "Flash" Suther or Johnny Campbell, both Mills and Bergman and Pixlee will rue the day the pass was ever invented.

Mills is of the belief that the Alabama team will be 75 per cent stronger defensively than on the attack. They may lack the necessary cohesion on offense, he says, due to their year's lay-off, but out there on the defense, when individual brilliance still counts most, the lads from Dixie are all defensive full backs.

But Alabama will not have to apologize for its work on the offensive, is the belief of this column. The Crimson Tide players will be using the same plays and formations and signals that carried them through last season undefeated and whatever polish is lost during the year's interim is not expected to affect their game to the extent that they will lose.

Georgetown is popularly supposed to face the easiest task of the three local teams for the reason that the Hilltoppers will be the last to oppose the Alabamans. But that theory is open to question, especially in view of the fact that it may take the Alabama team two periods to develop their full power. In that case, it will be George Washington and Catholic University who should congratulate themselves.

Tommy Whelan, of Catholic University, will be on trial tomorrow. The fleet Brookland back, who has terrorized all opposition this season, carried the bulk of the hopes of C. U. supporters and if he is able to break away for another of his dazzling runs opposed to such as the Crimson Tide, he wins this column's vote.

STIMULATOR, ODDS-ON, WINS JEFFERSON SPRINT FEATURE

Thundertone Beaten 1-2 Length

None Holds Ticket on Daily Double Winner; Pool Is Split.

King Halma Holds Long Lead to Win Sixth Race.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Stimulator, son of Stimulus, brought here from "up East" by R. A. Fairbairn, accounted for his second feature victory in a row here today when he led six other juveniles to the wire in the Algiers Purse over 6 furlongs of a slow track. Thundertone was beaten a half length, while Sand Wrack was third, another eight lengths back. Stimulator was the third favorite to triumph, paying $3.40 for $2, and covering the six panels in 1:17 4-5.

Stimulator's superior speed took him into the lead right after a start which was good for all but Escorisa, which broke after the field had left and had no chance. Thundertone set after the leader and did not close ground until he had turned for home. Stimulator was kept on the outside, Willie Garner looking for the best footing while Thundertone saved ground. The latter was wearing the winner down through the final stages. Sand Wrack was slow to begin but closed fast through the stretch to earn the small portion of the purse.

Jockey A. Vuellemot was given a 10-day suspension for rough riding in the second race. He rode Knee Glader, which finished third.

The daily double payoff was split, holders of Nim The Nymph receiving $9.20, and holders of Clownish receiving $42.40. Nobody held a double ticket with both winners. Twenty-three tickets, including Clownish, were sold, and 128, including Nim The Nymph, were sold. Holders of tickets which included either horse were paid according to figures given regardless of the other horse in combination.

King Halma Winner Under Good Ride.

B. Bagley's King Halma which received a very poor ride from Jockey J. Cavens yesterday was sent right back today in the sixth event and under noticeably better handling was first to the wire to pay $16.40. Cockrill, heavily supported, took the place with Brinkley in the picture.

Cavens broke King Halma alertly and the 6-year-old son of Panhandler raced Brinkley into defeat inside of three furlongs. Cavens urged his mount into a lead of three lengths, saving ground and whipped the King vigorously to insure victory. Cockrill, a slow beginner, made up a world of ground and finished a length and a half off the winner.

The Colgate Stables' Elizabeth Bolla, a mare which has a great liking for the Shrewsbury course, returned to top form in the fifth race at 6 furlongs, to win handily over a capable lot of sprinters. Miss Onine was second with Deemster third. King Cherokee cut out the running for a half mile when Jockey Tinker called on Elizabeth Bolla. The mare bounded forward willingly and once in front held the race safe as Miss Onine challenged with a belated rush. Deemster closed a lot of ground to take third money. The winner paid $5.20.

Nim The Nymph Holds Lead.

Nim the Nymph, paying $6.40 for $2, gave the talent their second success in a row in the second contest, scoring by a length and a half in a mild drive with Participate, close second choice. Knee Glader lost by four lengths. The favorite took the track shortly after the start and continued in front the rest of the trip. Participate was the only one to offer contention, but he was not good enough. Rocky Way closed a lot of ground after getting off last. He might have been a factor with an equal break.

My Sweets, a daughter of Pillory, winner of a Preakness, toyed with eleven other 3-year-olds of her sex in the curtain raiser and rewarded favorite players to the extent of $6.80 for a $2 ticket. My Inver took the place four lengths away and eight lengths in advance of Agnes Sorel. Jockey Tinker sent My Sweets into a long lead which never was in danger of being cut down by My Inver. The latter ran Polly's Folly into defeat and had little opposition from Agnes Sorel for the show position.

Clownish, in the silks of O. Rader, upset calculations and the form players in the third, taking a neck decision from the heavily played Sporting Blues to pay $57.00. Third money went to Voltmeter, which was beaten four lengths for the place. W. Gover, who rode Sporting Blues, got to the front in the back stretch and appeared a winner in the final straightaway, but the boy seemed overconfident and when Clownish came with a rush on the inside it was too late to stave him off.

Colonel Campus at $27 won the last race by five lengths. Zahn took the place by six lengths from Devon.

Horse Racing Revival Planned in Arkansas

Hot Springs, Ark., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—A movement to revive horse racing here with a meet next spring was proposed today by Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin. He said he would confer with Charles Cella, owner of Oak Lawn Racing Park here, in an effort to work out details for the meet.

Efforts have been made by Hot Springs interests for years to get a pari-mutuel betting law through the Arkansas Legislature and they succeeded in 1929 only to have it vetoed by the governor.

Oak Lawn Park has been closed to horse racing since 1929.

"No matter how much one may stress health features, that alone will not maintain a resort such as Hot Springs. When one visits a resort he hopes to find there both amusement and entertainment," McLaughlin said.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CLOWNISH, $57.00, $19.80, $6.40; SPORTING BLUES, $4.00, $2.60; VOLTMETER, $5.60.

CLOWNISH, outrun early, closed a gap rapidly in last half mile and, saving much ground on the rail, passed SPORTING BLUES. Latter, much the best, was allowed to ease up in the stretch. VOLTMETER showed good speed all the way. TROLL closed a big gap.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good for all but Escorisa. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:29. Off at 3:29½. Winner, R. A. Fairbairn's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STIMULATOR, $3.40, $2.60, $2.20; THUNDERTONE, $3.40, $2.60; SAND WRACK, $2.60.

STIMULATOR set the pace from the start and, holding a good lead until well in the stretch, stood off THUNDERTONE in the final drive. THUNDERTONE was in hot pursuit from the start and was closing in at the finish. SAND WRACK, away slowly, closed an immense gap. ON LEAVE showed a good effort.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, easily. Went to post at 3:54. Off at 3:58½. Winner, Colgate Stable's ch. m. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ELIZABETH BOLLA, $5.20, $4.80, $3.00; MISS ONINE, $10.40, $4.80; DEEMSTER, $4.00.

ELIZABETH BOLLA, away well, was held in hand until the stretch, when she came fast, disposed of KING CHEROKEE and was safe from MISS ONINE. Latter showed a bang-up effort and was closing in at the end. DEEMSTER came fast from a slow beginning. KING CHEROKEE opened a big early lead, but tired badly in the stretch.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:24. Off at 4:29½. Winner, B. Balgye's b. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KING HALMA, $16.40, $4.20, $3.80; COCKRILL, $4.40, $3.00; BRINKLEY, $5.20.

KING HALMA, hard hustled from the start, took the lead at once and always held his field safe. COCKRILL moved up strong in the stretch, had to overcome interference from BRINKLEY, and then lugged over in the last sixteenth. BRINKLEY had good speed all the way. GAMBOL closed an immense gap.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:51. Off at 4:52. Winner, E. B. Shipp's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—COLONEL CAMPUS, $27.00, $10.60, $6.20; ZAHN, $6.00, $5.00; DEVON, $7.40.

COLONEL CAMPUS, going in fine form and well handled, moved into the lead with a rush entering the stretch, saved much ground and drew out to win as he pleased. ZAHN made up ground and was best of the others. DEVON made the early running and tired. AS FAIR moved up with determination in the turn, but tired badly in the final drive.

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

JEFFERSON RACE TRACK, New Orleans, La., Dec. 10—The usual featureless program will again be offered the patrons of the sport at Jefferson Park today. How the management can possibly hope to attract any sizable patronage to its course with fields of the cheapest sort competing, is somewhat of a mystery.

Although the fields are unusually large and somewhat bulky for today's card, the $1,500 platers will again hold the spotlight. Although the weather is clear, the races are to run over a heavy track.

In the best offering of a poor card, the fifth event, a test for four-year-olds and up, over the mile and a sixteenth route, a field of ten will match strides. OTILLA, from the L. M. Severson Stable, which disappointed in his last start at this route, figures to improve enough to take down the purse. INTERIOR, a recent winner, is at the top of his form and lightly weighted with 106 pounds, may prove dangerous. HAZEL DENSON showed a splendid effort to score last outing at the mile route but may falter at the added distance.

FIRST RACE—KAY FRANCES, a useful plater from the stable of S. W. Labrot, has trained well since her second to Lillybet, and against the field, she meets in the six furlongs of the opener, figures to score. BOTTLED BOURBON has been threatening in recent efforts and appears to be the contender. St. MICA may need a race but nevertheless should show.

SECOND RACE—In the second event, which brings out a field of oldsters in a 6-furlong dash, OVERBOARD, winner of his last, although far down on the eligible list, holds a strong chance to repeat, if he starts. VLADIMIR and ALAMAE, two steady platers, are closely rated and should account for the remainder of the prize money.

THIRD RACE—BEAUTIFUL DOLL is selected to gain the honors when the T. E. Nash entrant encounters a field of 3-year-olds and upward in the mile and 70 yards of the third. The Nash color bearer displayed speed in her last start and figures to improve. HERENDEEN will favor the heavy track. LUCK PIECE has trained briskly.

FOURTH RACE—A band of maiden juveniles will face the barrier in the mile of the fourth. DISTRESS SIGNAL, from the R. A. Dohle string, is selected to graduate. BONNIE L., which finished behind the top one, should go as well here. DUSKY BOY has been rested up and is reported in condition.

SIXTH RACE—In the sixth event another large group of platers will contest the purse over the 6-furlong distance. THE OKAH showed some clever efforts in his Chicago campaign and, with several sparkling trials at the local course, appears the logical choice. ST. JIM raced far below his best form the other day and may furnish stern opposition. ITSO, a double winner, is another possibility.

SEVENTH RACE—The final race attracted nine milers, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds exclusively. LITTLE TOOTS has shown a liking for heavy going and is given the call. LIGHT MINT is the one to fear, with HIGH POCKETS favored for the minor award.

WOOD READY FOR TRY AT RECORD

Veteran Pilot Awaits Timers; Boat in Best Shape.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Gar Wood's slim craft, Miss America IX and her 2,200-horsepower engines are tuned again for a burst of speed in quest of the elusive world's speedboat record.

The veteran pilot and his mechanic, Orlin Johnson, are ready to take the Miss America IX to the measured nautical-mile course of Indian Creek here as soon as possible, probably Monday, in an attempt to bring the record back to America. The 110-mile-an-hour record is now held by Kaye Don, British boat and automobile driver.

Wood's attempt will be the fifth he has made in three years. Two of his speed trials here brought him world's records, but in each instance the Englishman with an English boat later snatched the honor from the American.

Timing Machines Awaited.

The American veteran now is awaiting the arrival of electric timing machines, so that his runs on Indian Creek may be timed to the nearest possible fraction of a second. In event the machines do not come by Monday he said he may ask that another recognized method of timing be used.

The alternative provides for clocking the runs by six timers with stop watches.

Odis Porter, official timer of the American Automobile Association, will come here to time the runs.

Wood said today his boat is in the prime of condition. The two 12-cylinder engines have been brought to the finest possible stage of mechanical perfection, and a new propeller shaft, installed in place of one that bent in a trial run last week, has proved satisfactory.

Bostwick Again Scores In British Jump Race

Hurst Park, Eng., Dec. 10 (A.P.).—For the second straight day G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, little American gentleman rider, rode one of his own horses to victory in a steeplechase at Hurst Park today.

Yesterday he brought Busy Bee home the winner by three-quarters of a length in a 2-mile race, and today he piloted Burglas to victory by about the same margin in the Thames Handicap hurdle race, also at 2 miles.

Burglas paid off at odds of 21 to 1.

G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, well known in Long Island racing and polo circles, is considered the leading amateur rider of the world today by his friends and followers of racing. Although weighing only about 120 pounds he also plays a fiery game of polo. He rode as No. 2 last fall on Tommy Hitchcock's team.

K. OF C. WANTS GAME.

The Knights of Columbus unlimited basket ball team would like to arrange a game Sunday with a strong unlimited quint, to be played at home or away. Teams interested should call Manager Charley Reynolds tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock at Metropolitan 9619.

SAKS WITHOUT GAME.

Due to a cancellation by the Griffith-Consumers, the Saks Clothiers quint is without a game for Tuesday night, and would like to book a strong unlimited team. Saks has a gym. Teams interested should call Manager Dick Mothershead at District 3050 during the day.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

USUALLY, ordinary fighting bulls are vanquished and killed at the close of a Spanish bullfight. Often a great number of the animals are slaughetred in a single day. One toreador, Pepe Hillo, killed 32 bulls in one afternoon.

But Lechuzo was not one of the common herd.

EASTERN DEFEATS ST. JOHN'S, 41-34, IN THRILLING GAME

Extra-Period Required to Decide

Lincoln Parkers Use 16 Players; Cadets Show Fight.

Scanlon's Pot Shot in Last Minute Prolongs Battle.

IN a thrilling extra-period basket ball game, where the advantage shifted from team to team with spectacular suddenness, and with little regard for the excitable nerves of the high school students in attendance, Eastern High's court team came from behind yesterday to tie St. John's at the end of the regular four quarters, and then went out and administered the plucky Cadets a 41-34 defeat.

Played at Eastern High, the game was hard-fought and packed with good play from start to the end of the appended period. Continuing its "shock troop" system, Eastern used sixteen players, while the Saints depended on the Trojan work of six slim boys to carry the school's bright red colors almost to victory.

Eastern Regulars Take Lead.

Eastern's reckless playing, sharp-shooting first team took the breath from St. John's in the first half of the game, leading by a count of 17-11 at the rest period, a score which might have shown more daylight between the digits but for the manalized bit of guarding exhibited by Scanlon and Parkhill, guards on the losing outfit.

Against Eastern's reserve strength, which pervaded the game at the start of the third period, the Saints forged readily to a 21-19 advantage at the end of the third period, and, when the regulars came running back into the game, continued to 26-22 with but three minutes to play.

Al Waters, Eastern forward, made good on a free shot. A bruising snowbird by Bernie Lieb dragged the score to 26-25, and the skyscraping center had a chance to tie it, but missed the free shot he was handed for being roughed. Lieb tied it a moment later through the same route. The teams traded foul baskets, and then Al Waters put Eastern out in front with a minute to go, 29-27.

Scanlon's Pot Shot Ties Game.

But as the second hand ticked near meridian Mike Scanlon reciprocated with a beautiful pot shot. In the final scrimmage of the regulation game Lieb was roughed and was awarded a free shot as the final whistle sounded. He missed amidst a bedlam of howls and cheers.

Fred Scheele put St. John's in the lead at the start of the extra section with a foul shot. Lieb tied it up, and then the full force of Eastern's strength broke loose and the combination of Lieb, Waters, Courtney and Baylis, working the ball around like the proverbial million bucks, came through in good fashion to put the game on ice.

ALABAMA ELEVEN IN WORKOUT HERE

thirteen have been coaching this season. Others, in addition to Haglar and Caldwell, engaged in coaching are Sington (Duke); Suther and McRight (Hopkinsville, Ky.); Frank Howard (Clemson); Propst and Buddy Dobbs (Alabama); Hubert (Mississippi Tech); Albert Elmore (Troy, Ala.); Randolph Campbell (U. of Kentucky); Earl Smith (Mobile, Ala.), and John Miller (Southwestern U.).

Coaches Thomas and Crisp promised that their huskies will give the three local teams a real battle, or, to be exact, battles, in the trio of 20-minute contests which constitute tomorrow's program. They have not as yet named their starting line-up, but have little to worry about in this respect with so many stars of first rank available.

Speaking of the special rule whereby they will be allowed free use of substitutes, the 'Bama mentors stated that they will not take advantage of this any more than is absolutely necessary. They intimated that they would like to defeat the Capital's three teams without using a single substitute, but it is hardly probable that they can succeed, since a fresh team will face them every 20 minutes.

In a meeting of all the coaches concerned, it was decided that Paul Magoffin, well-known local football official, shall referee all of the games with the aid of assistants of his own choosing. Magoffin has officiated many years, both in this section and in the South.

George Washington will be the first opponent for the Alabamians, followed by Catholic University and then Georgetown University. There will be an intermission of seven and one-half minutes between games and a brief "time-out" between halves when the teams will change goals.

Ticket sales thus far indicate that the largest crowd in the history of football here will attend, the advance sale at present amounting to a little more than $8,000. Sales went on briskly yesterday, given an impetus by the arrival of the famous Southerners.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

AMONG the unemployed this morning is Phil Gross, former captain of the Catholic University bowling team. The story is that when Eddie La Fond, director of the university intramural sports program, issued a call for volunteers to defend the honor of the Cardinals against Southeastern University in a bowling match, Phil was one of the first to spring to arms.

The stories he told of his prowess as a pinspiller almost had Mr. La Fond dancing a jig. Well, he pulled strings and had himself elected, or selected, captain of the team. Tom Whelan, Bus Sheary, Johnny Oliver and Carl De Mello completed the combination.

Everything was hosty totsy—for a while. The C. U. boys, all pretty good football players, but not so good bowlers, were spreading it on thick and heavy as to how they were going to take the Southeastern Team, and the campus was pretty much steamed up over the match. All the while, the team was banking heavily on Capt. Phil, the plucky pinspiller. The night of the big match arrived, and, strange to say, Southeastern won all three games. The saddest part of the story, however, is that Gross' best effort was a 66 game.

Holy Trinity took a couple of falls out of the Immaculate Conception team in the Holy Name League, despite a handicap of 35 pins per game. L. Demeza, of Immaculate, knocked a few pins dizzy with his high game of 133 and set of 328. Cavanaugh's 114 effort was best for Holy Trinity.

Michigan climbed up into a tie for second place with Princeton in the Inter-Collegiate loop by downing the leading Maryland quint, 2-1, while the Tigers were dropping a pair to V. P. I. Maryland still retains a slim margin over the two contestants for second place despite its loss. V. M. I took Navy for the odd one, Dartmouth dry-cleaned John Harvard's boys, and Lehigh and Brown were one game better than Yale and Cornell. Bill Boger, of Brown, pried 143 pins loose for high game of the evening, and Muscoe Garnett, of V. P. I., and Jimmy Burns, of Maryland, finished in a dead heat for set honors with 335 each.

Sherwood gave the men in the Convention Hall Afternoon League a couple of records to shoot at when he connected for a game of 137 and set of 380. Of course, the league is young yet, and in time higher scores will probably be made, but Sherwood's will hold the fort for a while. Bond Vitamin D hopped on the Master Printers for a one-game victory, Herald took the Star for the extra tilt and Occidental Hotel and The Post Press Room won clean sweeps over Post Composing Room and Post Circulation. Is my face red? Tom Kinney, of The Post Press Room, won the third game for his team when he counted nine pins on a spare in the final box after George Bergling, of the opposition, had spared and added only three pins.

Magee, of Peoples Drug Stores, marked up high set in the Commercial loop at the Hall yesterday, 359. game honors were accorded Edmonston by virtue of his 137 set. Wonder Bread, in baking Peoples for a two-game win, spilled 1,601 bottles for high team set and 563 for the game prize. Woodward & Lothrop took the deciding game from Times-Herald, News downed Diamond Cab in the odd tilt, Occidental Hotel did not fare so well in its second meeting with a newspaper team and dropped a deuce to the Star, and Sterrett Operating packed away a 2-1 decision over Carry's Ice Cream.

Packard Motors collected enough pins for a new season's game record of 610 in the Automotive League at Lucky Strike last night. The team was greatly aided in setting the new mark by Peacock, who killed off 158 games for the highest game of the season. Incidentally it was the young man's first start in the league. Dixon, of Buick, stood a few pins on their heads with his 380 set, and his mates chimed in on the chorus to register a set of 1,667. Trew Motors, Skinker Bros. and Buick, won single game decision over Emerson & Crmie, Packard and H. B. Leary. Stanley Horner shut out Mott Motors, and Pahanka benefited by Lee D. Butler's forfeit.

With George Honey leading the way with a game of 141 and set of 399, Temple disposed of Judd & Detweiler at Lucky Strike, winning all three games. The Printers rallied in the final game and came within two pins of winning. The scores were: Temple, 584, 627, 550; Judd & Detweiler, 540, 540, 548. Jack Gooding, one of the losers, obtained some satisfaction from his 365 set, second best of the match.

Tony Defino's fine rolling failed to daunt the Lucky Strikers in the District League at the Lucky Strike alleys, and the home team came off the victor by a single game. Tony bounced 144 sticks off the drives for high game and continued until he was possessor of the set honors with a 379 score. "Dutch" Weidman's 360 set topped the Lucky Strike scoring. The scores were: Petworth, 537, 548 and 645; Lucky Strike, 554, 573 and 549. Early McPhilomy had an off-night. One of his games failed to reach the three figures mark.

If you have ever witnessed a popcorn machine in action you have a fair idea of the way things happened in the Ladies' Federal League at Arcadia. Helena Meyer, captain of the Commerce quintet, bagged a couple of season records with her game of 149 and three-game total of 376. Her team rang the bell with a game of 546 and set of 1,515, third highest scores in this respect of the season. Incidentally Commerce came from fifth to tie with Veterans' Administration for second place. The Vets dropped from the leadership by losing a trio to the record-smashing Commerce crew. Treasury tied with Interstate for the lead with a two-game win over Labor while Interstate was handing G. P. O. the short end of a 2-1 score. The big money women toppled 1,533 pins for high set of the night and Helena Kohler contributed to the excitement with a set of 334. In the other matches Agriculture, Commerce Comets, Marines, Internal Revenue and Commerce Juniors defeated Census, Mines, G. A. O., War and Economics by the odd one.

Quimbey's 150 game and 329 set took the olive wreath in the Valuation Examiners loop at Columbia. Income, although it dropped a couple to Recapture, scored a game of 547 and set of 1,456. Value and Investment rounded out the night's program with 2-1 victories over Depreciation and Costs.

Last night must have been bargain night in the Interior League, judging from the results at Columbia. Survey, G. H. I. and Pension scored clean sweeps over Land, Indian and Disbursing. Just to be different Secretaries won a 2-1 decision over Engravers. Pension's game of 570 and set of 1,597 garnered team honors, while Watson's 135 game and Maschauer's 352 set were the best individual scores recorded.

Miss Heffelfinger, of the Pirates, provided the major portion of the fireworks in the Ladies Public Health loop at Lucky Strike with her high game count of 137 and set score of 348. Her team, the Pirates, won the team laurels with a 497 game and a set of 1,367.

In the Public Debt Ladies circuit, also at the Strike drives, Miss Griffis stole the honors with a tidy little set of 310, which included a game of 118. Accounts won all three from Authority, which belied its name, with a high game of 507 and set of 1,411.

"Y" BIG FIVE PLAYS.

The Y. M. C. A. unlimited basket ball team will play host to the Takoma Business Men's Team tonight at 7:30 o'clock. It will be the first start of the season for the "Y" aggregation.

Lindblom Gains First Win in Cue Tourney

Philadelphia, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Robert Lindblom, of Seattle, today won his first match in seven starts in the World's Pocket Billiard Championship Tournament by defeating Onofrio Lauri, of Brooklyn, 125-82, in 25 innings.

Philadelphia, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Marcel Camp, of Detroit, defeated Al Miller, of Racine, Wis., in tonight's world's pocket billiard tournament play. Camp won, 125 to 83, in 15 innings with a high run of 34. Miller made high runs of 14 on three occasions.

Four A. A. U. Quintets To Clash at Boys Club

Four teams, expected to be leading contenders for the A. A. U. unlimited championship this season, will play in a double-header scheduled Sunday at the Boys Club gym.

In the first game at 2 p. m., the Delaware & Hudson Coal quint will try conclusions with the Capitol Awning Aces, and Saks Clothiers will take on the Chevy Chase Grays in the nightcap.

ST. MARTIN'S VICTOR.

St. Martin's Basket Ball Team took the measure of the St. Stephen's Tossers by a score of 45 to 39 in a closely contested game on the former's floor last night. Von Drehle and O'Brien starred for the winners, while Harrison was best for the losers.

LITTLE MOUNTS READY.

The Mount Rainier 115-pound court team is seeking games with strong teams in its class. The Mounts have a gymnasium available for tonight and all Friday nights. Teams interested should call Manager Bill Brady at Hyattsville 1522.

AMERICAN U. PLAYS HERE TONIGHT

Faces Hampden-Sidney; C. U. Opens at Brooklyn.

TWO Capital collegiate basket ball teams swing into action tonight. American meets Hampden-Sidney, of Virginia, on the former's floor at 8 o'clock while Catholic University, opening its campaign, engages the strong St. John's College five in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Having easily conquered Maryland State Normal in its inaugural Wednesday night, American is seeking victory No. 2 tonight and with it some sweet revenge. The Eagles are anxious to administer as bitter a dose as they received from Hampden-Sydney during the 1931 football season. It will be remembered that the Tigers plastered a 49-0 beating on the Eagles when they clashed on the gridiron.

Coach Walter Young presented a formidable quintet against Maryland State Normal with Fuchs and Dick at forwards; Sells at center, and Olsen and Kessler at guards. When the game was beyond Normal's recall, the Eagle mentor sent in a flock of reserves who flashed a brand of basketball almost as good as the regulars.

Fuchs was the opening game scoring leader, with a total of 12 points, but the American machine seemed to depend more on team work than individual play to register its winning score. Sells, Dick, Olsen and Kessler also shared heavily in the tally-making.

Coach Forrest Cotton, beginning his first season as floor mentor at Catholic, is taking nine players to New York for the Cardinals' debut against St. John's. Several Catholic basket ball stars will not make the trip, as they are still engaged in football, pointing for the Alabama charity games here tomorrow.

Three Washington high school products are on the Cardinal squad, namely, Dick Galliher, center; Bob McVean, forward, and Wallace Bruder, reserve guard.

Coach Cotton's starting line-up will present McVean and Ed Darowish, guards; Galliher, center, and Ed White and Lou Spinelli, guards. Others on the trip in addition to Bruder are Joe Cannazzaro, Joe McNerney, Mickey Marucci and Manager Frank Kelcha.

Ben Franklin Quintet Plays Mount St. Mary's

Benjamin Franklin University's basketers will meet the Mount St. Mary's College five tomorrow night at Emmitsburg, Md., in the opening game of the season for the home team. Last year the Accountants lost to the Mountaineers by two points, but they hope to reverse the score this year.

Thus far Benjamin Franklin's progress has been unsatisfactory to Coach Bucky DeBoskey, who has been drilling his players intensively this week following a loss to Bliss Electrical School.

Schaaf Stops Simms In Cleveland Match

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over Frankie Simms, of Cleveland, at the end of three rounds of their scheduled ten-round fight here tonight. Simms' handlers threw in the towel at the end of the third round after Simms had been knocked to the canvas four times.

In the feature Lou Brouillard, welterweight champion of the world, won on a foul in the seventh round over Paul Pirrone.

The bout was halted a minute in the sixth round when Brouillard crumpled from a low blow and was given medical attention.

Bethesda High Routs Emerson Court Team

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School Basketball Team disposed of Emerson Institute with little difficulty yesterday, winning by a score of 41-22 at Bethesda. Guckeyson and Bradley contributed heavily to the winning team's score with 12 and 11 points respectively. The stellar floorwork of Rabbitt and Whalen featured the Emerson attack.

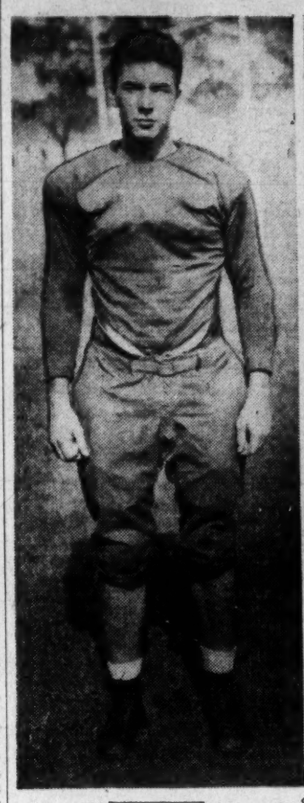
D. C. Youths in Navy Line Against Army Tomorrow



George S. (Buck) James (left), tackle, and Robert P. Harbold, jr., center, are expected to see action in the Navy line against Army tomorrow. Both are former Washington schoolboys.

James and Harbold Represent City in Service Game.

TWO former Washington high school boys will see action in the Navy line against Army tomorrow at New York.

George S. (Buck) James, jr., whose home is in Hyattsville, and who learned his football at Central High School here, plays left tackle on the regular Middie eleven. James virtually clinched his position early in the season, but an injury kept him out of the game for several weeks. Having completely recovered a week ago, he was sent into the battle with Pennsylvania and played a brilliant game throughout. James is a member of the senior class and the tallest man of the team, standing 6 feet 2 inches, and weighing around 185 pounds. He is 21 years old.

Another Washington youngster also is likely to get into the fracas. He is Robert P. Harbold, jr., highly capable understudy to Capt. Magruder Tuttle at center. Harbold's older brother played end on the Army eleven a few years back. He prepped at the New York Military Academy before coming to Annapolis, and was a bulwark of strength to the Plebe line last year. He is 21 years old and weighs 185 pounds. Harbold substituted for Capt. Tuttle during the whole game against Notre Dame and did some fine work.

High School Fives In 3 Games Today

Eastern and Devitt Clash; Emerson at Western; Business Plays.

Three high school basket ball games are on tap today, two of them within walking distance and the third in Ballston, Va. Eastern, barely able to beat off a determined St. John's five yesterday, comes back today against weaker competition in Devitt Prep. Western engages Emerson in a practice game, at Western, and Business' scrappy little squad jaunts over the river to meet Washington-Lee.

Devitt has nothing much in the way of a team this year, having lost the aum total of its athletes last year through graduation. Emerson is a little better, with Rabbitt, Shorb and Keiso functioning, but is not in the same class with Western. Everett Buschers, who was missing from Western's last game, is expected back in harness.

Business should have its hands full with Washington-Lee. While the Little Generals have never put out as good a court team as football team, they ordinarily have a worthy representation. Business, with two good shots in Sherman and Esentad, should win.

Capital Swimming Stars Compete in Meet Tonight

Event at Ambassador Hotel Draws More Than 75 Entries; Program of Nine Events Arranged Under A. A. U. Sanction.

ONE of the largest indoor swimming meets ever held in this city will be staged tonight in the Ambassador Hotel swimming pool starting at 8:15 o'clock. The event, which will be under the auspices of the Ambassador pool, is open only to registered A. A. U. athletes. The local chapter of the union has sanctioned the meet. A field of more than 75 aquatic stars will vie for the honors.

Nine events are on the program, five for men and four for women. The men will vie in the 50-yard free style, 100-yard breaststroke, 100-yard backstroke, 50-yard free style for boys under 14 years of age, and fancy diving. The girls will compete in a 50-yard free style, 50-yard free style for girls under 14 years of age, 50-yard backstroke, and fancy diving.

Included among the entrants are many Georgetown, George Washington and American University students, also numerous high school aquatic stars. The Washington Swimming Club will furnish the major portion of the talent swimming in the girls' class. Onalene Lawrence and Rita Augusterfer, both members of the club, are expected to gather many points for their team.

45-23 VICTORY SCORED BY CENTRAL

Keyser and Swift Star as St. John's Freshmen Succumb.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 10.—Exhibiting better passing and smoother team work, the basket ball team of Central High School of Washington, defeated St. John's College freshmen here tonight by a score of 45 to 23.

Central got out in front in the first two minutes of play and was never overtaken. With Keyser at center and Swift, who played a sharp game as running guard, leading the attack, the Washingtonians finished the first half in the van by 17 to 10. The same pair continued in the spotlight throughout the second half. Keyser, with six field goals and one from the strip, was high scorer for the game, with 13 points. J. Taylor, St. John's forward was next with 12, and Swift registered 10 points to garner third honors.

Palace A. C. Honors Grid Heroes Tonight

The Palace Athletic Club gridders, champions of the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League, will celebrate their victory tonight at a banquet to be given at Picardi's, 1417 New York avenue northwest. The affair is restricted to members of the squad and their personal friends. Joe Perron, who has coached the team for the last five years, and who is largely responsible for the success it has enjoyed, will present members of the team with sweaters in recognition of their good work during the past season.

BELLMAN IN STAR ROLE.

The Mount Rainier unlimited quint swamped the Government Printing Office Team in a free-scoring game at Mount Rainier last night, winning by a score of 69 to 40. Bob Bellman, forward on the Mounts, is believed to have established a scoring record for the season with his twelve field goals and two foul shots, which totaled 26 points. Miller and Merold led the losers with 12 points each.

BONDS DROP LOWER; TRADERS MYSTIFIED

Rails Again Lead Decline to New Low Levels as Turnover Mounts.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—The bond market today continued to record a string of new low record prices that bewildered traders and investors, who had about reached the conclusion that many bottom levels had been reached.

The rails, as in recent sessions, led the downward movement with utilities and industrials generally offering but little opposition to liquidation. At that, there were spots in the market, both in the railroads and other issues that displayed some resisting power.

The market as a whole repeated its feeble action of yesterday and the average for 60 principal corporate obligations dropped to a new depth record for more than a year. The sales totaled $14,135,000, or more than $3,000,000 over Wednesday.

Atchisons Are Weak.

Among the carriers the usually rock-bound Atchisons were unusually weak. Baltimore & Ohio loans were puzzling, the refunding 6s of 1995, falling 9½ points, while the 5s, series D, gained 5.

Other losers were the Canadian National, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Rock Island, Denver & Rio Grande, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and Wabash. Illinois Central refunding 4s of 1955 dropped 16 points.

A few bright spots included Chicago & Alton certificate 3s, up 4½; Chicago & North Western 4½s, series C, up 9½. Mobile & Ohio 5s, up 2, and St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s which were well purchased at an advance. But for the greater part the minus signs dominated the carriers.

Dividends Are Blamed.

The market was thought to have been somewhat adversely affected by the omission of the dividends of the Southern Railway and the Mobile & Ohio, although this action had been expected. The Southern 4s lost 2 points and the Mobile & Ohio 5s advanced 2, while the same road's 4½s only dropped 1¾.

In the other categories, American & Foreign Power 5s lost 7 points, American Metal 5½s lost 2 points, while other weak issues included Chesapeake Corporation 5s, Detroit Edison issues, Fisk Rubber 8s, International Telephone, Loew's, Inc., Paramount Publix, Warner Bros., and Western Unions. The latter company's 4½s lost 4 points.

Foreign issues were mixed, German Government 7s registering a gain, while the 5½s were steady. British 5½s advanced, as did the French 7½s. South Americans generally were weak and Japanese loans steady. United States Government obligations were somewhat off.

STOCK MARKET SAGS AGAIN TO NEW LOWS

Late Rally Cuts Wide Losses as Trading Fluctuates on News Reports.

New York, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Stocks dug deeper into new low ground for the bear market today.

A late rally led by the rails served to reduce extreme losses and enabled a few issues to finish higher, but the 90 stocks used in the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite were off 1.6 points net. Trading was broader and more active than yesterday; blocks of 1,000 and 2,000 shares were well sprinkled through the dealings.

Strength of foreign exchanges against the dollar may have reflected in part a withdrawal of balances by investors abroad who have been disposing of stocks here. Some of the foreign comment on our deficit and the proposed new taxes, it was pointed out, has been rather gloomy, but how much sentiment in Europe is being influenced by this week's developments at Washington is problematical. Wall street believes a large proportion of the current liquidation represents selling to establish tax losses.

The last-hour improvement received its inspiration from a rumor that an agreement for a voluntary and temporary railroad wage reduction was likely to be reached at the Chicago conference. Although this was only a report, it fell on eager ears and brought in enough covering to reduce or cancel earlier losses in many carrier stocks. New York Central closed a point higher, Union Pacific cut a 5-point loss to a fraction and Atchison steadied.

U. S. Steel was actively sold prior to publication of the unfilled tonnage statement which showed a drop of 185,541 tons in the backlog, although actual appearance of the report had virtually no market effect.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (A.P.).—Insistent reports that Russia's wheat and potato crops had turned out practically a total failure imparted activity and strength to the wheat market today. Earlier the grain bits had been responsive largely to bearish action of securities and to anxiety about possible adverse trade exchange legislation in Washington, but to confirm bullish crop advices from Russia was the fact that Russian wheat exports this week had dropped to only 520,000 bushels, against 2,416,000 the corresponding time last year.

Wheat closed nervous, ¼ to ¾ higher than yesterday's finish. corn, ⅛–⅜ up; oats, unchanged to ⅛ off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

Notable scarcity of speculative offerings of wheat developed near the end of the day, and some of the larger professional traders were credited with shifting to the bull side. Reports about Russian crop failures included statements that widespread starvation this winter was threatened and that four boatloads of wheat originally shipped from Odessa for sale abroad had been brought into Petrograd for home use. The advices purported to rest on authority of American engineers in Russia.

Helping to promote upturns in wheat prices were unfavorable weather conditions in the Argentine Province. Heavy damage by floods in Australia were also noted, with indications that half of the wheat yield of Queensland had been destroyed in severe overflows. Another stimulus to purchases came from predictions that France would allow an increased quota of foreign wheat to be used, beginning with the new year.

Corn and oats met with improved buying support on price setbacks. Receipts of corn continued meager and corn-belt weather unfavorable for crop movement.

Provisions sympathized with new low-record quotations on hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December, 51½ bids; May, 53⅞@54, 56⅛@56¾; July, 51⅝@52. Corn—December, 34½ bid; March, 38¾, offers; May, 39½@39⅝, 40¾; July, 41⅛@41¼, 42¾.

POLICEMEN ON TRIAL DEFEND FORCE USED IN CASE OF ACCUSER

Landrum and Sirola Tell Jury Attack on Man Was Justified.

JOHNSON AGGRESSOR, DEFENDANTS ASSERT

Court to Rule Today Upon New Trial Motion of Mostyn and Laflin.

Vivian H. Landrum and John Sirola, suspended policemen of the Ninth Precinct, yesterday related from the witness stand how they battled Henry Johnson, colored, at his home, 1734 Montello avenue northeast, last August in the belief they were fighting a man who had temporarily lost his mind.

Landrum was the first witness to be put on the stand by Attorney E. Russell Kelly to attempt to show that the attack the two policemen made on Johnson was excusable under the circumstances. Both men were indicted several weeks ago by the grand jury that investigates alleged police brutality cases.

Landrum said that he and Sirola were patroling the Ninth Precinct in a scout car when Johnson's wife and sister-in-law stopped them and asked the policemen to escort them back to their home. It was then around 1:30 a. m., and the policemen immediately went to the Montello home to investigate.

Hold Johnson Aggressor.

The officers said that as the door of the Johnson home was opened, Johnson flew at Landrum, and the two grappled for some minutes before Johnson got his hands on an oak stick about four feet long and belabored Landrum.

From that time on, it was testified, there was much fighting. Only when Johnson had been knocked out did the scuffling stop. The officers took Johnson to the station house and then sent him to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland, prosecuting the case, developed through Johnson and his wife that the officers were asked to get out of the house by Johnson and that they refused. The case is expected to reach the hands of the jury late today. Both men are being tried on an indictment charging assault on Johnson.

Today's session will not begin until 1:30. Justice Proctor is scheduled to hear lunacy cases in the morning.

Laflin-Mostyn Ruling Today.

Policemen James A. Mostyn and William R. Laflin, who a short time ago were convicted of simple assault upon James Henry Harker, are scheduled to appear before Justice James M. Proctor this afternoon, when a motion for a new trial is to be disposed of.

If the motion is denied, it is expected that the two will then be sentenced, though they will be allowed to remain at liberty on bond pending an appeal.

A third police brutality case conviction came up yesterday when Detective Sergt. Robert J. Barrett filed a motion for a new trial. It was a formal petition and no action can be had on it until probably next week. Until that motion is disposed of there can be no sentence imposed.

Luncheon Directed By Officers' Wives

Mates of Cosmopolitan Club Heads Take Their Chairs.

Wives of the members of the Cosmopolitan Club, better known as the "Cosmopolitanettes," took charge of yesterday's meeting at the Carlton Hotel, the occasion being the annual "ladies' luncheon" of the organization. Mrs. Gordon Bonnette replaced her husband, president of the club, as presiding officer, and the wives of the various officers carried on their regular duties.

Mrs. Bonnette turned the meeting over to Mrs. Michael M. Doyle, wife of the international president of Cosmopolitan Clubs, who in turn handed the gavel over to Mrs. Fred Rice, wife of the chairman of the committee in charge of the luncheon. About 100 men and women were present.

Mrs. Bonnette, Mrs. Doyle, Mrs. Arthur William Defenderfer, wife of the vice president; Mrs. Harry Huntsberry, wife of the treasurer; Mrs. James E. Colliflower, Mrs. Fred J. Rice and Mrs. William H. Callahan, wives of former presidents; Mrs. C. Emory Galliher, Mrs. Ed A. Rule, Mrs. Robert E. Buckley and Mrs. William L. King, members of the luncheon committee, received the guests.

Warner Finishes Bicentennial Film

Chamber of Commerce Will Have Preview in January.

Completion of the bicentennial talking motion picture of Washington, sponsored by the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was announced yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the organization at the Washington Hotel.

A preview of the picture will be given to members of the chamber at a meeting in January at the Mayflower Hotel. Production of the picture by Warner Brothers was made possible through the interest of Will H. Hays. A committe of the chamber that laid the groundwork for the undertaking is headed by Thomas P. Littlepage, chairman; A. Julian Brylawski, and Sidney B. Lust.

The production story is based on the winning scenario of a contest conducted by the chamber. Scenes for the picture were taken in Washington early in November, principal locations being the Capitol, Mount Vernon and Georgetown. Clarence Whitehall, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, of New York, takes the role of George Washington.

Pies Downfall Of Industrial Home Quartet

Pies have been the joy, and in many cases the downfall, of youth since the first industrious housewife baked the first crust. They were the downfall last night of a quartet of boys who earlier in the day had walked away from the Industrial Home School.

A half dozen had left the school when they found two "lucky" pennies about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The six had kissed the pennies to bring more luck and decided that they could leave under this omen and not get caught.

But the pies intervened. About 9:30 o'clock last night Seventh Precinct police had a call from the Connecticut Lunch at Wisconsin avenue and O streets northwest, that four youths had raided the place and started throwing the pastry around. Police found pie all over the place and down the street picked up Robert Burrows, 15; William Sweeny, 15; Harry Kalivotinos, 15, and Bennie Petraria, 14, four of the six boys who had led the police a merry chase over the city all afternoon.

One of their number had been returned to the school earlier in the night when a headquarters cruiser car came upon five boys at Fourteenth street and Park road northwest. After a chase, Arthur Martin, 18, was captured, but the other five escaped.

The youngest of the six, John Booker, 13 years old, could not resist the temptation to go straight home, and he was returned to the school hours before the rest were caught.

After the capture of Booker and Martin the other four visited Burrows' mother and she told them that if they were not back at the school within half an hour she would find out why they weren't. The boys told police they were on their way back to school when they were caught at Wisconsin and O streets and denied throwing the pies.

They said they learned that Robert Duvall, Industrial Home School officer, was on their trail and eluded him by getting behind him and trailing him instead.

TALLEY DAY MURDER JURY IS DISMISSED

Unable to Reach Accord in Sweeney Hearing; Retrial Planned.

A "hung jury" yesterday brought to a halt the possibility of a decision as to the guilt or innocence of Elmer J. "Bulldog" Sweeney, on trial on a charge of murdering Talley Day, known as a small-time racketeer.

The jury deliberated the case 26 hours before the members were called before Justice James M. Proctor, to whom they reported a hopeless deadlock. At the time of reporting the jury stood 10 to 2 for conviction of Sweeney on a charge of manslaughter.

Members of the jury afterward said that the original voting had changed from 7 to 5 for manslaughter to 10 to 2 and there the matter stood. The two jurors who formed the minority were holding out for acquital.

Sweeney was tried on an indictment charging that on May 17 at 1523 M street northwest he shot Day, then a "bouncer" for a well-known Maryland gambling resort. The testimony of the case was to the effect that Sweeney fired a single shot at Day after the latter had fired several shots in the general direction of Sweeney.

Defense attorneys Bert Emerson and H. R. Stephenson, confident of an acquital on the grounds of self-defense, did not put any witnesses on the stand. They relied upon the testimony of witnesses produced by Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland to support their contention that their client had fired at Day only after Day had fired at him at close range.

Sweeney will be tried again on the same indictment.

'Christmas Bazaar' Will Open Tonight

Bride to Switch Lights on Fourteenth Street Decorations.

William W. Bride, corporation counsel, will officially open the "Christmas Bazaar," on Fourteenth street from Florida avenue to Thomas Circle, tonight at 8 o'clock when he throws the switch that will light the Christmas tree at Fourteenth street and Vermont avenue.

The bazaar is being sponsored by the Central Business Men's Association. A parade of 3,600 marchers, a dozen bands, and over 200 decorated trucks and floats, will precede the lighting of the tree.

Prizes will be awarded for the best dressed floats and private automobiles, marchers, clowns and other participants in the parade.

Boy Robs Two Women In Auto and Escapes

Two women were robbed yesterday by a small colored boy who leaped on the running board of their car and then dipped into the rumble seat and fished out a pocketbook containing $15, as the machine slowed up to make a left turn.

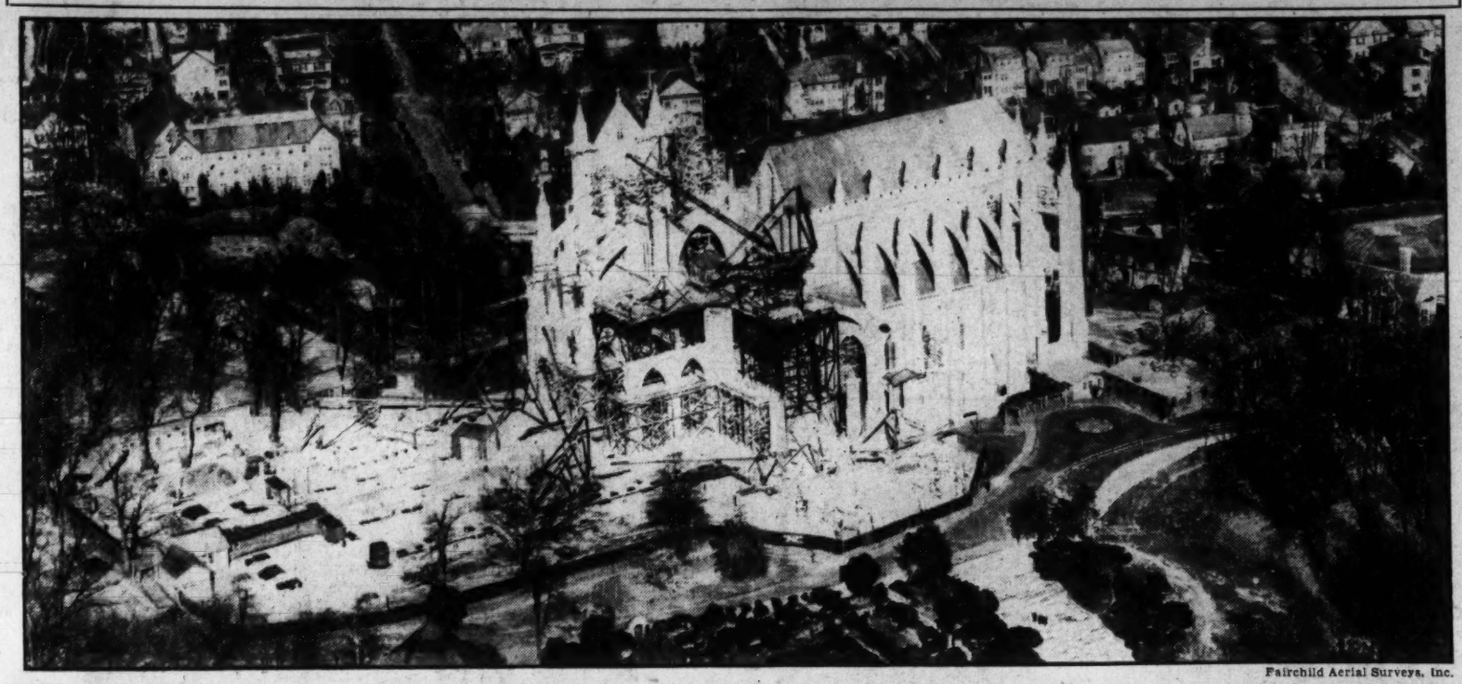
Mrs. Kitty Pazen and Mrs. William Earl, of Fairfax, Va., were making a left turn from L street into Fifteenth street northwest when the boy made a grab for the purse. He disappeared up an alley and Mrs. Pazen, who was driving, attempted to chase him in the car, but the alley was too small. The boy escaped.

Cab Driver Is Robbed Of His Day's Receipts

Two colored men last night held up Oswald Boteler, 22 years old, of 507 Twelfth street southeast, and relieved him of his day's receipts, $7.

The cab driver told police the two men took his cab on U street between Sixth and Seventh streets northwest, and told him to drive to Twenty-second and B streets northwest. There one of the men placed a pistol at his back while the other rifled his pockets.

Skyviews of Washington—No. 41



Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

THIS recent picture of the Washington Cathedral shows the present state of the construction which began years ago. The north transept, which projects at right angles from the upper side of the body of the building, is nearly finished, the picture shows. Inside the fence which surrounds the buildings are the rows of cut stone which remain to be put in place.

At the extreme bottom of the picture, in the center, can be seen the formal gardens which have recently been set out. In these is the English yew tree which is Britain's gift to the cathedral. At the bottom of the right end of the cathedral is the entrance to Bethlehem chapel, in which former President Wilson is buried and which is the only part of the structure in use. The entrance is approached by the covered walk.

To the right of the cathedral is a two-storied, half-timbered house, the College of Preachers. It lies just inside the fence, which surrounds the grounds on the side away from Wisconsin avenue.

The formal gardens at the bottom of the picture are the Bishop's Gardens. The roof of the summer house can just be seen at the left of the gardens.

CLIFTON TERRACE SOLD FOR $750,000

Large Apartment Property Bid In by New York Life at Auction.

Clifton Terrace, a group of three five-story brick apartment buildings occupying the entire frontage on the south side of Clifton street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets northwest, was sold at public auction yesterday for $750,000, Spencer Gordon, local attorney, offering the sole bid as representative of the purchaser, the New York Life Insurance Co., holder of the first trust on the property, which has a total current assessed valuation of $1,358,833. The sale was advertised by the Washington Loan & Trust Co., as trustee, and Vernon G. Owen was the auctioneer.

Harry Wardman was the builder and original owner of the buildings. The east and center structures were erected in 1914, and the western a year later. F. R. White was the architect of the first named two and A. M. Schneider & Co. for the third. All the buildings are 189 feet wide and 117 feet deep, and their original estimated cost was $300,000 each. The three buildings contain 276 apartments and seven stores.

District building records list the following as successive owners of the property: Harry Wardman and Thomas Bones, Henrietta M. Halliday, Riker Realty Co., Inc., Felix Lake, Nannie E. Goss, Clifton Terrace Corporation, Garfield A. Street and Thomas W. Stubblefield, Thomas W. Stubblefield, Maurice Baskin, Bella Baskin, American Realty & Improvement Co., Inc., and Emory L. Coblentz, trustee.

Fight for Rights, Veterans Urged

Former Senator Tells Soldiers of 1898 They Are to Be Slighted.

There never was a time when it was more imperative for veterans of the Spanish-American War to organize and fight for their rights, former Senator Rice W. Means, of Colorado, declared at a rally of veterans of the Spanish War at Harding Hall, in the Government Printing Office, last night.

Mr. Means declared that President Hoover's message is a clear indication that the veterans are to be slighted and that the organized forces of business and bankers are ready to reap the benefits. For this reason, he said, it is the duty of every Spanish War veteran who does not belong to his veterans' organization to join immediately.

The speaker estimated that nearly 400 veterans in and near Washington do not belong to the United Spanish War Veterans organization, and that out of 200,000 living in the United States 79,000 are not members. Several hundred men and women attended the rally.

Kenyon Street Bus Line Row Settled

Grinding Gears Still Cause Complaints From Citizens of That Area.

The celebrated Park Road Bus Line controversy was settled yesterday so far as the Public Utilities Commission is concerned, but it still is a cause for complaint for the residents of Kenyon street between Eighteenth street and Adams Mill road.

Upon advice of the District traffic coordinating committee, of which Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer is chairman, the commission denied all applications for a change in route. Previously, it had moved the bus line to Lamont street following a public hearing only to stir up vigorous protests from the Lamont street residents.

Residents of Kenyon street contend that the grinding of the bus gears and the roar of its motors as it climbs the grade disturbs them, particularly in the morning.

Bicentennial Guide Service Is Arranged

The District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission yesterday authorized the American Automobile Association to organize and direct an expert guide service in the District from February 22 to November 24.

G. W. U. Troubadours Win Praise on Opening Season

Catchy Numbers and Well-Drilled Group of Chorus Numbers Find Receptive Audience; Style Show Is One of Features.

With a bunch of new songs and a well-drilled group of chorus numbers, the George Washington University Troubadours last night found a receptive audience for their 1931 original opus, "Happy Landings."

The show, under the coaching of Denis E. Connell, broke forth with two catchy numbers, "I'll be on the Up and Up With You," and the theme song, "We'll Come Smiling Through."

The musical production was written around the activities of students at a flying school and much of the action took place with aviation as a background. The leads were capably done by Miss Ruth Molyneaux as Vivienne Driscoll and Bert Bagranoff as Richard Harlowe, an instructor in aviation.

A specialty dance, arranged by J. George Wenzl and presented by Marjorie Mitchell, Steve Nyman and Ralph Kennedy, was another feature which drew the approbation of the audience. There was a capable chorus of 34 George Washington coeds to back up the leading characters with a number of tricky dance numbers.

A style show with gowns from Jelleff's presented with another group of coeds as models had much to do with heightening the interest of the production. The models were Harriett Atwell, Clara Critchfield, Adele Gusach, Betty Jacobs, Barbara Jones, Lee McNeil, Edith Mish, Peggy Padgett, Gertrude Padgett, Pauline Schaub, Betty Ship and Ruth Warren.

The show will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night at McKinley High School Auditorium.

Abbott Extradition Papers Prepared

Gov. Ritchie Will Get Documents for Alleged Murderer Today.

Extradition papers to bring Peter Abbott, suspect in the Bladensburg tea house murder, back to Prince Georges County were prepared yesterday by State's Attorney Alan Bowie.

They will be sent to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie today and from him will go to Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania. Abbott is being held in Philadelphia, where he was arrested.

Mrs. Verne Edwards, who was wounded in the shooting, was brought back to Baltimore under police protection yesterday after she had identified Abbott as one of the bandit gang. She was released on her personal bond to go to Philadelphia, but a police escort was provided in case reprisals for her identification were attempted. Threats made against the witnesses to the shooting were blamed for silence of others present during the gun battle which killed one and wounded five.

Whether or not the grand jury will be called for a special session to hear the evidence against Abbott has not been decided, but it is not considered likely.

Capital Promotion Is Urged by Wood

Washington Has Not Been Aggressive in Advertising, Radio Speaker Says.

Washington has a much greater opportunity for promotional activities than many of the more highly advertised cities, but its residents have not been as aggressive as some of these other cities in carrying forward this work, George A. G. Wood, vice president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, declared in an address over Station WMAL last night.

Mr. Wood pointed out that it is the purpose of the five-year expansion program of the chamber, which is now starting in the second year, to help make Washington known to the rest of the country. The Capital, he observed, is competing with other cities for the tourist interest of Americans just as one firm competes with another.

The expansion program of the chamber is a definite vehicle for the banding together of business groups in the District to advertise the advantages of the city, Mr. Wood told his audience. He pointed out that there is an "outstanding" opportunity to make Washington a cultural center for the arts and crafts.

TAXIMETER ORDER SANCTION FORECAST

District and Cab Interests Both Seek Advance in Hearing Date.

Officials of the Public Utilities Commission expressed confidence yesterday that the new taxicab order requiring all cabs to install meters will go into effect as scheduled on January 10 as a result of motions filed in District Supreme Court to advance the date of hearing appeals from the order.

Motions to advance the trial were filed both by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and counsel for the Bell and City Cab Companies yesterday. The commission's attorney also asked that the two appeals be consolidated, and at the same time he filed answers to both suits.

Meanwhile, the commission's staff is conducting a check-up on the mechanical and sanitary condition of the more than 5,000 cabs preparatory to issuing the 1932 permits under the strict provisions of the new regulations. Permits will be refused all operators who do not comply with these requirements as to cabs and drivers, officials said.

William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, yesterday named four members of his committee to appear as friends of the court in favor of the zone system in the suits now pending. The action was ordered last Saturday night by the federation. The four are George E. Sullivan, Henry I. Quinn, Clayton E. Emig and Allan Fisher.

Humphrey Chamblin Is Dead at Winchester

Special to The Washington Post.

Bluemont, Va., Dec. 10.—Humphrey Chamblin, 63 years old, died at 7 o'clock tonight at the Winchester Memorial Hospital from heart disease. He had been ill for several months and was taken to the hospital several days ago after a severe attack.

Mr. Chamblin for many years was manager of the Upperville Horse and Colt Show, the oldest association in the United States. He was the son of Albert and Susan Chamblin and was a native of Loudoun County. He is survived by his wife. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Police Arrest Trio And Seize Alcohol

Raiders of Third Precinct Halt Auto Party in Alleged Rum Delivery.

Three men were arrested last night on a charge of possession of liquor when two of the men attempted, police said, to deliver a five-gallon tin of alcohol to the third man at Twenty-first and Florida avenue northwest.

Policemen William McEwen and W. D. Perry, of the Third Precinct liquor squad, said they were observing Walter Frix, 31 years old, of 1418 M street northwest, one of the men held, when a roadster drove up to the curb. Samuel Franks, 29 years old, of 2523 Fourteenth street northwest, got out, they said, and got the liquor tin out from a concealed trap in the car.

In addition to Frix and Franks, William Weaver, 26 years old, of 2611 Adams Mill road northwest, alleged driver of the car, was arrested. Police said they found four additional five-gallon tins of alcohol in the car.

Republic Clubs Plan Annual Celebration

The first annual celebration of the Sons and Daughters of the Republic Clubs, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Wilson Normal School, Eleventh and Harvard streets northwest.

A program of songs, dances and music will be presented by members of the clubs from Friendship House.

Thieves Raid Newspaper Racks.

Thieves yesterday cut the locks from paper racks on five streets in the Northwest section of the city and stole about $20 in pennies. The racks that were raided are on Illinois avenue, Georgia avenue, New Hampshire avenue, Rock Creek Church road and Upshur street.

'Dope Panic' Gripping Capital, Chief Avows

Recent activities of the Bureau of Narcotics have sent Washington into the throes of what in underworld parlance is known as a "dope panic," Harry J. Anslinger, chief of the Bureau, told members of Sigma Nu Phi fraternity here last night.

"Even the petty street-corner peddlers, too small to be noticed by the Bureau which is out after big game, have quit the racket and dope is practically unobtainable here except by well-known addicts, and then only in small quantities," he said, adding that during the past year the Bureau has confiscated more than 3½ tons of narcotics, or "more than in the previous 10 years."

Mr. Anslinger voiced approval of the La Guardia bill now pending in Congress which would give the Customs Office power to hold up and examine all imports from any nation suspected of failing to obey the "import and export certificate" clause of the Geneva narcotics treaty. The bill, he pointed out, would safeguard the United States against illicit shipments of narcotics from abroad which now constitute the entire supply of addicts, since "the United States has perfect control of its own manufactures and distribution."

TAX-SOLD PROPERTY GRACE TO BE SOUGHT

Attorney Draws Bill for Extension by One Year in Emergency.

Persons whose property has been advertised for sale for nonpayment of District of Columbia tax bills will have an additional year's grace if a bill, to be introduced in Congress within the next few days, becomes law.

The resolution, as drafted by Jesse C. Duke, local attorney, at the request of a member of Congress, is designed to provide for a one-year extension of time before the sale of real property in the District of Columbia on account of arrears in taxes.

In a summary of arguments that have been assembled in support of the measure, the fact is stressed that it is designed for an emergency measure only, and made advisable by the current economic situation.

It is generally known that property can be repossessed by the original owner within two years after its sale for nonpayment of taxes, but many of the deeds of trust upon real estate also have provisions that will permit the sale of the homes and other real estate under deeds of trust, if and when they are sold for taxes.

$100 Cash and Food To Aid Unemployed

Donation Party Is Given by Southeast Community Center Group.

More than $100 in cash and foodstuffs was gathered together for the unemployed last night through a Donation Party given by the Southeast Community Center at the Buchanan School Auditorium. Admission was gained by about 250 persons either through payment of 25 cents cash or presentation of some form of nourishment for those out of work.

All of the entertainment, including music for dancing by "Alice and Her Wonderland Boys," was donated for the affair, which was arranged by Mrs. H. E. Cournyn, as chairman. The entertainment included a comedy, "The Baby Show," presented by the Southeast Adult Drama Club, and other special features.

The food collected through the Community Center will be distributed to families of the jobless by the Food Conservation Unit of the District Committee on Unemployment.

WOMAN LEGISLATOR URGES MORE POWER FOR POLICE BOARD

Mrs. Norton, of New Jersey, Offers Two District Bills in House.

OTHER MEASURE DEALS WITH COMMISSION AID

Plea Is Made in Senate to Allow Residents of Capital Vote Right.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, representative from New Jersey, who has taken a large share of the District's responsibilities on her shoulders, yesterday demonstrated her interest in local affairs by introducing two bills in the House, the first she has put forward this session.

Mrs. Norton, who as chairman of the House District committee, will become the first woman ever to hold such office, asked the House to grant District police and Fire Department trial boards authority to subpena witnesses.

The trial boards, under the bill, could compel witnesses to produce required documents. Heretofore failure of witnesses to testify was reported to Police Court, which had no power to do anything about it. Under the proposed bill report would be made to the District Supreme Court, which has the necessary authority.

Second Measure.

She introduced another bill to relieve the Commissioners of certain ministerial duties, authorizing the secretary of the board to execute deeds, contracts and papers in their name.

Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, who as chairman of the Senate District committee, will share Mrs. Norton's responsibilities, added to the large block of local bills he has already introduced when he proposed a bill to incorporate the District Bicentennial Commission, sponsored by the District Commissioners and Dr. George C. Havenner, vice chairman of the District Bicentennial Commission.

Under its terms, the local commission would have power to buy or construct platforms and to manufacture or buy flags, posters, &c. Funds would be raised through sale of programs, seats and concessions. He also put forward another bill for the repair of Casualty Hospital.

Pay Visit to Capper.

Commissioners Crosby and Reichelderfer, Corporation Counsel Bride and Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant to the Engineer Commissioner, who Wednesday visited Mrs. Norton, yesterday paid a courtesy call on Senator Capper.

The District of Columbia would be included in the territory embraced by the judicial district of the United States District Court of Maryland, under provisions of a bill introduced by Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York. The court would have concurrent jurisdiction in all criminal cases with the courts of the District of Columbia.

In the Senate a joint resolution was proposed by Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), of Washington, which would give the people of the District representation in the House and Senate, and the right to vote for President and Vice President. The resolution calls for a constitutional amendment empowering Congress to grant the District representation. A similar resolution was considered in committee at the last session.

Other Proposals.

Representative Robert Luce (Republican), of Massachusetts, proposed appointment of a commission by the President to consider the question of a World War memorial in the District, while Representative Harold Knutson (Republican), of Minnesota, put forward a bill to create a parkway at the District terminus of the Arlington Memorial Bridge, extending along B street northwest from the Potomac River to a point north of the Washington Monument.

A number of other local bills were introduced, including one by Representative Harry A. Estep (Republican), of Pennsylvania, to make Flag Day, June 14, a holiday in the District. Senator Charles L. McNary (Republican), of Oregon, introduced a bill to appropriate $200,000 to create Agriculture Department's proposed national arboretum. Another bill would bring the late Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, to Washington, and anchor it in the Tidal Basin.

Columbia Heights Lights Yule Tree

Eighteenth Street and Columbia Road Section Open Holiday Season.

Santa Claus arrived at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest last night when 200 lights were illuminated on a Christmas tree in front of the Riggs National Bank and gay music from amplifiers on the tops of buildings mingled with the sound of traffic at the busy intersection. The lights were turned on by Mrs. L. E. Collier.

At a meeting of the Eighteenth Street and Columbia Road Business Men's Association after the Christmas tree lighting eleven new members were taken into the organization and new officers were elected. Samuel S. Blick was reelected president for a second term; Stanley F. Holland, first vice president; Mrs. L. E. Collier, second vice president, and Lionel Kaplin, secretary and treasurer.

The association voted to make an effort early next year to have one-hour parking restored in the section throughout the day. Parking is now banned between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Woman's Purse Stolen From Kitchen.

Mary A. Mulquine, 24 I street northwest, reported to police yesterday that her pocketbook containing $13 was stolen from the top of the ice box in her kitchen. She reported the pocketbook was missed shortly after a man came to the house and posed as the electric light meter reader.
